Death For Draft Is Threatened

Induction Delay Until Next Year OK'd By House

Final Vote Set For Today; Adjournment Plans Threatened

WASHINGTON, June 17 (AP) — Roaring arguments in Congress tonight threatened death for the draft and other major legislation.

The House, amid scenes of bitterness, tacked an amendment to the proposed selective service bill postponing any inductions until after January 31, 1949.

Then Rep. Marcantonio (AL-NY), a Henry Wallace backer and foe of any draft bill, blocked leaders' attempts to get a final vote on the measure tonight. The House recessed until tomorrow, with the fate of the measure very much in doubt.

The Senate struggled on for hours. It passed 79 to 3, a long-range farm bill, revising the present system of government supports for farm prices. This now goes to the House, which has voted an 18-month extension of the present support program, which expires at the end of this year. Leaders hope for a quick agreement between the two chambers.

Then the Senate, in about seven minutes flat, approved a $6,915,676,052 fund for the Army, Air Force and related defense agencies. This now goes to the House, which voted $405,737,052 less.

At 10:31, EST, the weary senators knocked off for the night.

Earlier a Senate-House conference committee reached a compromise on the much-debated issue of displaced persons. It would allow 205,000 homeless Europeans into this country in the next two years. The [illegible] is subject to Senate and House ratification.

Plenty of controversies remained. The situation was such that Republican leaders said it was "somewhat doubtful" whether Congress can quit work for the year on Saturday night as planned.

House Speaker Martin (R-Mass) told newsmen he was "not optimistic" over the chances of quitting this week.

Sen. Taft (R-Ohio), chairman of the GOP Policy Committee, agreed with Martin that the prospects are "somewhat doubtful right now."

Taft said Congress will remain in session, taking a recess for the Republican national convention next week, if an attempt is made to kill the draft by filibuster.

Sen. Taylor (D-Idaho) already had announced his intention of staging just such a filibuster in an attempt to talk the draft to death.

Lawmakers were in the fighting, end-of-session mood. Before heading into the selective service row, they overrode the third presidential veto in four days. And they grappled with other problems: Housing, farm prices, foreign aid.

But the 19-through-25 draft bill

Divorcee Asks Dismissal Of Suit Against Folsom

CULLMAN, Ala., June 17 (AP)—An Alabama divorcee has changed her mind about her court fight to have Gov. James E. Folsom declared her common law husband and the father of her small son.

Mrs. Christine Putman Johnston, red-haired former Birmingham hotel employe, asked dismissal of the case in a motion filed in Circuit Court.

Her brother, Carter C. Putman, made a similar motion on behalf of James Douglas Johnston. Putman filed the original suit for the boy as "next friend."

Mrs. Johnston said in her motion she has "come to realize" that she "is being used as a political tool with which to fight James E. Folsom." She said they 'never lived together as man and wife."

Legislative Box Score

WASHINGTON, June 17—(AP)—Here is the status of the most important bills pending in Congress:

FARM — House has passed bill extending present farm support program. Senate tonight passed bill setting up permanent support program.

ANTI-COMMUNIST — Mundt-Nixon bill passed by house, apparently dead in Senate.

DISPLACED PERSONS — Compromise bill admitting 205,000 DPs, orphans and refugees from Czechoslovakia submitted to both Houses by conference committee.

OLEO TAX REPEAL — Passed by House, outlook doubtful in Senate.

Stassen's Claim He'll Win By Ninth Ballot Challenged

Platform Group Runs Into Civil Rights Row

PHILADELPHIA, June 17—(AP)—Convention-conscious Philadelphia heard Harold E. Stassen roar into town today behind a horn-blowing motorcade.

The sandy-haired Minnesotan precipitated an immediate controversy over who would receive the Republican presidential nomination and on what ballot.

He told an early morning news conference that he would be third man on the first ballot but repeated he would win by the ninth.

Camps of other major contenders immediately challenged this.

Supporters of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey predicted nomination of the New Yorker on an "early ballot."

Backers of Sen. Robert A. Taft claimed that while the Ohioan and Dewey would be about equal on the first ballot, Taft would show greater "reserve strength" and would go on to victory on or before the seventh roll call.

Platform Committee Organized

With delegates and party bigwigs arriving in increasing numbers for the national convention starting Monday, there were other developments outside the realm of personalities. For example:

1—A platform committee was organized under the chairmanship of Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., of Massachusetts. It immediately ran into a row over the civil rights and race issue. Until now, this has been more or less an exclusive intra-party squabble with the Democrats.

2—Alf M. Landon, the GOP 1936 presidential candidate, told a reporter the Republicans should pick a 1948 standard bearer who is "thoroughly in agreement" with the record of the GOP Congress. Landon declined to say who he favored, but friends indicated as of now he leans towards Sen. Taft, House Speaker Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts, and Gov. Dewey, in that order.

3—The party's National Committee began hearing five delegate seating contests in mid-afternoon

Truman Denounces GOP "Emasculating" Tactics, Promises More Vetoes

Congress "Hunting For Boom And Bust"

ABOARD TRUMAN TRAIN EN ROUTE TO WASHINGTON, June 17 (AP)—President Truman tonight accused the Republican leadership of restricting the House to action on only "emasculated housing legislation."

The President made his accusation at Indianapolis in the course of a speech to an audience drawn up around his private car.

"It will be tragic if the comprehensive housing legislation which has been so long considered and which has come to the verge of final passage should be blocked by parliamentary devices which thwart the democratic process," he said.

"But if this is to be the case, the American people should know just how it was done and by whom," he added.

The President said:

"The Republican leadership has thus decreed that the House shall vote only upon the emasculated housing legislation which the Republican leadership wants, and that it shall never be allowed to vote upon the kind of housing legislation which the people of this country need and want."

Threatens More Vetoes

Earlier, in a speech at East St. Louis, Ill., the President snapped back at Congress for overriding his vetoes, and threatened new ones and accused legislators of "hunting for a boom and a bust."

He told a large crowd at the railroad station he was returning to the White House "to veto some more bills."

The President said that "the special interests apparently are determined to emasculate the Labor Department."

He said the Congress had just overridden his veto of one measure

Detachment Of 50 U.N. Guards To Be Sent To Palestine

Seen As Step Toward World Police Force

LAKE SUCCESS, June 17 (AP) — The United Nations disclosed today 50 members of its headquarters security force are being sent to Palestine for emergency duty.

This represents the first time a uniformed United Nations force of any kind has been assigned to assist in the world organization's peace projects abroad.

While the 50-man detachment is not an international military force in the strict sense of the term, it does constitute at least a step toward a world police force.

Informed quarters said Secretary-General Trygve Lie might send other contingents to join this group.

N. Y. Officers May Be Borrowed

He was understood to have consulted Mayor O'Dwyer last night about the possibility of borrowing a small force of New York parole officers. A United Nations official said this possibility had not yet been dropped.

The guards will be flown to Cairo Saturday by chartered plane and will be placed under orders of Count Folke Bernadotte, United Nations Palestine mediator. It was an urgent request from Bernadotte that led to Lie's decision on the guards.

Meanwhile, Cairo dispatches said there were reports Count Bernadotte might ask for a prolongation of the four-week truce.

Bernadotte flew from Cairo to Tel Aviv today to seek the co-operation of Israel's leaders in proposed negotiations at Rhodes for a permanent peace in the Holy Land.

Arabs Are Reassured

Before leaving Cairo, Bernadotte promised that "necessary measures" would be taken to restore the military situation to what it was at the truce hour eight days ago. The

Yugoslavs Still Holding Five American Soldiers

TRIESTE, June 17 (AP)—The United States Army said tonight the Yugoslavs still were holding five American soldiers and an Italian civilian as prisoners.

The six were seized Tuesday while cruising in an Army launch in the Adriatic near Punta Grossa, Istria, a few miles below Trieste.

Dog "Dressed Up" By Child Wanders Off With Jewels

BRUNSWICK, Ga., June 17 (AP)—The four-year-old daughter of Mrs. E. C. Tike "dressed up" a dog that came to their St. Simons Island home.

She used her mother's finery, including an heirloom diamond lavalier. But the dog got tired of playing and wandered off.

Today Mrs. Tike and an insurance company offered a $1,000 reward. Value of the lavalier was not announced.

Kuhn Recaptured By German Police

MUNICH, June 17 (AP) — Fritz Kuhn, deported German-American Bund chief, was recaptured by German police today while trying to get a license to operate a chemist's laboratory.

"If you hadn't worked for a guy like Hitler you wouldn't be here today," he was told by Munich Police President Franz Fitzer.

"Who would have known that it would end like this," Kuhn replied.

Kuhn was seized in the French zone town of Bernkastel near Trier four and a half months after he escaped from Dachau internment camp where he was awaiting trial before a German denazification court.

He faces ten years at hard labor, the sentence the court handed down in his absence on April 20.

Kuhn said today he considered the 10-year sentence as a "major Nazi offender" was unfair and that he intended to appeal it.

How Kuhn escaped has never been officially explained, although there was an investigation, and the camp director, Anton Zirngibl, was fired.

Kuhn told reporters, "The door was open and so I went through."

He said his romance with blonde Waitress Frau Hedwig Munz, employe of a United States Army snack bar, was "all finished."

"I am staying with my wife from now on," he declared.

Big Labor Group Orders General Strike In France

One-Hour Walkout Set For Tomorrow

PARIS, June 17 (AP)—The powerful, Communist-dominated General Confederation of Labor today called a one-hour general strike throughout France for Saturday in sympathy with striking workers in Clermont-Ferrand.

Token strikes, most of them only a half-hour or an hour long, continued to break out throughout France today as sympathy gestures toward the Clermont-Ferrand rubber employes.

Workers in many plants indirectly joined in the movement by starting their "vacations." In France many establishments close down and all employes take their vacations at the same time.

No Reports Of New Violence

But there were no reports of violence throughout the day and the conference table appeared to be replacing street fights in France's troubled labor situation.

In Paris, mobile guardsmen and police were posted around the Chamber of Deputies as many delegations of workers called on duties. The workers protested against police activities during the rioting at Clermont-Ferrand, in Central France, Tuesday night when 400 persons were injured.

The Associated Press was forced to send its dispatches from the city by Wirephoto because of a telephone tieup.

At Cleremont-Ferrand, union and management officials worked to iron out their differences, begun as request for wage increases.

The two-day strike has resulted in the arrest of some 100 persons.

General Strike Ineffective

The Local Confederation of Labor's call for a general strike was ineffective, however, and about 30 per cent of the city's shops stayed open for business.

An official indicated police might

Minister Who Wed Lana, Bob Ordered Rebuked

PASADENA, Calif., June 17 (AP)—The minister who married Lana Turner and Bob Topping was ordered rebuked today by the judicial commission of the Los Angeles Presbytery.

The church group also enjoined Dr. Stewart P. MacLennan "to be more watchful in the future."

Rebuke is the second lightest censure given by the church. Starting with admonition, punishment ranges through rebuke, suspension and deposition to excommunication.

Rev. Dr. MacClennan said he believed that Lana and Bob were sincere and that he acted in good faith in performing the ceremony April 26. He was accused of violating a Presbyterian decree forbidding a clergyman from marrying divorced persons within a year after divorce.

Earl Carroll, Mrs. Jack Oakie Among Victims; Plane Strikes Power Line And Disintegrates

Big Ship Attempting Emergency Landing Near Mt. Carmel, Pa.

MT. CARMEL, Pa., June 17 (AP)—A United Airlines' DC-6 plane smashed into a power line and exploded in flames today, ripping to bits the body of Theatrical Producer Earl Carroll and all other 42 persons aboard.

Wreckage of the San Diego to New York airliner sprawled over an acre of woodland near this Eastern Pennsylvania anthracite community.

Bodies of most of the 39 passengers, including two infants, and four crew members were burned or torn beyond recognition.

Eye-witness Harry Stibitz gave this description:

"Flames and smoke flew about 90 feet in the air. The whole scene looked like a living hell."

Sheriff Ray E. Lehr picked up a signet ring, its initials partially obliterated by the intense heat from a series of explosions.

"Holy smokes, that must have been a furnace," he exclaimed. "I saw 39 men fry to death in the bombing of the Marblehead in the South Pacific during the war—but this is worse."

State police said the plane burst into flames after hitting the wire which carried 60,000 volts. Then it caromed 200 feet into a hillside.

Attempting Emergency Landing

The ill-fated ship, flying 30 feet off the ground, was attempting an emergency landing after one of its motors caught fire. It rammed into a transformer on the high tension wire at 12:41, Eastern Standard Time.

Time of the crackup was fixed with complete accuracy as a clock at the Midvalley colliery of the Jeddo-Highland Coal Company stopped. Its wires were slashed as the plane crashed.

Eighty miners, working at the colliery, were shaken as Capt. George Warner, Jr., pilot, veered away from the anthracite breaker which extended 265 feet into the air.

Mrs. George Warner, Jr., Chicago, wife of the pilot, told a sister in New Orleans that she heard her husband say over the radio:

"I'm going down."

Then there was silence. She explained she always listened to her husband's radio chatter as he piloted his plane from coast to coast.

Mrs. Jack Oakie Aboard

Mrs. Jack Oakie, divorced wife of the film comedian, and Actress Beryl Wallace were among the passengers. But their bodies, like those of the others, were unrecognizable.

Scattered about the flaming area were watches, rings, bracelets, articles of clothing.

DC-6 planes were ordered out of the air after a fatal crackup in Utah and a near-wreck in New Mexico last year. The planes were permitted back in the air last March 15 after being grounded for five months.

Franklin Kane, city editor of the Ashland (Pa.) News, one of the first persons to reach the spot, described what he saw as "a scene of devastation and death."

Harry Stibitz said he was standing about 50 feet from the power line when the plane struck it.

"I turned to look up," he said, "and saw a mass of fire, explosions, plane wreckage and bodies hurling through the air."

"Flames and smoke flew about 90 feet in the air. The whole scene looked like a living hell."

Flesh, Bone Scattered By Plane Crash

MT. CARMEL, Pa., June 17 (AP)—There is no such thing as a whole body in the desolation left by the crash of a United Airlines plane in this little mining community.

Legs, arms, fingers, heads were strewn about leaving a hopeless task for Coroner John Evans. A shocked Rev. P. J. Phelan, of nearby Centralia, walked among the victims—or what was left of them—trying to find enough over which to administer final rites.

Scattered about the flaming area of more than an acre of scrub land were articles that only minutes earlier adorned the personages of living people. Watches, rings, bracelets, articles of clothing were gathered up by somber, awe-stricken spectators.

Visibly shaken were the 80 workers who came close to death when the stricken plane barely missed crashing into a colliery breaker in which they were working.

Capt. George Warner, Jr., pilot of the ill-fated plane, crashed after veering away from the breaker which extended 265 feet into the air.

George Bolich, Sr., 47, Wilburton, Pa., was operating a mine locomotive with Jack Bradley, Catawissa, Pa., when he saw the plane coming in about 100 feet from the ground.

"I sure was afraid when he winged over my head. After he hit it was quiet except for the licking of flames. That was just about the worst thing I ever saw."

"It shook the whole colliery office building," said Clerk John D. Carey, Lost Creek, Pa.

"Some of our men ran up the bank but everything was burning in a wide area," he said.

Joseph De Melfi, 41-year-old railroad worker, said, "We heard an awful roar in the sky. We glanced up as the plane seemed to be coming down in a glide and then it struck the high tension wire. It was terrible."

There were two telephone repairmen working on a nearby hillside. One, William Davis, a former Air Corps man, said he knew something was wrong when he saw that big plane bank at a 45 degree angle.

"A moment later we saw black smoke rising a few miles away," Davis said.

Mine Car Pileup Fatal To One Man

WELCH, W. Va., June 17 (AP)—Twelve men were in hospitals tonight as a result of an underground wreck of coal mine cars in which one man died.

Killed last night in the Olga Coal Company mine at Caretta, 10 miles west of here, was Walter R. Powers, 35, also known as Walter Boatwright.

In critical condition in a Welch hospital was Johnny Riffe, Yukon.

Eleven other miners were in hospitals here, but none was listed as critically hurt. Five men hurt in the accident did not need hospital treatment.

Miners told this story of the accident:

A string of 10 loaded coal cars broke loose going downgrade and crashed into the rear of a three-car train of equipment. The equipment cars in turn rammed into the rear of a "man trip"—three cars carrying miners to the shaft leading from the mine.

BALTIMORE, June 17 (AP) — Attorney General Hall Hammond appointed J. Edgar Harvey, Salisbury, today to be his deputy. Harvey succeeds Richard W. Emory, who resigned as deputy attorney general last Tuesday.

Fourth Worst Crash In U. S. Air History

NEW YORK, June 17 (AP) — The toll of 43 dead in a United Airlines plane crash near Mt. Carmel, Pa., today has been exceeded by only three other crashes in domestic air history.

Other severe crashes and their toll in lives are:

May 30, 1947, an Eastern Airlines plane near Port Deposit, Md., 53.

Oct. 24, 1947, a United Airlines plane, Bryce Canyon, Utah, 52.

June 13, 1947, Capital airliner, Blue Ridge Mountains, Va., 50.

Decision For Radio Fans: Fight Or GOP Convention

". . . Reciprocal Trade Agreement Act. We must take the stand, we will take the stand, that any such revision must conform to . . ."

Hollywood Personalities' Deaths Stun Film Capital

HOLLYWOOD, June 17 (INS)—The motion picture capital was stunned tonight at reports of the deaths of Showman Earl Carroll and three other famous Hollywood personalities.

The 53-year-old Carroll for many years had been noted as a proponent of "the most beautiful girls in the world."

One of his "most beautiful," stately red-haired Beryl Wallace, died with the theatrical impressario in the firey crash of a United airliner in the Pennsylvania mountains.

Also reported killed were Venita Varden, beauteous former wife of Comedian Jack Oakie, and Remo Bufano, world-famous puppeteer.

Carroll, the son of Irish parents, began his role in show business while still attending high school in his native Pittsburgh, Pa.

He started giving penny-admission stage shows in the basement of his parents' home at the age of ten. Later he became acquainted with such old time theatrical greats as Sara Bernhardt and Richard Mansfield by peddling programs and working backstage after school hours.

He wrote and produced several stage shows in the early 1920s before catapulting to fame with the first of his Carroll Vanities in 1923.

Miss Wallace, a striking redhead, was born in Brooklyn about 40 years ago. She had been on the stage since the age of 13.

Generally considered one of Hollywood's most beautiful women, Miss Wallace had appeared in a number of movies, including "Johnny Eager."

Comedian Jack Oakie and his beauteous ex-wife, Venita Varden, were to have boarded the ill-fated plane together.

Big Ship Attempting Emergency Landing Near Mt. Carmel, Pa.

MT. CARMEL, Pa., June 17 (AP)—A United Airlines' DC-6 plane smashed into a power line and exploded in flames today, ripping to bits the body of Theatrical Producer Earl Carroll and all other 42 persons aboard.

Wreckage of the San Diego to New York airliner sprawled over an acre of woodland near this Eastern Pennsylvania anthracite community.

Bodies of most of the 39 passengers, including two infants, and four crew members were burned or torn beyond recognition.

Eye-witness Harry Stibitz gave this description:

"Flames and smoke flew about 90 feet in the air. The whole scene looked like a living hell."

Sheriff Ray E. Lehr picked up a signet ring, its initials partially obliterated by the intense heat from a series of explosions.

"Holy smokes, that must have been a furnace," he exclaimed. "I saw 39 men fry to death in the bombing of the Marblehead in the South Pacific during the war—but this is worse."

State police said the plane burst into flames after hitting the wire which carried 60,000 volts. Then it caromed 200 feet into a hillside.

Attempting Emergency Landing

The ill-fated ship, flying 30 feet off the ground, was attempting an emergency landing after one of its motors caught fire. It rammed into a transformer on the high tension wire at 12:41, Eastern Standard Time.

Time of the crackup was fixed with complete accuracy as a clock at the Midvalley colliery of the Jeddo-Highland Coal Company stopped. Its wires were slashed as the plane crashed.

Eighty miners, working at the colliery, were shaken as Capt. George Warner, Jr., pilot, veered away from the anthracite breaker which extended 265 feet into the air.

Mrs. George Warner, Jr., Chicago, wife of the pilot, told a sister in New Orleans that she heard her husband say over the radio:

"I'm going down."

Then there was silence. She explained she always listened to her husband's radio chatter as he piloted his plane from coast to coast.

Mrs. Jack Oakie Aboard

Mrs. Jack Oakie, divorced wife of the film comedian, and Actress Beryl Wallace were among the passengers. But their bodies, like those of the others, were unrecognizable.

Scattered about the flaming area were watches, rings, bracelets, articles of clothing.

DC-6 planes were ordered out of the air after a fatal crackup in Utah and a near-wreck in New Mexico last year. The planes were permitted back in the air last March 15 after being grounded for five months.

Franklin Kane, city editor of the Ashland (Pa.) News, one of the first persons to reach the spot, described what he saw as "a scene of devastation and death."

Harry Stibitz said he was standing about 50 feet from the power line when the plane struck it.

"I turned to look up," he said, "and saw a mass of fire, explosions, plane wreckage and bodies hurling through the air."

"Flames and smoke flew about 90 feet in the air. The whole scene looked like a living hell."

Stassen's Claim He'll Win By Ninth Ballot Challenged

Platform Group Runs Into Civil Rights Row

PHILADELPHIA, June 17—(AP)—Convention-conscious Philadelphia heard Harold E. Stassen roar into town today behind a horn-blowing motorcade.

The sandy-haired Minnesotan precipitated an immediate controversy over who would receive the Republican presidential nomination and on what ballot.

He told an early morning news conference that he would be third man on the first ballot but repeated he would win by the ninth.

Camps of other major contenders immediately challenged this.

Supporters of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey predicted nomination of the New Yorker on an "early ballot."

Backers of Sen. Robert A. Taft claimed that while the Ohioan and Dewey would be about equal on the first ballot, Taft would show greater "reserve strength" and would go on to victory on or before the seventh roll call.

Platform Committee Organized

With delegates and party bigwigs arriving in increasing numbers for the national convention starting Monday, there were other developments outside the realm of personalities. For example:

1—A platform committee was organized under the chairmanship of Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., of Massachusetts. It immediately ran into a row over the civil rights and race issue. Until now, this has been more or less an exclusive intra-party squabble with the Democrats.

2—Alf M. Landon, the GOP 1936 presidential candidate, told a reporter the Republicans should pick a 1948 standard bearer who is "thoroughly in agreement" with the record of the GOP Congress. Landon declined to say who he favored, but friends indicated as of now he leans towards Sen. Taft, House Speaker Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts, and Gov. Dewey, in that order.

3—The party's National Committee began hearing five delegate seating contests in mid-afternoon

Truman Denounces GOP "Emasculating" Tactics, Promises More Vetoes

Congress "Hunting For Boom And Bust"

ABOARD TRUMAN TRAIN EN ROUTE TO WASHINGTON, June 17 (AP)—President Truman tonight accused the Republican leadership of restricting the House to action on only "emasculated housing legislation."

The President made his accusation at Indianapolis in the course of a speech to an audience drawn up around his private car.

"It will be tragic if the comprehensive housing legislation which has been so long considered and which has come to the verge of final passage should be blocked by parliamentary devices which thwart the democratic process," he said.

"But if this is to be the case, the American people should know just how it was done and by whom," he added.

The President said:

"The Republican leadership has thus decreed that the House shall vote only upon the emasculated housing legislation which the Republican leadership wants, and that it shall never be allowed to vote upon the kind of housing legislation which the people of this country need and want."

Threatens More Vetoes

Earlier, in a speech at East St. Louis, Ill., the President snapped back at Congress for overriding his vetoes, and threatened new ones and accused legislators of "hunting for a boom and a bust."

He told a large crowd at the railroad station he was returning to the White House "to veto some more bills."

The President said that "the special interests apparently are determined to emasculate the Labor Department."

He said the Congress had just overridden his veto of one measure

Detachment Of 50 U.N. Guards To Be Sent To Palestine

Seen As Step Toward World Police Force

LAKE SUCCESS, June 17 (AP) — The United Nations disclosed today 50 members of its headquarters security force are being sent to Palestine for emergency duty.

This represents the first time a uniformed United Nations force of any kind has been assigned to assist in the world organization's peace projects abroad.

While the 50-man detachment is not an international military force in the strict sense of the term, it does constitute at least a step toward a world police force.

Informed quarters said Secretary-General Trygve Lie might send other contingents to join this group.

N. Y. Officers May Be Borrowed

He was understood to have consulted Mayor O'Dwyer last night about the possibility of borrowing a small force of New York parole officers. A United Nations official said this possibility had not yet been dropped.

The guards will be flown to Cairo Saturday by chartered plane and will be placed under orders of Count Folke Bernadotte, United Nations Palestine mediator. It was an urgent request from Bernadotte that led to Lie's decision on the guards.

Meanwhile, Cairo dispatches said there were reports Count Bernadotte might ask for a prolongation of the four-week truce.

Bernadotte flew from Cairo to Tel Aviv today to seek the co-operation of Israel's leaders in proposed negotiations at Rhodes for a permanent peace in the Holy Land.

Arabs Are Reassured

Before leaving Cairo, Bernadotte promised that "necessary measures" would be taken to restore the military situation to what it was at the truce hour eight days ago. The

Yugoslavs Still Holding Five American Soldiers

TRIESTE, June 17 (AP)—The United States Army said tonight the Yugoslavs still were holding five American soldiers and an Italian civilian as prisoners.

The six were seized Tuesday while cruising in an Army launch in the Adriatic near Punta Grossa, Istria, a few miles below Trieste.

Dog "Dressed Up" By Child Wanders Off With Jewels

BRUNSWICK, Ga., June 17 (AP)—The four-year-old daughter of Mrs. E. C. Tike "dressed up" a dog that came to their St. Simons Island home.

She used her mother's finery, including an heirloom diamond lavalier. But the dog got tired of playing and wandered off.

Today Mrs. Tike and an insurance company offered a $1,000 reward. Value of the lavalier was not announced.

Kuhn Recaptured By German Police

MUNICH, June 17 (AP) — Fritz Kuhn, deported German-American Bund chief, was recaptured by German police today while trying to get a license to operate a chemist's laboratory.

"If you hadn't worked for a guy like Hitler you wouldn't be here today," he was told by Munich Police President Franz Fitzer.

"Who would have known that it would end like this," Kuhn replied.

Kuhn was seized in the French zone town of Bernkastel near Trier four and a half months after he escaped from Dachau internment camp where he was awaiting trial before a German denazification court.

He faces ten years at hard labor, the sentence the court handed down in his absence on April 20.

Kuhn said today he considered the 10-year sentence as a "major Nazi offender" was unfair and that he intended to appeal it.

How Kuhn escaped has never been officially explained, although there was an investigation, and the camp director, Anton Zirngibl, was fired.

Kuhn told reporters, "The door was open and so I went through."

He said his romance with blonde Waitress Frau Hedwig Munz, employe of a United States Army snack bar, was "all finished."

"I am staying with my wife from now on," he declared.

One-Hour Walkout Set For Tomorrow

PARIS, June 17 (AP)—The powerful, Communist-dominated General Confederation of Labor today called a one-hour general strike throughout France for Saturday in sympathy with striking workers in Clermont-Ferrand.

Token strikes, most of them only a half-hour or an hour long, continued to break out throughout France today as sympathy gestures toward the Clermont-Ferrand rubber employes.

Workers in many plants indirectly joined in the movement by starting their "vacations." In France many establishments close down and all employes take their vacations at the same time.

No Reports Of New Violence

But there were no reports of violence throughout the day and the conference table appeared to be replacing street fights in France's troubled labor situation.

In Paris, mobile guardsmen and police were posted around the Chamber of Deputies as many delegations of workers called on duties. The workers protested against police activities during the rioting at Clermont-Ferrand, in Central France, Tuesday night when 400 persons were injured.

The Associated Press was forced to send its dispatches from the city by Wirephoto because of a telephone tieup.

At Cleremont-Ferrand, union and management officials worked to iron out their differences, begun as request for wage increases.

The two-day strike has resulted in the arrest of some 100 persons.

General Strike Ineffective

The Local Confederation of Labor's call for a general strike was ineffective, however, and about 30 per cent of the city's shops stayed open for business.

An official indicated police might

Mine Car Pileup Fatal To One Man

WELCH, W. Va., June 17 (AP)—Twelve men were in hospitals tonight as a result of an underground wreck of coal mine cars in which one man died.

Killed last night in the Olga Coal Company mine at Caretta, 10 miles west of here, was Walter R. Powers, 35, also known as Walter Boatwright.

In critical condition in a Welch hospital was Johnny Riffe, Yukon.

Eleven other miners were in hospitals here, but none was listed as critically hurt. Five men hurt in the accident did not need hospital treatment.

Miners told this story of the accident:

A string of 10 loaded coal cars broke loose going downgrade and crashed into the rear of a three-car train of equipment. The equipment cars in turn rammed into the rear of a "man trip"—three cars carrying miners to the shaft leading from the mine.

Hammond Names Deputy

Fourth Worst Crash In U. S. Air History

NEW YORK, June 17 (AP) — The toll of 43 dead in a United Airlines plane crash near Mt. Carmel, Pa., today has been exceeded by only three other crashes in domestic air history.

Other severe crashes and their toll in lives are:

May 30, 1947, an Eastern Airlines plane near Port Deposit, Md., 53.

Oct. 24, 1947, a United Airlines plane, Bryce Canyon, Utah, 52.

June 13, 1947, Capital airliner, Blue Ridge Mountains, Va., 50.

Divorcee Asks Dismissal Of Suit Against Folsom

CULLMAN, Ala., June 17 (AP)—An Alabama divorcee has changed her mind about her court fight to have Gov. James E. Folsom declared her common law husband and the father of her small son.

Mrs. Christine Putman Johnston, red-haired former Birmingham hotel employe, asked dismissal of the case in a motion filed in Circuit Court.

Her brother, Carter C. Putman, made a similar motion on behalf of James Douglas Johnston. Putman filed the original suit for the boy as "next friend."

Mrs. Johnston said in her motion she has "come to realize" that she "is being used as a political tool with which to fight James E. Folsom." She said they 'never lived together as man and wife."

Decision For Radio Fans: Fight Or GOP Convention

WASHINGTON, June 17—(AP)—You've got to make up your mind by next Wednesday night.

Then tune in your radio.

Which will it be?

The Louis-Walcott heavyweight championship fight, or the Republican Presidential nominating session? They're on at exactly the same time.

No indecision now. No nervous punching of first one station button, then another. Because if you do, you're likely to hear something like this:

". . . That fearless statesman, that grand American, that undaunted champion . . ."

". . . Comes out of his corner, crouching like a hungry panther. He nervously flicks out a left at the . . ."

". . . Reciprocal Trade Agreement Act. We must take the stand, we will take the stand, that any such revision must conform to . . ."

". . . Rules of the New York State Athletic Commission. Here comes a long looping left from Jersey Joe. It staggered the champ for a moment but he's . . ."

". . . Boring from within, cutting away the American heritage which . . ."

". . . He's down, he's up, he's down, he's up . . ."

". . . Up from the icy shadows of Valley Forge, where our forefathers fought the battle of . . ."

"The battle of the century, folks. It looks like Joe . . ."

". . . May pick up Pennsylvania and most of the California delegation on the third ballot, but . . ."

". . . Only a few seconds until the bell . . ."

"We will not be frightened by the grimaces of any potential enemy. We stand four-square for . . ."

". . . A good solid right to the kisser. It has the big boy in the purple trunks pawing limply at . . ."

". . . Sen. Taft and Gov. Dewey. Any moment now the great decision may be made, and . . ."

". . . Present the winner and new champion . . ."

". . . Wish to thank my loyal supporters for this . . ."

"Hello, maw, I'm glad I won."

Minister Who Wed Lana, Bob Ordered Rebuked

PASADENA, Calif., June 17 (AP)—The minister who married Lana Turner and Bob Topping was ordered rebuked today by the judicial commission of the Los Angeles Presbytery.

The church group also enjoined Dr. Stewart P. MacLennan "to be more watchful in the future."

Rebuke is the second lightest censure given by the church. Starting with admonition, punishment ranges through rebuke, suspension and deposition to excommunication.

Rev. Dr. MacClennan said he believed that Lana and Bob were sincere and that he acted in good faith in performing the ceremony April 26. He was accused of violating a Presbyterian decree forbidding a clergyman from marrying divorced persons within a year after divorce.

Hollywood Personalities' Deaths Stun Film Capital

HOLLYWOOD, June 17 (INS)—The motion picture capital was stunned tonight at reports of the deaths of Showman Earl Carroll and three other famous Hollywood personalities.

The 53-year-old Carroll for many years had been noted as a proponent of "the most beautiful girls in the world."

One of his "most beautiful," stately red-haired Beryl Wallace, died with the theatrical impressario in the firey crash of a United airliner in the Pennsylvania mountains.

Also reported killed were Venita Varden, beauteous former wife of Comedian Jack Oakie, and Remo Bufano, world-famous puppeteer.

Carroll, the son of Irish parents, began his role in show business while still attending high school in his native Pittsburgh, Pa.

He started giving penny-admission stage shows in the basement of his parents' home at the age of ten. Later he became acquainted with such old time theatrical greats as Sara Bernhardt and Richard Mansfield by peddling programs and working backstage after school hours.

He wrote and produced several stage shows in the early 1920s before catapulting to fame with the first of his Carroll Vanities in 1923.

Miss Wallace, a striking redhead, was born in Brooklyn about 40 years ago. She had been on the stage since the age of 13.

Generally considered one of Hollywood's most beautiful women, Miss Wallace had appeared in a number of movies, including "Johnny Eager."

Comedian Jack Oakie and his beauteous ex-wife, Venita Varden, were to have boarded the ill-fated plane together.

Flintstone Fire Company Plans Parade Saturday

Annual Social Also Is Scheduled

FLINTSTONE—More than half of the volunteer fire companies affiliated with the Allegany and Garrett Volunteer Firemen's Association are expected to participate in the firemen's parade and social to be held Saturday night in Flintstone by the Flintstone Volunteer Fire Company.

The parade, which is expected to be the largest of its kind ever to be held in this community, will begin at 7 p. m., according to Lester Kolb, president of the fire company.

Kolb said 15 companies have already sent word that they will take part in the festivities. Several musical organizations, including the drum corps of Fulton Myers Post, American Legion, will participate in the parade.

Several of the companies, he said, are expected to bring their own musical organizations.

The parade route has been tentatively set to begin at Gilpintown and through Flintstone as far as the Davis Garage and then back to the Flintstone School yard.

A social at the Fire Hall will follow the parade, the company said. Final plans for the event were made last night at a meeting of the parade committee.

Birmingham Bans "Engine-Spotters

BIRMINGHAM (AP)—Railway authorities have banned "engine-spotting" at busy Tamworth station. "Engine-spotting" is the hobby — a favorite among British youngsters—of watching the trains come in and making a collection of the locomative numbers. At Tamworth station 80 expresses and many fast freights pass through each day.

District manager J. B. Dunkley said as many as 250 boys have crowded the station pursuing their hobby and that they get in the way of passengers.

Polish Peasants Get Land

WARSAW, Poland (AP)—Poland is rapidly splitting up great landed estates once owned by the aristocracy and handing them over to the peasants.

Stanislaw Tkaczow, vice-minister of agriculture, says a total of 9,300 landed estates, embracing 5,500,000 acres exclusive of forest lands, were taken over by the government under the 1945 land reform law.

He estimates nearly 3,000,000 acres had been parcelled out to peasants and said further parcellation was underway. Peasants usually have received grants from 14 to 30 acres. After proving their ability to administer their grants, they are given "documents of land endownment." These state the lands have been given the peasants free of any debts or mortgages.

Here's looking at you. The latest scientific attempt at giving the universe the eye, the Mt. Palomar telescope, has just been dedicated.

Man will now be able to see twice as far into space as ever before . . . and it brings up some interesting possibilities.

When they focus it on Mars, the first thing they may see is another eye peering through a telescope.

Suppose they have telescopes on Mars and they're looking at us? If so, they'll be the only ones in the world who can look down on honest John.

The first thing they'll notice when they view the earth is sparks flying in red bursts all over the United States. These won't be meteors . . . Just Dewey and Stassen at it again.

And they'll know when they're focusing on Hollywood. They won't be able to see the people for the dark glasses.

And those large patches of green won't be fields and trees, those are the piles of bills behind the $2 windows at Santa Anita.

And they may think those vapors gathering in certain areas of the Pacific coast are part of the atmosphere, but they'll be wrong. Just smoke coming out of the ears of Jane Russell's leading man.

Truman's Appraisal Of "Good Old Joe Stalin!"

On that fabulous western tour, President Truman's mind often moves in mysterious ways its wonder to perform. His most recent revelation is the off-hand statement at Eugene, Oregon: "I like old Joe Stalin. He is a decent fellow. But he is the prisoner of the Politburo"—which breaks agreements that "Old Joe" made in good faith.

This notion that Marshal Stalin is a benevolent old gentleman whose efforts toward world peace and prosperity are defeated by wicked ogres in the Kremlin would arouse national mirth at a less crucial moment in world history. Mr. Truman's "decent fellow" is the same man who has shipped some millions of Russians and their families out to slow starvation in Siberia. He divided up a prostrate Poland with Hitler. He ordered the ruthless attack on Finland. He carried out the barbaric purges after the assassination of Kirov. This man, whom Harry Truman sees as kindly but ineffective, is the same one who, in the presence of Allied diplomats, once gave Molotov a cruel dressing down, which Molotov—also a member of the Politburo—took with sickly smiles.

Even if Stalin were a creature of the Politburo, that would make no difference to the fense relations between Soviet Russia and the democratic powers. What, then, is the reason for the President's gratuitous tribute to Stalin? It may be an ingenious defense of F. D. Roosevelt, and of Truman himself, for their naive and costly faith in Soviet promises at Teheran, Yalta and Potsdam. The legend would run, "We trusted Stalin who is a good and reliable man, but nobody could have known that his pledges would be broken by the Politburo."

Is that the motive behind this extraordinary apology for Stalin? Maybe, but it sounds much too clever for a man of Harry Truman's makeup. The defense cannot be an effort to steal Henry Wallace's thunder, for the President roundly attacked Russia and her foreign policy at Berkeley. Perhaps the explanation is that Truman met Stalin once. Somehow the tribute recalls Mr. Truman's defense of his late friend and benefactor, good old Tom Pendergast, the crookedest political boss in Kansas City history.

Time Rapidly Washing Off Mud From Herbert Hoover

It is doubtful if a President of the United States was more bespattered with mud than Herbert Hoover. In a sentence, he was the victim of one of the nastiest of political campaigns. It is now in the process of redress. It began when Senator Albert W. Hawkes, of New Jersey, introduced a bill to restore Mr. Hoover's name to the dam on the Colorado River, originally known as the Hoover Dam but designated Boulder Dam by Harold Ickes.

He was blamed for a depression actually caused by forces that were in motion long before he became President. He was politically smeared with such violent terms that during the period after his defeat for re-election until the inauguration of Roosevelt he was set up in the public imagination by Roosevelt and his "brain trust" as a monster who would be responsible for any calamities that might befall by the day Roosevelt took office. He was pictured as heartless, bungling and reactionary. When he left office he was probably one of the most hated in the nation's history. His wise and conscientious counsel went unheard.

He had, throughout his term as President, scrupulously refrained from exploiting the presidency for his personal monetary gain or the profit of members of his family. He had served without pay, but that fact had been kept a secret until long after he returned to private life.

But, getting back to the Dam issue. Mr. Hoover had never asked that his name be restored to the Dam for which more than any other man, he was responsible. Mr. Hoover did not name the Dam himself. It was so named by Ray Lyman Wilbur, as Secretary of the Interior, in 1930. The Roosevelt Dam, the Wilson Dam and the Coolidge Dam all had been named for incumbents. The Roosevelt in this case was Theodore Roosevelt. The Norris Dam had been named for Senator Norris while he was in office.

Now, a magazine editor and veteran foreign correspondent, who took some part in spreading anti-Hoover propaganda, has just written a book—"Our Unknown Ex-President." It was given a brief review in this newspaper, and on this page, several days ago by Columnist George E. Sokolsky. The book is by Eugene Lyons

In his book, Mr. Lyons has sought to draw a truer picture of Herbert Hoover; the portrait of a man of dignity and honor and high ability who, rising from humble origin, has crowded into one life span three great careers as an engineer, humanitarian and public servant. After citing how he had harranged Hoover during the Landon candidacy for President, Mr. Lyons states:

"The marvel to me is that so many men and women are at last coming to an understanding of this amazing man, Hoover. They are beginning to realize what a mistake was made in 1932. Hoover has lived long enough to visualize this change in attitude, to realize he has re-won the respect if not the affection, of a very large part of the American people."

Mr. Hoover, on learning of the contents of the book, commented that it was a bit embarrassing. He has never been embittered by attack and smear and humiliation. He has remained shy and bashful.

It is gratifying that the book has been written while Mr. Hoover is still with us. Many will agree with Mr. Lyons' conclusion:

"Time is rapidly washing off the mud with which Herbert Hoover has been splattered. The granite of integrity underneath is becoming obvious even to the less preceptive of his countrymen."

Standing Room Only

The Boca Negra tribe of Indians, a hitherto unconquered group in the deep interior of Brazil, has sent forward a pantsless delegation with a formal statement of their desire to become "civilized." The reason for this request is said to be their great need for food.

On account of a world shortage, from here on out it looks as if civilization is going to have to be rationed. So let the Boca Negra Indians take a number at the counter and get down toward the end of the line.

Young men just out of college should not overlook any chances for employment. A Texas city is advertising for a bank president.

KEEP WELL HOW TO

Horseshoe-Shaped Kidneys

The kidneys are complicated structures and nature could hardly be blamed for making an occasional mistake during their development. Some individuals have been born with renal organs that are abnormal in size or shape while in others, more than two kidneys are present or the tube that leads to the bladder (ureter) is misplaced, kinked or too narrow.

Dr. Van Dellen

But the horseshoe kidney is probably the most common defect along this line. In this anomaly, both kidneys are fused into a single structure, lying directly across the vertebral column. They are joined by an isthmus, which may be composed of renal or fibrous tissue. If the connecting link is located in the lower part, the horseshoe points upward; but when the upper poles are joined, it faces in a downward direction. At the beginning, the kidneys are probably normal but the fact that they are connected draws them out of their normal position to a more central location. As a result, the ureters are displaced which in turn interferes with drainage of urine.

This sequence of events encourages infection and the formation of stones. But this is not all. Because of the unusual position, other organs are likely to suffer. Parts of the kidneys may press upon the stomach, gall bladder, intestines, or various nerves and blood vessels. In time, symptoms will appear and it is in the process of tracking down these manifestations, that the disorder is found. Vague intestinal distress is usually noted. In some, abdominal pain, indigestion, gas or irregularity of the bowel occurs. In others, discomfort is more suggestive of kidney involvement—pain in the back or burning and frequency of urination, especially at night. When infection is marked, chills and fever are encountered; if stones develop, attacks of kidney colic may be expected.

Damage of the renal tissue may lead ultimately to Bright's disease and an elevated blood pressure. In the past, horseshoe kidney was rarely discovered unless operation was performed but since the advent of modern instruments and improved technics in X-ray, diagnosis is more easily made. In consequence, physicians are encountering the malady more often; not that it is occurring more frequently but the tools are available to detect it. The wonder drugs have been useful in controlling infection and when combined with rest and the application of heat, symptoms in the milder forms can usually be kept at a minimum. For permanent results, surgery is necessary.

Those who are unfamiliar with the details might imagine this to be a simple procedure, by cutting the connecting link, the problem is easly solved. But this is not true and, even for experts, the utmost skill and patience are demanded. There are blood vessels galore in the area and great care must be exercised in saving a sufficient number to nourish the parts. Furthermore, the kidney band is frequently adherent to important nerves and other structures. If stones have formed they must be removed and this is no picnic if 50 or more exist. All of these factors are taken into consideration and the wise urologist plans his strategy well in advance. One kidney at a time is treated and, in many instances, more than one operation is required to do the job right.

PLAY BALL

W. W. writes: I like to play handball but in the beginning of the season, have trouble with my hands and feet. Do you know of any way in which I can toughen them?

Reply

The best way to toughen them is to use them. Some handball players carry a ball around and squeeze it at various intervals during the day. One player found that soaking the hands in hot water prior to the game was helpful; others advocate cold water. Apparently there is no shortcut.

TEETHING TIME

A. W. M. writes: I am worried because my 7 month old baby does not have any teeth as yet. When will he start teething?

Reply

Dentition follows an individual pattern. The average age for the first baby teeth to appear is 6 to 9 months. Some children start erupting sooner; others later.

INFLAMED KNEE BURSA

G. E. writes: What is the probable duration of bursitis of the knee?

Reply

Two to six weeks for acute bursitis, depending upon the care and co-operation of the victim. The chronic type takes longer and, in some instances, surgery is necessary.

FOLKLORE

D. C. writes: A friend tells me that a person with tapeworm should be starved for several days. Then a glass of milk should be held to the lips and the worm will come up from the intestine to take a drink. Is this possible?

Reply

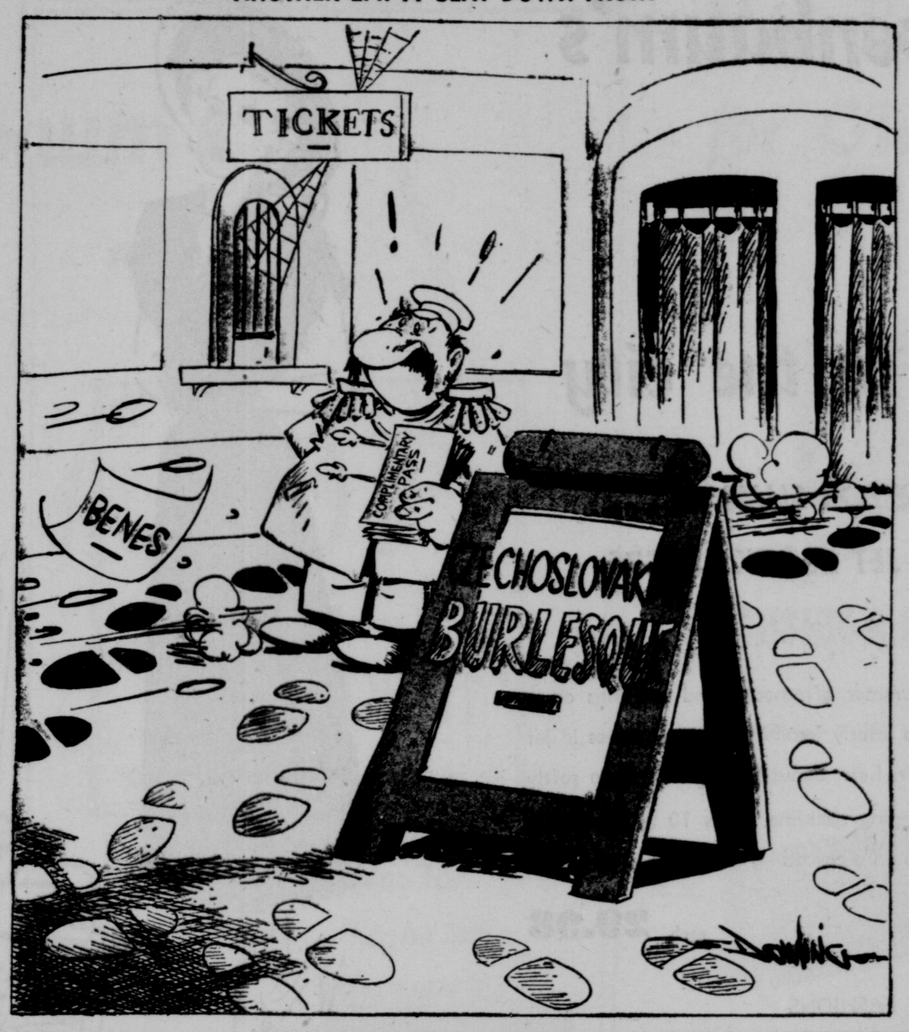
I doubt if a tapeworm would come up for air, let alone milk. Treatment consists of purges along with drugs capable of eradicating the pest.

BLADDER LESIONS

H. T. writes: Tre ulcers of the bladder curable?

Reply

Yes, as a rule they are amenable to treatment. But since this frequently requires special equipment, the services of a bladder specialist are usually needed.



The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Stassen Has Helped Public By Stimulating Political Thought; Campaign Chest Low Since Dewey Debate; Accused Of Carrying Water On Both Shoulders

Says DREW PEARSON

(Editor's note—The character and prospects of Harold Stassen are analyzed by Drew Pearson today in his series of columns on GOP candidates.)

WASHINGTON, June 17.—Whether Harold Stassen wins or not—and he probably won't—he has done a great service to the Republican party.

When other candidates were being coy, and while certain leaders were saying they did not want to be President, the refreshing Mr. Stassen announced that he was one who wanted to be President and proceeded to go out and hustle for it. Furthermore, he made other candidates hustle. Result was more scrutiny of candidates, more public thinking about the Republican nomination than in any other recent Presidential year.

For this alone, the American people owe Mr. Stassen a large vote of thanks.

The Stassen campaign today is dragging. His campaign chest, once amply supplied, is now reported to be $100,000 in the red. Many of the big-money boys, once enthusiastic over Stassen, cooled off after his Oregon debate. It was not that they disagreed with Stassen, but rather that they want to be on the winning bandwagon and they figured Stassen wouldn't win.

Crucial Debate

History may show the Dewey debate was the turning point in the race to decide who will be the next President of the United States.

Stassen, in challenging Dewey, figured he was playing safe. The advantage was against Dewey. Not only did it appear more popular at that time to outlaw Communism, but Stassen was accustomed to rough-and-tumble debate. After all his speeches he had invited questions from the audience. He had had a lot of practice. In his grain-speculation charges against Ed Pauley, he had outtalked both Pauley and his defending Senators. Holding press conferences was Stassen's forte.

Knowing this, some of Dewey's friends advised him not to accept the Stassen challenge. The youthful Minnesota Governor, Paul Lockwood warned Dewey, was baiting a political trap.

"If I am going to be defeated," replied the usually cautious Mr. Dewey, "I know of no better issue to be defeated on. We cannot have thought-control in the United States."

The debate which followed sent Dewey's battered stock soaring. It may have decided who will be the next President of the United States.

Stassen Was "Too Liberal"

Three other factors are working against Stassen:

1. His youth. He is 41 and many people think he can afford to be aged in the wood a bit.

2. The party bosses. They don't want a man they cannot control, would much prefer a party hack like Bricker of Ohio, or good-natured Speaker Joe Martin.

3. Stassen's liberal background.

Stassen's onetime liberalism now appears to be diluted with growing gobs of conservatism. Some suspect the onetime crusading Governor of Minnesota of trying to carry water on both shoulders, in order to keep happy both his labor following and the large group of businessmen who have oiled his political machine.

These include: Henry Atwood, president of the 1st National Bank, Minneapolis; Julian Baird, president of the 1st National Bank, St. Paul; Harry A. Bullis, chairman of General Mills; Edward B. Cosgrove, head of Minnesota Valley Canning; Donald Davis, head of Minnesota and Ontario Paper; Jay Cooke, prominent Philadelphia opponent of the housing bill; W. L. McKnight, head of the Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Co.

At any rate, Stassen, who once opposed the Taft-Hartley Labor Act, who favored strong anti-trust prosecution, and urged heavy taxes on high profits, has now pulled in his horns on many of these issues.

To his credit it should be noted that he has had the courage to take a stand on almost everything—even the dynamite-laden question of whether the U. S. Ambassador to the Vatican should be recalled and whether U. S. Taxpayers' money should be used for buses to parochial schools. As a result, a storm of criticism has poured on his head from his own church (Baptist) and other Protestant groups.

Immigrant Grandparents

Stassen has a unique American background and, despite his youthful years, a wealth of diversified experience.

Like Wendell Willkie, his grandparents were immigrants; two from Germany, one from Norway, one from Czechoslovakia. To get his education, Stassen worked on a farm, as a grocer's clerk, in a bake shop, and spent three summers as a Pullman conductor on the Milwaukee Railroad.

As a young Minnesota lawyer, Stassen was so forthright that in his first race for Governor he defeated both the Farmer-Labor candidate and the old Guard Republican machine. The AFL and CIO generally supported him.

It was Senator Joe Ball, a St. Paul newsman whom Stassen appointed to the Senate, who later reciprocated by persuading the White House to appoint Stassen as a U. S. delegate to the first United Nations conference in San Francisco. There, Stassen, a returned naval hero, did a good job. Given the thankless chore of conferring with the peace not only kept them reasonably organizations desiring to "consult" with the U. S. delegation, Stassen happy but made political friends for the future.

More important, he proved himself a better statesman than Vandenberg by battling against the veto. Van has received the major credit for constructing the UN Charter, but it was the youthful Minnesotan who foresaw the veto reefs ahead.

Should Stassen win out in his ambition to enter the White House, foreign policy would be in the hands of a man who had already conferred with Stalin, Molotov, Attlee and other world leaders. The young man from Minnesota has given himself as much preparation as possible for the big job to which he aspires.

Unquestionably he would be a much better President than various of his Republican stablemates, but certain of the party bosses would almost cut off their left arm before they would let him get the nomination. They would take him for Vice President with great pleasure, however. And that, probably, is where Stassen will end up.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

COFFEE is apparently good for the soul and tobacco helps the American farmer. That is the philosophy which guides the Economic Cooperation Administration, formerly ERP.

I once raised the question as to why ECA expends good American dollars on coffee and tobacco, since neither can contribute to the rehabilitation of Western Europe or China. Apparently coffee is a morale builder. So is tea. So are beer, coca-cola, whiskey and, for some, betel nuts. It all depends on the point of view. But what has that to do with rehabilitation? How many machine tools can be manufactured with how many tons of coffee?

This is the answer by D. A. Fitzgerald, Director Foods of ECA:

"As you know, there are some food items that play an important part in the diet and yet contribute little to basic nourishment. Many beverages fall into this category. This is especially true of coffee, which is a great morale builder . . . a thing much needed for European recovery . . . as well as contributing a great deal to basic eating habits and customs. In addition, if recovery is to be permanent, it must be world-wide and all countries must return to a peaceful system of commerce and trade and must participate in this recovery. Therefore, it is obvious that the buying of coffee from South America has the effect of indirectly bringing our very valuable neighbors into the recovery program since every dollar spent for coffee will improve multi-lateral trade."

It is the last sentence that is the important one. While we are passing out money to Europe and China, the Brazilians would like to get some as would the other coffee-raising countries of Central America. So, instead of slipping them a few millions, we put it down as aid to Norway or Sweden or somewhere, but give it to them in coffee. Thus, they get the coffee, the Brazilians get the cash and Uncle Sam pays. How that builds railroads or docks or restores factories in Europe and China, Dr. Fitzgerald does not tell his correspondent, but obviously that, as well as morale building, it the plan. Why not send a couple of tons of lipsticks as morale builders?

On the subject of tobacco, the explanation is different. There are two reasons for sending tobacco to Europe and China. One is that in most of those countries the governments tax their people highly on tobacco and the governments need the revenue. So we give them the tobacco and they collect the taxes. Really that is what Dr. Fitzgerald writes:

". . . At the present time, the tobacco supplies in most countries in Europe are so inadequate that a widespread and serious black market in cigarettes exists which prevents the governments from realizing their normal revenue as well as keeping their peoples from more productive activities . . ."

The second reason is political in the United States, namely, that tobacco-raising farmers want their markets restored. As the Europeans and Chinese lack the dollars to buy the American tobacco, ECA comes to their assistance and buys it for the Europeans and Chinese, loads them down with it and pays for it. Thus, everybody is happy, except the taxpayer who wonders where his money goes. This is what Dr. Fitzgerald has to say about tobacco:

". . . It must be considered, of course, that western Europe, prior to the war, bought considerable quantities of American tobacco, and, on the basis of this demand, many farmers in the tobacco-growing states have made considerable investment in the facilities for growing tobacco, which cannot be effectively diverted to other uses.

"The European market is very important to these farmers, and appropriate consideration needs to be given to this problem . . ."

I hear that China is to be loaded down with tobacco when, as a matter of fact, what China needs most are arms for fighting Communists and the reviving warlords who are tearing that country into shreds. What China needs is the rehabilitation of her currency. How tobacco will do that, I cannot imagine. Maybe, the Life-Time-Fortune experts, who are handling ECA's activities in China, can explain how tobacco will save Chiang Kai-shek from the Russians. Maybe the way Pocahontas saved John Smith!

Truman's Western Trip Stems From Bad Political Judgement

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, June 17—President Truman could have done more for his party and his country by staying in Washington in these closing days of Congress than by pursuing his personal ambition on the political stump of the West.

Almost unprecedented is Mr. Truman's absence. Time and again presidents have been confronted with the need for counsel with party leaders as congressional sessions were drawing to a close. Almost without exception, they have rearranged schedules and canceled speaking engagements in order to be close at hand. Some presidents have even stayed up all hours of the night waiting for final action on important legislation.

Mr. Truman's attitude toward the Congress is not born of any contempt or lack of respect, however, even though the opposite political party happens to be in majority. It is unhappily the result of bad political judgement, of which Mr. Truman seems to have accumulated more than most presidents in recent years.

Paid For Doing Utmost

The American people pay a president $75,000 a year for the express purpose of having him do his utmost in performing the duties of his office. Under the Constitution the making of laws is as much a part of the president's job as it is that of Congress. It takes a presidential signature to make a bill into law. Also his influence is such that, if his views are persuasive, he can keep a measure from becoming law by arguments that appeal to one vote more in either house than a mere minority of one-third of the membership.

The president's influence on legislative compromises is incalculable. As legislation reaches the final stages, a change here or there, with presidential approval, or a change to meet his objections can sometimes mean the passage of legislation that otherwise might fall by the wayside. The American people do not want their chief executive to stand on technicalities and use the veto power when it is too late to change a measure and get a substitute passed without the features to which a president may take exception.

No Confidence Vote

If there is no president on the job to do business with, his party in Congress goes its own way and helps to override vetoes. Within the last 24 hours Congress, by two-thirds votes, has overridden Mr. Truman's vetoes again and again. In a parliamentary system of government, this would mean a "vote of no confidence" and a prime minister would resign.

Inasmuch as the Republicans have a bare majority of the Senate, the fact that a two-thirds vote is mustered against Mr. Truman's views means that a large number of Democrats have been voting against their party leader. It must be that they think his views are unpersuasive or else that they feel some legislation on certain subjects is better than none. In any event the record does not show that Congress is taking Mr. Truman's veto measures seriously. The Congress feels they are canned statements drafted by cabinet officers or executive agency heads in the absence of the president from Washington.

What could Mr. Truman have accomplished had he stayed in Washington? The power of publicity, the power to influence public opinion, is just as great if not greater when a president is in Washington than when he is away.

Present Congress Vulnerable

The present Congress, moreover, is vulnerable. There are a dozen points on which Mr. Truman might have scored political gains had he stayed in Washington and put the searchlight on what the two houses are doing in the closing days. Every Congress in the last days of a session is similarly vulnerable but Mr. Truman had the opportunity of his career to put the opposite party on the spot with messages and statements issued from Washington. Likewise, he had a chance to consolidate the ranks of his own arty.

All together, Mr. Truman may have seen even as many as 5,000,000 persons on his tour but what he said in his impromptu remarks and what he failed to do in absenting himself from Washington at a critical time could conceivably weaken his political position with many of the other 50,000,000 voters who didnt see him but read both the accounts of the speeches and the dispatches from Washington on what is happening here. A president's first duty in the closing days of a session is to be in the White House. Some have even journeyed to the Capitol itself to be available for conference.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

PHILADELPHIA, June 17—(INS)—The passing show:

For probably the first time in the history of a national convention the politicos are worried about a fight. Not one of their own, of course. They come naturally. This one is the Louis-Walcott fight.

The fight, erroneously billed as Louis's last, is scheduled to start at 10 p. m. (E.D.T.) next Wednesday night. It has a potential Hooper rating in the 60's, which more or less means that about 60,000,000 people want to listen to it on their radios and then buy a newspaper the next day and find out what happened.

In addition, it shows every indication of being able to attract the biggest television audience in the history of that medium, for there are plans to televise it, by co-axial cable and microwave, from New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, Richmond, Boston and Schenectady.

More than 500,000 sets, including saloon screens, will be within range.

But if there is a night session of the Republican convention next Wednesday it may take precedence in both radio and television, certainly in the latter. Some students of the convention agenda believe that balloting will be under way by the night of June 23.

—o—

Some Republicans fear, with a mighty fear, that the drive wheels of the convention will go on with a night session even if only oratory is scheduled, and that this will hurt the party's chances with millions of possible supporters who are — in a case like a heavyweight championship — sports fans first.

Anyway, it's all very ticklish because, to coin an arresting phrase, little things count heavily in politics.

If you don't believe that then please remember that the Dewey forces, alarmed by reports that their champion had ordered a dog evicted from one of his Nebraska rallies, released a statement that what the Governor shouted was an invitation to the dog to come up on the dais and join him — for it seems Dewey once had a terrier like that one.

The Sioux Indians are said to be sore at Dewey because he wouldn't make himself ridiculous by wearing one of their ceremonial headdresses, and that Texans are muttering about Taft because he snored through a ball game down there.

P.S.—No one will be more distressed than Joe Louis if his fight somehow antagonizes possible G.O.P. voters. For Joe is an active worker for the party.

—o—

Both parties, as usual, will make use of professional demonstrators. We have not yet discovered whether inflation has hit this calling. In previous conventions they worked for a buck a demonstration.

The pro, more often than not, is a bum who happens to be loitering in the neighborhood of a Convention Hall and is well-scrubbed enough not to appear conspicuous when called upon to strut his stuff.

He and his fellow pros swell the sound and size of those carefully planned "spontaneous" outbursts which follow the nomination of each candidate. Along with the regular disciples of the candidate in question, the pros are marshalled in a corridor just off the main floor of Convention Hall. They stand around, smoking free cigarets and drinking coffee out of a paper cup, until their cue.

Then they pick up their banners or New Year's eve noise-makers, straighten up, and march into the hall. The permanent chairman lets them caterwaul up and down the aisle for five or ten minutes and then begins to whack his gavel on the sounding board.

This is a signal for them to raise more hell, which they promptly do. And after another five minutes the chairman gives up in despair, sits down and talks until they run out of steam. The pros fade away and wait a new assignment, and a new candidate.

—o—

Speaking of Indians, if any appear here as delegates and cannot find a hotel room, Philadelphia has a park in which they can pitch their tepees. No kidding. It is a public garden set aside in the early days of the republic for itinerant red-men who travelled with their homes on the backs of their squaws. It is still here, and the law has never been amended.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

History

There is no more useful study than that of history. Until you have gone into the background of a country's life, learned of its formative years, and studied the lives of those who have become its outstanding leaders and rulers, you are in no position to discuss that country's present problems.

When you go to a physician with a physical complaint, that wise man questions you to get all the details of history regarding your physical background, so that he can the better evolve a course to prescribe for you in bringing you back to health again. You must get to the root of a thing to know how to handle it or to understand it.

History is the complete story. You wouldn't read an important book by starting at the last few pages and expect to know anything about its over-all picture, its plot, or unified story. To knew most about a country, read of its great men and women. They are the ones who give the spark to all history. You get the feel of America after you have read the lives of Washington, Franklin, Jefferson, Jackson and Lincoln. And to learn about South America you must study the life of Bolivar, who freed its countries from Spinish rule. A most inspiring character.

History plays a part even far more important than the mere knowledge that it imparts. It teaches lessons. It teaches the value of avoiding mistakes in government. It teaches the futility of all wars—but this latter lesson doesn't seem to carry finality wth it! This is one of the most unfortunate facts of history.

History tells you about the peoples, the customs, the habits, the occupations, and the chief productions and industries of a country A people's language sets it apart, so that it is often difficult for several nations to understand one another as they should. And different forms of government make it difficult for a universal understanding. History tells us all about these things, and enlightens one so that all current discussions are better understood.

You have to know the history of a person or a country to justly appraise it. Beyond and underneath all this there are the thrill and fascination to the study of history and of those who make it. The best citizens of a country know its history!

Truman's Appraisal Of "Good Old Joe Stalin!"

On that fabulous western tour, President Truman's mind often moves in mysterious ways its wonder to perform. His most recent revelation is the off-hand statement at Eugene, Oregon: "I like old Joe Stalin. He is a decent fellow. But he is the prisoner of the Politburo"—which breaks agreements that "Old Joe" made in good faith.

This notion that Marshal Stalin is a benevolent old gentleman whose efforts toward world peace and prosperity are defeated by wicked ogres in the Kremlin would arouse national mirth at a less crucial moment in world history. Mr. Truman's "decent fellow" is the same man who has shipped some millions of Russians and their families out to slow starvation in Siberia. He divided up a prostrate Poland with Hitler. He ordered the ruthless attack on Finland. He carried out the barbaric purges after the assassination of Kirov. This man, whom Harry Truman sees as kindly but ineffective, is the same one who, in the presence of Allied diplomats, once gave Molotov a cruel dressing down, which Molotov—also a member of the Politburo—took with sickly smiles.

Even if Stalin were a creature of the Politburo, that would make no difference to the tense relations between Soviet Russia and the democratic powers. What, then, is the reason for the President's gratuitous tribute to Stalin? It may be an ingenious defense of F. D. Roosevelt, and of Truman himself, for their naive and costly faith in Soviet promises at Teheran, Yalta and Potsdam. The legend would run, "We trusted Stalin who is a good and reliable man, but nobody could have known that his pledges would be broken by the Politburo."

Is that the motive behind this extraordinary apology for Stalin? Maybe, but it sounds much too clever for a man of Harry Truman's makeup. The defense cannot be an effort to steal Henry Wallace's thunder, for the President roundly attacked Russia and her foreign policy at Berkeley. Perhaps the explanation is that Truman met Stalin once. Somehow the tribute recalls Mr. Truman's defense of his late friend and benefactor, good old Tom Pendergast, the crookedest political boss in Kansas City history.

Time Rapidly Washing Off Mud From Herbert Hoover

It is doubtful if a President of the United States was more bespattered with mud than Herbert Hoover. In a sentence, he was the victim of one of the nastiest of political campaigns. It is now in the process of redress. It began when Senator Albert W. Hawkes, of New Jersey, introduced a bill to restore Mr. Hoover's name to the dam on the Colorado River, originally known as the Hoover Dam but designated Boulder Dam by Harold Ickes.

He was blamed for a depression actually caused by forces that were in motion long before he became President. He was politically smeared with such violent terms that during the period after his defeat for re-election until the inauguration of Roosevelt he was set up in the public imagination by Roosevelt and his "brain trust" as a monster who would be responsible for any calamities that might befall by the day Roosevelt took office. He was pictured as heartless, bungling and reactionary. When he left office he was probably one of the most hated in the nation's history. His wise and conscientious counsel went unheard.

He had, throughout his term as President, scrupulously refrained from exploiting the presidency for his personal monetary gain or the profit of members of his family. He had served without pay, but that fact had been kept a secret until long after he returned to private life.

But, getting back to the Dam issue. Mr. Hoover had never asked that his name be restored to the Dam for which more than any other man, he was responsible. Mr. Hoover did not name the Dam himself. It was so named by Ray Lyman Wilbur, as Secretary of the Interior, in 1930. The Roosevelt Dam, the Wilson Dam and the Coolidge Dam all had been named for incumbents. The Roosevelt in this case was Theodore Roosevelt. The Norris Dam had been named for Senator Norris while he was in office.

Now, a magazine editor and veteran foreign correspondent, who took some part in spreading anti-Hoover propaganda, has just written a book—"Our Unknown Ex-President." It was given a brief review in this newspaper, and on this page, several days ago by Columnist George E. Sokolsky. The book is by Eugene Lyons

In his book, Mr. Lyons has sought to draw a truer picture of Herbert Hoover; the portrait of a man of dignity and honor and high ability who, rising from humble origin, has crowded into one life span three great careers as an engineer, humanitarian and public servant. After citing how he had harranged Hoover during the Landon candidacy for President, Mr. Lyons states:

"The marvel to me is that so many men and women are at last coming to an understanding of this amazing man, Hoover. They are beginning to realize what a mistake was made in 1932. Hoover has lived long enough to visualize this change in attitude, to realize he has re-won the respect if not the affection, of a very large part of the American people."

Mr. Hoover, on learning of the contents of the book, commented that it was a bit embarrassing. He has never been embittered by attack and smear and humiliation. He has remained shy and bashful.

It is gratifying that the book has been written while Mr. Hoover is still with us. Many will agree with Mr. Lyons' conclusion:

"Time is rapidly washing off the mud with which Herbert Hoover has been splattered. The granite of integrity underneath is becoming obvious even to the less preceptive of his countrymen."

Standing Room Only

The Boca Negra tribe of Indians, a hitherto unconquered group in the deep interior of Brazil, has sent forward a pantsless delegation with a formal statement of their desire to become "civilized." The reason for this request is said to be their great need for food.

On account of a world shortage, from here on out it looks as if civilization is going to have to be rationed. So let the Boca Negra Indians take a number at the counter and get down toward the end of the line.

Young men just out of college should not overlook any chances for employment. A Texas city is advertising for a bank president.

KEEP WELL HOW TO

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Horseshoe-Shaped Kidneys

The kidneys are complicated structures and nature could hardly be blamed for making an occasional mistake during their development. Some individuals have been born with renal organs that are abnormal in size or shape while in others, more than two kidneys are present or the tube that leads to the bladder (ureter) is misplaced, kinked or too narrow.

Dr. Van Dellen

But the horseshoe kidney is probably the most common defect along this line. In this anomaly, both kidneys are fused into a single structure, lying directly across the vertebral column. They are joined by an isthmus, which may be composed of renal or fibrous tissue. If the connecting link is located in the lower part, the horseshoe points upward; but when the upper poles are joined, it faces in a downward direction. At the beginning, the kidneys are probably normal but the fact that they are connected draws them out of their normal position to a more central location. As a result, the ureters are displaced which in turn interferes with drainage of urine.

This sequence of events encourages infection and the formation of stones. But this is not all. Because of the unusual position, other organs are likely to suffer. Parts of the kidneys may press upon the stomach, gall bladder, intestines, or various nerves and blood vessels. In time, symptoms will appear and it is in the process of tracking down these manifestations, that the disorder is found. Vague intestinal distress is usually noted. In some, abdominal pain, indigestion, gas or irregularity of the bowel occurs. In others, discomfort is more suggestive of kidney involvement—pain in the back or burning and frequency of urination, especially at night. When infection is marked, chills and fever are encountered; if stones develop, attacks of kidney colic may be expected.

Damage of the renal tissue may lead ultimately to Bright's disease and an elevated blood pressure. In the past, horseshoe kidney was rarely discovered unless operation was performed but since the advent of modern instruments and improved technics in X-ray, diagnosis is more easily made. In consequence, physicians are encountering the malady more often; not that it is occurring more frequently but the tools are available to detect it. The wonder drugs have been useful in controlling infection and when combined with rest and the application of heat, symptoms in the milder forms can usually be kept at a minimum. For permanent results, surgery is necessary.

Those who are unfamiliar with the details might imagine this to be a simple procedure, by cutting the connecting link, the problem is easly solved. But this is not true and, even for experts, the utmost skill and patience are demanded. There are blood vessels galore in the area and great care must be exercised in saving a sufficient number to nourish the parts. Furthermore, the kidney band is frequently adherent to important nerves and other structures. If stones have formed they must be removed and this is no picnic if 50 or more exist. All of these factors are taken into consideration and the wise urologist plans his strategy well in advance. One kidney at a time is treated and, in many instances, more than one operation is required to do the job right.

PLAY BALL

W. W. writes: I like to play handball but in the beginning of the season, have trouble with my hands and feet. Do you know of any way in which I can toughen them?

Reply

The best way to toughen them is to use them. Some handball players carry a ball around and squeeze it at various intervals during the day. One player found that soaking the hands in hot water prior to the game was helpful; others advocate cold water. Apparently there is no shortcut.

TEETHING TIME

A. W. M. writes: I am worried because my 7 month old baby does not have any teeth as yet. When will he start teething?

Reply

Dentition follows an individual pattern. The average age for the first baby teeth to appear is 6 to 9 months. Some children start erupting sooner; others later.

INFLAMED KNEE BURSA

G. E. writes: What is the probable duration of bursitis of the knee?

Reply

Two to six weeks for acute bursitis, depending upon the care and co-operation of the victim. The chronic type takes longer and, in some instances, surgery is necessary.

FOLKLORE

D. C. writes: A friend tells me that a person with tapeworm should be starved for several days. Then a glass of milk should be held to the lips and the worm will come up from the intestine to take a drink. Is this possible?

Reply

I doubt if a tapeworm would come up for air, let alone milk. Treatment consists of purges along with drugs capable of eradicating the pest.

BLADDER LESIONS

H. T. writes: Tre ulcers of the bladder curable?

Reply

Yes, as a rule they are amenable to treatment. But since this frequently requires special equipment, the services of a bladder specialist are usually needed.

ANOTHER EMPTY SEAT DOWN FRONT

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Stassen Has Helped Public By Stimulating Political Thought; Campaign Chest Low Since Dewey Debate; Accused Of Carrying Water On Both Shoulders

Says DREW PEARSON

(Editor's note—The character and prospects of Harold Stassen are analyzed by Drew Pearson today in his series of columns on GOP candidates.)

WASHINGTON, June 17.—Whether Harold Stassen wins or not—and he probably won't—he has done a great service to the Republican party.

When other candidates were being coy, and while certain leaders were saying they did not want to be President, the refreshing Mr. Stassen announced that he was one who wanted to be President and proceeded to go out and hustle for it. Furthermore, he made other candidates hustle. Result was more scrutiny of candidates, more public thinking about the Republican nomination than in any other recent Presidential year.

For this alone, the American people owe Mr. Stassen a large vote of thanks.

The Stassen campaign today is dragging. His campaign chest, once amply supplied, is now reported to be $100,000 in the red. Many of the big-money boys, once enthusiastic over Stassen, cooled off after his Oregon debate. It was not that they disagreed with Stassen, but rather that they want to be on the winning bandwagon and they figured Stassen wouldn't win.

Crucial Debate

History may show the Dewey debate was the turning point in the race to decide who will be the next President of the United States.

Stassen, in challenging Dewey, figured he was playing safe. The advantage was against Dewey. Not only did it appear more popular at that time to outlaw Communism, but Stassen was accustomed to rough-and-tumble debate. After all his speeches he had invited questions from the audience. He had had a lot of practice. In his grain-speculation charges against Ed Pauley, he had outtalked both Pauley and his defending Senators. Holding press conferences was Stassen's forte.

Knowing this, some of Dewey's friends advised him not to accept the Stassen challenge. The youthful Minnesota Governor, Paul Lockwood warned Dewey, was baiting a political trap.

"If I am going to be defeated," replied the usually cautious Mr. Dewey, "I know of no better issue to be defeated on. We cannot have thought-control in the United States."

The debate which followed sent Dewey's battered stock soaring. It may have decided who will be the next President of the United States.

Stassen Was "Too Liberal"

Three other factors are working against Stassen:

1. His youth. He is 41 and many people think he can afford to be aged in the wood a bit.

2. The party bosses. They don't want a man they cannot control, would much prefer a party hack like Bricker of Ohio, or good-natured Speaker Joe Martin.

3. Stassen's liberal background.

Stassen's onetime liberalism now appears to be diluted with growing gobs of conservatism. Some suspect the onetime crusading Governor of Minnesota of trying to carry water on both shoulders, in order to keep happy both his labor following and the large group of businessmen who have oiled his political machine.

These include: Henry Atwood, president of the 1st National Bank, Minneapolis; Julian Baird, president of the 1st National Bank, St. Paul; Harry A. Bullis, chairman of General Mills; Edward B. Cosgrove, head of Minnesota Valley Canning; Donald Davis, head of Minnesota and Ontario Paper; Jay Cooke, prominent Philadelphia opponent of the housing bill; W. L. McKnight, head of the Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Co.

At any rate, Stassen, who once opposed the Taft-Hartley Labor Act, who favored strong anti-trust prosecution, and urged heavy taxes on high profits, has now pulled in his horns on many of these issues.

To his credit it should be noted that he has had the courage to take a stand on almost everything—even the dynamite-laden question of whether the U. S. Ambassador to the Vatican should be recalled and whether U. S. Taxpayers' money should be used for buses to parochial schools. As a result, a storm of criticism has poured on his head from his own church (Baptist) and other Protestant groups.

Immigrant Grandparents

Stassen has a unique American background and, despite his youthful years, a wealth of diversified experience.

Like Wendell Willkie, his grandparents were immigrants; two from Germany, one from Norway, one from Czechoslovakia. To get his education, Stassen worked on a farm, as a grocer's clerk, in a bake shop, and spent three summers as a Pullman conductor on the Milwaukee Railroad.

As a young Minnesota lawyer, Stassen was so forthright that in his first race for Governor he defeated both the Farmer-Labor candidate and the old Guard Republican machine. The AFL and CIO generally supported him.

It was Senator Joe Ball, a St. Paul newsman whom Stassen appointed to the Senate, who later reciprocated by persuading the White House to appoint Stassen as a U. S. delegate to the first United Nations conference in San Francisco. There, Stassen, a returned naval hero, did a good job. Given the thankless chore of conferring with the peace not only kept them reasonably organizations desiring to "consult" with the U. S. delegation, Stassen happy but made political friends for the future.

More important, he proved himself a better statesman than Vandenberg by battling against the veto. Van has received the major credit for constructing the UN Charter, but it was the youthful Minnesotan who foresaw the veto reefs ahead.

Should Stassen win out in his ambition to enter the White House, foreign policy would be in the hands of a man who had already conferred with Stalin, Molotov, Attlee and other world leaders. The young man from Minnesota has given himself as much preparation as possible for the big job to which he aspires.

Unquestionably he would be a much better President than various of his Republican stablemates, but certain of the party bosses would almost cut off their left arm before they would let him get the nomination. They would take him for Vice President with great pleasure, however. And that, probably, is where Stassen will end up.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

COFFEE is apparently good for the soul and tobacco helps the American farmer. That is the philosophy which guides the Economic Cooperation Administration, formerly ERP.

I once raised the question as to why ECA expends good American dollars on coffee and tobacco, since neither can contribute to the rehabilitation of Western Europe or China. Apparently coffee is a morale builder. So is tea. So are beer, coca-cola, whiskey and, for some, betel nuts. It all depends on the point of view. But what has that to do with rehabilitation? How many machine tools can be manufactured with how many tons of coffee?

This is the answer by D. A. Fitzgerald, Director Foods of ECA:

"As you know, there are some food items that play an important part in the diet and yet contribute little to basic nourishment. Many beverages fall into this category. This is especially true of coffee, which is a great morale builder . . . a thing much needed for European recovery . . . as well as contributing a great deal to basic eating habits and customs. In addition, if recovery is to be permanent, it must be world-wide and all countries must return to a peaceful system of commerce and trade and must participate in this recovery. Therefore, it is obvious that the buying of coffee from South America has the effect of indirectly bringing our very valuable neighbors into the recovery program since every dollar spent for coffee will improve multi-lateral trade."

It is the last sentence that is the important one. While we are passing out money to Europe and China, the Brazilians would like to get some as would the other coffee-raising countries of Central America. So, instead of slipping them a few millions, we put it down as aid to Norway or Sweden or somewhere, but give it to them in coffee. Thus, they get the coffee, the Brazilians get the cash and Uncle Sam pays. How that builds railroads or docks or restores factories in Europe and China, Dr. Fitzgerald does not tell his correspondent, but obviously that, as well as morale building, it the plan. Why not send a couple of tons of lipsticks as morale builders?

On the subject of tobacco, the explanation is different. There are two reasons for sending tobacco to Europe and China. One is that in most of those countries the governments tax their people highly on tobacco and the governments need the revenue. So we give them the tobacco and they collect the taxes. Really that is what Dr. Fitzgerald writes:

". . . At the present time, the tobacco supplies in most countries in Europe are so inadequate that a widespread and serious black market in cigarettes exists which prevents the governments from realizing their normal revenue as well as keeping their peoples from more productive activities . . ."

The second reason is political in the United States, namely, that tobacco-raising farmers want their markets restored. As the Europeans and Chinese lack the dollars to buy the American tobacco, ECA comes to their assistance and buys it for the Europeans and Chinese, loads them down with it and pays for it. Thus, everybody is happy, except the taxpayer who wonders where his money goes. This is what Dr. Fitzgerald has to say about tobacco:

". . . It must be considered, of course, that western Europe, prior to the war, bought considerable quantities of American tobacco, and, on the basis of this demand, many farmers in the tobacco-growing states have made considerable investment in the facilities for growing tobacco, which cannot be effectively diverted to other uses.

"The European market is very important to these farmers, and appropriate consideration needs to be given to this problem . . ."

I hear that China is to be loaded down with tobacco when, as a matter of fact, what China needs most are arms for fighting Communists and the reviving warlords who are tearing that country into shreds. What China needs is the rehabilitation of her currency. How tobacco will do that, I cannot imagine. Maybe, the Life-Time-Fortune experts, who are handling ECA's activities in China, can explain how tobacco will save Chiang Kai-shek from the Russians. Maybe the way Pocahontas saved John Smith!

Truman's Western Trip Stems From Bad Political Judgement

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, June 17—President Truman could have done more for his party and his country by staying in Washington in these closing days of Congress than by pursuing his personal ambition on the political stump of the West.

Almost unprecedented is Mr. Truman's absence. Time and again presidents have been confronted with the need for counsel with party leaders as congressional sessions were drawing to a close. Almost without exception, they have rearranged schedules and canceled speaking engagements in order to be close at hand. Some presidents have even stayed up all hours of the night waiting for final action on important legislation.

Mr. Truman's attitude toward the Congress is not born of any contempt or lack of respect, however, even though the opposite political party happens to be in majority. It is unhappily the result of bad political judgement, of which Mr. Truman seems to have accumulated more than most presidents in recent years.

Paid For Doing Utmost

The American people pay a president $75,000 a year for the express purpose of having him do his utmost in performing the duties of his office. Under the Constitution the making of laws is as much a part of the president's job as it is that of Congress. It takes a presidential signature to make a bill into law. Also his influence is such that, if his views are persuasive, he can keep a measure from becoming law by arguments that appeal to one vote more in either house than a mere minority of one-third of the membership.

The president's influence on legislative compromises is incalculable. As legislation reaches the final stages, a change here or there, with presidential approval, or a change to meet his objections can sometimes mean the passage of legislation that otherwise might fall by the wayside. The American people do not want their chief executive to stand on technicalities and use the veto power when it is too late to change a measure and get a substitute passed without the features to which a president may take exception.

No Confidence Vote

If there is no president on the job to do business with, his party in Congress goes its own way and helps to override vetoes. Within the last 24 hours Congress, by two-thirds votes, has overridden Mr. Truman's vetoes again and again. In a parliamentary system of government, this would mean a "vote of no confidence" and a prime minister would resign.

Inasmuch as the Republicans have a bare majority of the Senate, the fact that a two-thirds vote is mustered against Mr. Truman's views means that a large number of Democrats have been voting against their party leader. It must be that they think his views are unpersuasive or else that they feel some legislation on certain subjects is better than none. In any event the record does not show that Congress is taking Mr. Truman's vete measures seriously. The Congress feels they are canned statements drafted by cabinet officers or executive agency heads in the absence of the president from Washington.

What could Mr. Truman have accomplished had he stayed in Washington? The power of publicity, the power to influence public opinion, is just as great if not greater when a president is in Washington than when he is away.

Present Congress Vulnerable

The present Congress, moreover, is vulnerable. There are a dozen points on which Mr. Truman might have scored political gains had he stayed in Washington and put the searchlight on what the two houses are doing in the closing days. Every Congress in the last days of a session is similarly vulnerable but Mr. Truman had the opportunity of his career to put the opposite party on the spot with messages and statements issued from Washington. Likewise, he had a chance to consolidate the ranks of his own arty.

All together, Mr. Truman may have seen even as many as 5,000,000 persons on his tour but what he said in his impromptu remarks and what he failed to do in absenting himself from Washington at a critical time could conceivably weaken his political position with many of the other 50,000,000 voters who didnt see him but read both the accounts of the speeches and the dispatches from Washington on what is happening here. A president's first duty in the closing days of a session is to be in the White House. Some have even journeyed to the Capitol itself to be available for conference.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

PHILADELPHIA, June 17—(INS)—The passing show:

For probably the first time in the history of a national convention the politicos are worried about a fight. Not one of their own, of course. They come naturally. This one is the Louis-Walcott fight.

The fight, erroneously billed as Louis's last, is scheduled to start at 10 p. m. (E.D.T.) next Wednesday night. It has a potential Hooper rating in the 60's, which more or less means that about 60,000,000 people want to listen to it on their radios and then buy a newspaper the next day and find out what happened.

In addition, it shows every indication of being able to attract the biggest television audience in the history of that medium, for there are plans to televise it, by co-axial cable and microwave, from New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, Richmond, Boston and Schenectady.

More than 500,000 sets, including saloon screens, will be within range.

But if there is a night session of the Republican convention next Wednesday it may take precedence in both radio and television, certainly in the latter. Some students of the convention agenda believe that balloting will be under way by the night of June 23.

Some Republicans fear, with a mighty fear, that the drive wheels of the convention will go on with a night session even if only oratory is scheduled, and that this will hurt the party's chances with millions of possible supporters who are — in a case like a heavyweight championship — sports fans first.

Anyway, it's all very ticklish because, to coin an arresting phrase, little things count heavily in politics.

If you don't believe that then please remember that the Dewey forces, alarmed by reports that their champion had ordered a dog evicted from one of his Nebraska rallies, released a statement that what the Governor shouted was an invitation to the dog to come up on the dais and join him — for it seems Dewey once had a terrier like that one.

The Sioux Indians are said to be sore at Dewey because he wouldn't make himself ridiculous by wearing one of their ceremonial headdresses, and that Texans are muttering about Taft because he snored through a ball game down there.

P.S.—No one will be more distressed than Joe Louis if his fight somehow antagonizes possible G.O.P. voters. For Joe is an active worker for the party.

—o—

Both parties, as usual, will make use of professional demonstrators. We have not yet discovered whether inflation has hit this calling. In previous conventions they worked for a buck a demonstration.

The pro, more often than not, is a bum who happens to be loitering in the neighborhood of a Convention Hall and is well-scrubbed enough not to appear conspicuous when called upon to strut his stuff.

He and his fellow pros swell the sound and size of those carefully planned "spontaneous" outbursts which follow the nomination of each candidate. Along with the regular disciples of the candidate in question, the pros are marshalled in a corridor just off the main floor of Convention Hall. They stand around, smoking free cigarets and drinking coffee out of a paper cup, until their cue.

Then they pick up their banners or New Year's eve noise-makers, straighten up, and march into the hall. The permanent chairman lets them caterwaul up and down the aisle for five or ten minutes and then begins to whack his gavel on the sounding board.

This is a signal for them to raise more hell, which they promptly do. And after another five minutes the chairman gives up in despair, sits down and talks until they run out of steam. The pros fade away and wait a new assignment, and a new candidate.

—o—

Speaking of Indians, if any appear here as delegates and cannot find a hotel room, Philadelphia has a park in which they can pitch their tepees. No kidding. It is a public garden set aside in the early days of the republic for itinerant red-men who travelled with their homes on the backs of their squaws. It is still here, and the law has never been amended.

Today's Talk

History

There is no more useful study than that of history. Until you have gone into the background of a country's life, learned of its formative years, and studied the lives of those who have become its outstanding leaders and rulers, you are in no position to discuss that country's present problems.

When you go to a phyician with a physical complaint, that wise man questions you to get all the details of history regarding your physical background, so that he can the better evolve a course to prescribe for you in bringing you back to health again. You must get to the root of a thing to know how to handle it or to understand it.

History is the complete story. You wouldn't read an important book by starting at the last few pages and expect to know anything about its over-all picture, its plot, or unified story. To know most about a country, read of its great men and women. They are the ones who give the spark to all history. You get the feel of America after you have read the lives of Washington, Franklin, Jefferson, Jackson and Lincoln. And to learn about South America you must study the life of Bolivar, who freed its countries from Spanish rule. A most inspiring character.

History plays a part even far more important than the mere knowledge that it imparts. It teaches lessons. It teaches the value of avoiding mistakes in government. It teaches the futility of all wars—but this latter lesson doesn't seem to carry finality with it! This is one of the most unfortunate facts of history.

History tells you about the peples, the customs, the habits, the occupations, and the chief productions and industries of a country. A people's language sets it apart, so that it is often difficult for several nations to understand one another as they should. And different forms of government make it difficult for a universal understanding. History tells us all about these things, and enlightens one so that all current discussions are better understood.

You have to know the history of a person or a country to justly appraise it. Beyond and underneath all this there are the thrill and fascination to the study of history and of those who make it. The best citizens of a country know its history!

Russian Walkout Might Blow Out

BERLIN, June 17 (AP) — There were hopeful signs tonight that the Russian walkout on last night's Kommandatura meeting might blow over without a permanent rupture of the four-power city governing body.

The Russians clumped out of the meeting angrily and without waiting for a date for the next session to be set.

They charged that Col. Frank Howley, United States representative, left the meeting before it was adjourned and assigned his deputy to continue for him. They said he did so because he did not want to hear their labor legislation proposals. They demanded an apology.

Howley said he had announced beforehand that he would have to leave the meeting—long-winded and bitterly debated—before midnight. He said his departure did not breach Kommandatura etiquette.

The Russians were plainly angry last night, but they had cooled off enough today to show up for three Kommandatura subcommittee meetings. These meetings proceeded normally and, so far as could be learned there was no official mention of last night's unpleasantness.

Western observers noted that significant difference from the Russian walkout March 20 on the Allied Control Council, four-power governing body for Germany. They also boycotted subcommittee meetings of the council. Neither the control council nor any of its committees has met since.

Definite indciations of ultimate Soviet intentions toward the Kommandatura may come June 23 when a meeting of the city's deputy commandants is scheduled.

Stassen's Claim

after deciding a sixth—from Maryland—would have to be settled by the Maryland delegation itself. The Free State picked 20 delegates instead of their allotted 16. Jacob France, national committeeman, promised the issue would be settled by the delegation Monday morning.

4—James S. Kemper, party treasurer, reported an $800,000 surplus in the war chest with which to start the post-convention campaign.

Herbert Brownell, one of Dewey's managers, took exception to Stassen's forecast of victory on the ninth ballot.

Brownell, told a news conference it is "not an impossibility" that the nomination will be decided before the convention meets.

It is his information, Brownell said, that New York gamblers now are betting 5 to 4 on Dewey against the field.

The word tabloid was originally a trade name for an English drug which was distributed in tablet form. Its present meaning—a newspaper only half the size of an ordinary paper—was derived from the trade name.

GOP SECRETARY—Mrs. Dudley C. Hay, Detroit, Mich., is shown at her desk in the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel, Philadelphia, after she set up shop yesterday as the first woman of any political party to handle the man-sized job of secretary of a major party convention. As secretary of the Republican national convention, opening here Monday, she will call the official roll of delegates.

Two and a half hours after the crash, Coroner John Evans said 16 bodies had been recovered.

"We don't expect to get any more," he said.

Ed Darlington, of radio station WCNR at nearby Bloomsburg, said "there was no sign of life and apparently everyone was killed."

He said "bodies and arms and legs were strewn all over the place. The plane just broke up into little pieces. One of the engines was the biggest thing left."

Found in the charred wreckage was a half-burned script of the NBC radio show, "Take It Or Leave It," featuring Gary Moore on Sunday night broadcasts.

Moore said no one from the show was aboard the plane and that the script was being airmailed to New York.

News of the crash brought excited whisperings from Republican national convention delegates gathering in Philadelphia. There was no indication, however, that any of those killed was a GOP delegate.

promise was in a letter to Egyptian Prime Minister Nokrashy Pasha in reply to Egyptian complaints that the Jews seized vantage points after the truce became effective.

Haifa dispatches said the U. S. S. Tydings Presents Party Vote Study

WASHINGTON, June 17 (AP) — Sen. Tydings (D-Md.) today called Senate attention to voting records of Democratic and Republican members of Congress on major international questions during the past 10 years.

He read his tabulation of the vote by parties in the House and Senate on 26 bills or amendments as his test for the "general pattern" of Democratic and Republican lawmakers.

It showed that a majority of Republicans in the Senate or House, or both, had voted against key measures 14 times as against once for Democrats. But only three of Tydings' tests were since Republicans gained control of Congress in 1946.

Tydings noted that 18 Republican senators opposed the $3,750,000,000 loan to England in 1946 while 17 favored it and that 24 GOP senators supported and 23 opposed Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) in his effort this year to reduce the European recovery program fund from $5,300,000,000 to $4,000,000,000.

On final passage of the $5,300,000,000 ERP bill both parties in the Senate and House racked up majorities.

The Senator used huge charts of Senate and House votes to explain his tabulation.

Tydings said he presented his party vote study "without partisan comment insofar as I can."

aimed in that direction. He apparently referred to an appropriations bill carrying a rider transferring the United States Employment Service to the Federal Security Agency.

"The Republican platform of 1944 made the statement that they expected to make a strong Labor Department," the President said. "They have absolutely controverted that platform. They have done everything they possibly could to tear up the Labor Department."

Fear "Boom And Bust"

The President said Congress so far has prevented him from raising the minimum wage from 40 to 75 cents. He said he was afraid the congressional program was leading toward "a boom and bust."

He did not say what other bills he intends to veto.

Mr. Truman started out from his home town of Independence this morning after goodbye kisses for Mrs. Truman and his daughter, Margaret, and his sister, Miss Mary Jane Truman, Grandview.

Margaret, a favorite with the crowds on his swing through the West, remained behind with her mother for a vacation at the Truman home as the President resumed his journey to Washington where he is due at 11:55 a. m. (EST) tomorrow.

It was the ousting of workers at the Bergougnan tire factory that caused Tuesday night's bloodshed.

Although the strikes appeared to be waning there remained considerable labor unrest in France. Approximately 100,000 were striking; the fundamental causes were salaries and the high cost of living.

Anti-Red Measure Opposed By Clark

WASHINGTON, June 17—(AP)—Attorney General Tom Clark has advised the Senate that the Mundt-Nixon bill to curb Communists is unwise and of doubtful constitutionality, it was announced today. Meanwhile there arose new congressional warnings that Russia wants to move the capital from Washington to Moscow.

Clark advised the Senate not to pass the bill. He said it would drive Communists underground and make doubly difficult the Justice Department's job of law enforcement.

The congressional warnings on Communism came in a booklet published by the House Committee on Un-American activities. It said United States Communists are engaged in a "cold war treason."

The Mundt-Nixon bill already has passed the House and is now being studied by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

It requires Communists and Communist-front organizations to register. Failure to do so would be punished by $10,000 fine and 10 years in prison.

took the center of the stage and raised congressional voices — some times to the screaming point.

Mustering far more strength than they thought they had, House foes of the already - riddled measure rammed through an amendment which would postpone the first inductions at least until the end of next January—long after election day.

The strength of the curb-the-draft forces, a strange coalition including Henry A. Wallace backers and their bitter foes, was so great that some predicted the entire bill might be defeated. If the bill passed, there was a question whether the Senate would accept so watered-down a measure.

The Senate has passed a draft bill of its own, providing for two years' service with the armed forces. The House bill in its present form cuts the period to one year and adds numerous other limiting amendments.

Taft told newsmen Congress just cannot adjourn for good without passing a draft bill.

During the crowded day, the Senate completed congressional action on the $3,749,059,250 Navy appropriation bill and sent it to the White House.

A joint Senate-House conference committee, however, failed to reach any accord on the $6,000,000,000 foreign aid bill. One of the principal differences between the Senate and House versions is whether the funds must last 12 to 15 months. The Senate voted to allow the money all to be spent in one year.

The House Banking Committee approved a housing bill stripped of public housing and slum clearance provisions. There was no certainty when a House vote would be reached. And there was a possibility that the Senate would reject a "watered down" measure.

The Senate already has passed the Taft - Ellender - Wagner Act giving federal aid for the building of 15,000,000 houses. The T-E-W bill would permit the federal government itself to finance the building of 500,000 homes for low-income families.

The House voted, 297 to 102, for overturning Mr. Truman's latest veto. The Senate had taken the same action yesterday, 63 to 25. Both votes were well over the necessary two-thirds margin.

The measure was the Bulwinkle bill allowing railroads and other surface carriers to get together on fixing rates if the Interstate Commerce Commission approves.

Doctor Charged With Sale Of Illegitimate Babies

NEW YORK, June 17 (AP)—A 40-year-old Manhattan physician was arrested today charged with selling illegitimate babies for adoption.

District Attorney Frank S. Hogan said the physician, Dr. Abraham Schonholtz, was charged with the sale of two illegitimate babies. One child, Hogan said, was sold for $1,700.

Hogan said the physician paid $320 to the two prospective mothers during their pregnancy and promised them another $300 when the final adoption papers were signed.

Russian Walkout Might Blow Out

BERLIN, June 17 (AP) — There were hopeful signs tonight that the Russian walkout on last night's Kommandatura meeting might blow over without a permanent rupture of the four-power city governing body.

The Russians clumped out of the meeting angrily and without waiting for a date for the next session to be set.

They charged that Col. Frank Howley, United States representative, left the meeting before it was adjourned and assigned his deputy to continue for him. They said he did so because he did not want to hear their labor legislation proposals. They demanded an apology.

Howley said he had announced beforehand that he would have to leave the meeting—long-winded and bitterly debated—before midnight. He said his departure did not breach Kommandatura etiquette.

The Russians were plainly angry last night, but they had cooled off enough today to show up for three Kommandatura subcommittee meetings. These meetings proceeded normally and, so far as could be learned there was no official mention of last night's unpleasantness.

Western observers noted that significant difference from the Russian walkout March 20 on the Allied Control Council, four-power governing body for Germany. They also boycotted subcommittee meetings of the council. Neither the control council nor any of its committees has met since.

Definite indciations of ultimate Soviet intentions toward the Kommandatura may come June 23 when a meeting of the city's deputy commandants is scheduled.

after deciding a sixth—from Maryland—would have to be settled by the Maryland delegation itself. The Free State picked 20 delegates instead of their allotted 16. Jacob France, national committeeman, promised the issue would be settled by the delegation Monday morning.

4—James S. Kemper, party treasurer, reported an $800,000 surplus in the war chest with which to start the post-convention campaign.

Herbert Brownell, one of Dewey's managers, took exception to Stassen's forecast of victory on the ninth ballot.

Brownell, told a news conference it is "not an impossibility" that the nomination will be decided before the convention meets.

It is his information, Brownell said, that New York gamblers now are betting 5 to 4 on Dewey against the field.

The word tabloid was originally a trade name for an English drug which was distributed in tablet form. Its present meaning—a newspaper only half the size of an ordinary paper—was derived from the trade name.

GOP SECRETARY—Mrs. Dudley C. Hay, Detroit, Mich., is shown at her desk in the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel, Philadelphia, after she set up shop yesterday as the first woman of any political party to handle the man-sized job of secretary of a major party convention. As secretary of the Republican national convention, opening here Monday, she will call the official roll of delegates.

Two and a half hours after the crash, Coroner John Evans said 16 bodies had been recovered.

"We don't expect to get any more," he said.

Ed Darlington, of radio station WCNR at nearby Bloomsburg, said "there was no sign of life and apparently everyone was killed."

He said "bodies and arms and legs were strewn all over the place. The plane just broke up into little pieces. One of the engines was the biggest thing left."

Found in the charred wreckage was a half-burned script of the NBC radio show, "Take It Or Leave It," featuring Gary Moore on Sunday night broadcasts.

Moore said no one from the show was aboard the plane and that the script was being airmailed to New York.

News of the crash brought excited whisperings from Republican national convention delegates gathering in Philadelphia. There was no indication, however, that any of those killed was a GOP delegate.

Chief Flynn Defends Attitude Of Police

Taking exception to a recent editorial in a Keyser, W. Va., newspaper concerning the "surly attitude of Cumberland cops toward West Virginia motorists," Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn says he has not received any complaints about the officers being discourteous.

The newspaper editorial says in part, "More and more we hear stories of the surly attitude of Cumberland cops toward people driving in the Maryland City in cars bearing West Virginia license." The article goes on to quote several recent incidents about discourteous actions on the part of Cumberland police officers.

Flynn says he has not received a single complaint, and that all officers have specific orders to be courteous to all drivers, both local and out-of-state.

Route 40 Stretch To Be Resurfaced

Another Allegany County highway improvement project will get underway Monday when the Cumberland Contracting Company begins draining, widening and resurfacing Route 40 from the city limits to Crystal Park.

The work will not include a third of a mile of road near Long where a new bridge is to be erected and the road straightened in conjunction with relocation work on Route 40 between the Six Mile House and Frostburg.

Other projects underway are resurfacing of McMullen Highway, and a similar project on Route 40 from Green Ridge Mountain to the Allegany County line.

The largest project now underway is the relocation of Route 40, G. Bates Chaires, district engineer of the State Roads Commission, said.

Volunteer Firemen To Attend Conclave

Volunteer firemen from Allegany and Garrett County are making preparations to attend the 56th annual convention of the Maryland Firemen's Association, which will be held in Ocean City, June 23.

Millard Tawes will respond. Others to take part are Dr. Harry C. Byrd, president of the University of Maryland; Claude A. Handley, state insurance commissioner, and Congressman J. An election of officers will feature the sessions, with William A. Wilson, Midland, expected to be re-elected to the treasurer post he now holds.

Chief Flynn Defends Attitude Of Police

Taking exception to a recent editorial in a Keyser, W. Va., newspaper concerning the "surly attitude of Cumberland cops toward West Virginia motorists," Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn says he has not received any complaints about the officers being discourteous.

The newspaper editorial says in part, "More and more we hear stories of the surly attitude of Cumberland cops toward people driving in the Maryland City in cars bearing West Virginia license." The article goes on to quote several recent incidents about discourteous actions on the part of Cumberland police officers.

Flynn says he has not received a single complaint, and that all officers have specific orders to be courteous to all drivers, both local and out-of-state.

Route 40 Stretch To Be Resurfaced

Another Allegany County highway improvement project will get underway Monday when the Cumberland Contracting Company begins draining, widening and resurfacing Route 40 from the city limits to Crystal Park.

The work will not include a third of a mile of road near Long where a new bridge is to be erected and the road straightened in conjunction with relocation work on Route 40 between the Six Mile House and Frostburg.

Other projects underway are resurfacing of McMullen Highway, and a similar project on Route 40 from Green Ridge Mountain to the Allegany County line.

The largest project now underway is the relocation of Route 40, G. Bates Chaires, district engineer of the State Roads Commission, said.

Policeman Pays Fine For Centre Street Man

Patrolman F. O. Daum was credited with paying the fine of David Raney, 176 North Centre Street, yesterday in Police Court, after Raney had been arrested Wednesday night on a drunk charge.

Dr. Leonard S. Cooper, 108 Lutzman Highway, was given a suspended sentence after he admitted tearing up a parking ticket. According to testimony, Dr. Cooper believed he was allowed to park on a red line in front of his office, as long as he had a parking permit.

The gaming charge hearing of Cecil Sagle, 515 North Mechanic Street, and five companions, was postponed until today, when the case could be heard by Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr.

The Lake of the Ozarks in central Missouri has a shoreline of over 1,300 miles, although it is only 129 miles in length. A man-made lake, formed by damming the Osage river, it has one of the best developed resort areas in Missouri.

This combination of matching love seats, unusual coffee table and gay hearth rug makes a pleasing, though formalized, grouping in front of the mirror-paneled fireplace. It is a striking example of perfect balance.

Volunteer Firemen To Attend Conclave

Volunteer firemen from Allegany and Garrett County are making preparations to attend the 56th annual convention of the Maryland Firemen's Association, which will be held in Ocean City, June 23.

Governor William Preston Lane will head a list of speakers at the convention. Congressman Edward T. Miller will deliver the address of welcome and State Banking Commissioner J. Millard Tawes will respond. Others to take part are Dr. Harry C. Byrd, president of the University of Maryland; Claude A. Handley, state insurance commissioner, and Congressman J. Caleb Boggs, Delaware.

An election of officers will feature the sessions, with William A. Wilson, Midland, expected to be re-elected to the treasurer post he now holds.

Famed Mascot Is Dead

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Soochow is dead of old age. That is sad news for the men of the old Fourth Marine Regiment who kept the dog alive through three years in Japanese prison camps.

The dog was picked up along Soochow creek as a pup when the regiment was stationed in Shanghai. That was in 1937. Adopted by the regiment, he left with it when it went to the Philippines in 1941. After the fall of Corregidor, the mascot went with some of the men to the Bilibad prison camp and remained there until liberation in 1947. Since then he has been at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot in San Diego.

Soochow had the rank of sergeant and held the specification serial number 037, or "meat cuter." He qualified as a first class swimmer. Two offenses were listed against him in his service record. Once he went AWOL and again he was charged with keeping company with a female of questionable character.

PITCHING HORSESHOES by Billy Rose

In today's mail was an envelope with a Brooklyn postmark. It contained a sheet of ruled yellow paper—the kind that sells for a nickel a pad. Across the sheet an unprintable racial crack was lettered out in red crayon. Of course, there was no signature.

Billy Rose

Until recently, I used to get mad when I received these psychopathic outbursts against Jews, Catholics, Negroes or Protestants. But no more—I've boned up on these hate hucksters and I know what's bothering them. I know that they're sick, that they've got big miseries in the head, and that when they write their little murder notes they're looking for relief, much as you do when you reach for a bromo or an aspirin.

Another reason I can't get mad at my anonymous correspondent is that I've known him all my life. When I was a kid living up at Ft. George, his name was Albie. He was a frustrated little cuss—not very bright in his studies and not enough of an athelete to get on any of the teams. His old man drank a lot and sometimes would kick him around for the fun of it.

Albie started getting even with the world by beating up other kids who were smaller than he was. I was one of those kids, and he gave me a rough time of it until I attached a lock to a strap off a Singer sewing machine and belted him on the side of the head with this ad-lib weapon.

A few years lated I changed schools, but Albie was still in my class, except this time his name was George. George was forever talking about girls, although no girl would talk to him. He did it in a way which made even the best cussers in school feel uncomfortable.

Once George threw a rock at my grandfather. I remember the old gent coming home with blood on his cheek and protesting it was just a scratch. When I started out to avenge the family honor with my trusty lock and strap, he stopped me and made me promise to forget the stone-chucking. My grandpop told me George was suffering from an old sickness, and that I couldn't cure it by hitting him over the head with a lock.

When I went to high school, the red crayon expert had still another name—Otto. One day in front of other kids, Otto tried to pin a murder rap on me. I told him I had an air-tight alibi: I wasn't anywhere in the neighborhood when He was killed, and I had witnesses to prove it.

Otto called himself Frank when I met him five years later. He was wrapping bundles in a downtown wholesale house. He told me he couldn't get a decent job because the bosses were all Catholics or Jews. I offered to introduce him to a Presbyterian boss, but Frank said they were the worst of all—slave drivers. Later I learned that the head of the wholesale house had hired him even though he knew Frank had done a two-year stretch for burglary.

During my first 20 years in show business, Frank wrote me on an average of once a month. To keep me guessing, he used different names and different styles of penmanship. Sometimes he made it even more complicated by mailing his letters from cities like Boston, Detroit and Scottsboro, Ala.

I didn't see him again until we met in Germany in 1945. His name now was Vic, and he was a Special Service officer. Vic told me how much he was impressed with the cleanliness and good manners of the Nazis, and confided that we had fought the war on the wrong side. I asked him about Dachau, Buchenwald and Auschwitz. He assured me it was a lot of propaganda.

Since he got out of the Army, Vic hasn't been signing his letters. This, of course, worries me. It means that my old chum-buddy is sicker than ever, and that in addition to thinking like a rat, he's now hiding out like one. Poor little spiritual numbskull—when his head fills up with more hate than it can hold, he gets out his red crayon and nickel pad of paper. Sometimes he mails his bile and bilge to a priest. Sometimes the address is the home of a colored family. Sometimes it's me.

I happened to notice the stamp he used on this morning's letter. It was a stamp I hadn't seen before—one that the Post Office Department put out only a couple of weeks ago. It shows four men, their arms linked, standing on the deck of a sinking vessel. It commemorates one of the great war stories—the four chaplains aboard the troopship Dorchester which was torpedoed in the North Atlantic in 1943.

Two were Protestant ministers, one was a Jewish rabbi, the fourth was a Catholic priest. There weren't enough preservers to go around, and so these men of God handed their life belts to soldiers. When last seen, they were knee-deep in water on the sinking ship, each praying in his own language and according to his own faith:

"Our Father, who art in Heaven. . ."

"Miserere mei Deus, secundum magnam misericordian taum. . ."

"Shama Yisroel Adoney Elehenu Adoney Schod. . ."

As I write this, the scrawl in red crayon and the canceled stamp are both on my desk. Looking at them, I feel like the mathematics teacher who, discouraged by a pupil's inability to add 2 and 2, suddenly remembers that the human race also produced Einstein.

PITCHING HORSESHOES by Billy Rose

In today's mail was an envelope with a Brooklyn postmark. It contained a sheet of ruled yellow paper—the kind that sells for a nickel a pad. Across the sheet an unprintable racial crack was lettered out in red crayon. Of course, there was no signature.

Billy Rose

Until recently, I used to get mad when I received these psychopathic outbursts against Jews, Cotholics, Negroes or Protestants. But no more—I've boned up on these hate hucksters and I know what's bothering them. I know that they're sick, that they've got big miseries in the head, and that when they write their little murder notes they're looking for relief, much as you do when you reach for a bromo or an aspirin.

Another reason I can't get mad at my anonymous correspondent is that I've known him all my life. When I was a kid living up at Ft. George, his name was Albie. He was a frustrated little cuss—not very bright in his studies and not enough of an athelete to get on any of the teams. His old man drank a lot and sometimes would kick him around for the fun of it.

Albie started getting even with the world by beating up other kids who were smaller than he was. I was one of those kids, and he gave me a rough time of it until I attached a lock to a strap off a Singer sewing machine and belted him on the side of the head with this ad-lib weapon.

A few years lated I changed schools, but Albie was still in my class, except this time his name was George. George was forever talking about girls, although no girl would talk to him. He did it in a way which made even the best cussers in school feel uncomfortable.

Once George threw a rock at my grandfather. I remember the old gent coming home with blood on his cheek and protesting it was just a scratch. When I started out to avenge the family honor with my trusty lock and strap, he stopped me and made me promise to forget the stone-chucking. My grandpop told me George was suffering from an old sickness, and that I couldn't cure it by hitting him over the head with a lock.

When I went to high school, the red crayon expert had still another name—Otto. One day in front of other kids, Otto tried to pin a murder rap on me. I told him I had an air-tight alibi: I wasn't anywhere in the neighborhood when He was killed, and I had witnesses to prove it.

Otto called himself Frank when I met him five years later. He was wrapping bundles in a downtown wholesale house. He told me he couldn't get a decent job because the bosses were all Catholics or Jews. I offered to introduce him to a Presbyterian boss, but Frank said they were the worst of all—slave drivers. Later I learned that the head of the wholesale house had hired him even though he knew Frank had done a two-year stretch for burglary.

During my first 20 years in show business, Frank wrote me on an average of once a month. To keep me guessing, he used different names and different styles of penmanship. Sometimes he made it even more complicated by mailing his letters from cities like Boston, Detroit and Scottsboro, Ala.

I didn't see him again until we met in Germany in 1945. His name now was Vic, and he was a Special Service officer. Vic told me how much he was impressed with the cleanliness and good manners of the Nazis, and confided that we had fought the war on the wrong side. I asked him about Dachau, Buchenwald and Auschwitz. He assured me it was a lot of propaganda.

Since he got out of the Army, Vic hasn't been signing his letters. This, of course, worries me. It means that my old chum-buddy is sicker than ever, and that in addition to thinking like a rat, he's now hiding out like one. Poor little spiritual numbskull—when his head fills up with more hate than it can hold, he gets out his red crayon and nickel pad of paper. Sometimes he mails his bile and bilge to a priest. PRIVATE FLYING

By WADE L. BERG

This week I shall relate an incident which contains lessons for safer flying.

While hangar flying at the Mexico Farms airport a few years back, one of our then local pilots came in from a few hours of pleasure flying in his single place mid-wing plane. This plane had only one seat and that was for the pilot, thus it was impossible to get any aerial instruction in it, creating this incident.

The group was discussing the merits of the small plane and asking questions about its characteristics in the air. The owner pilot, confessing his recent acquaintance with the plane, said that he had done only straight flying with it although he wished that some of the pilots with more experience would take it up and put it through the paces.

One of the more experienced pilots volunteered to give it a try. Checking the plane on the ground it seemed okay so he donned a parachute and went aloft. Putting the craft through a series of snap-rolls, loops and a spin he came in and landed, announcing that the plane handled nicely and was quite airworthy.

The owner, quite elated with the performance, then stated his intention to try a snap-roll and inquired as how to handle the controls in order to properly execute the maneuver. After being given ground schooling by the group, he asked the important question, "Is there any chance getting into trouble doing this?" Told that there was plenty of chance and also what to do if trouble came his way he put his parachute on and took off.

He climbed to 5,000 feet and started his snap-roll which he completed beautifully. Evidently thinking that this was a simple maneuver he immediately tried another which gave him the trouble he had inquired about.

By way of explanation:

A snap-roll is done in a light plane by the co-ordination of both stick and rudder with full advanced throttle.

The plane did a double snap-roll and went into a power-on spin. He recovered from the spin after several gyrations and went into a long power dive, leveling out about 1,000 feet above the ground.

Relating his thoughts and experience after he landed, he said that the first roll was easy so he thought he would try it again. On the second trial he wasn't sure what happened except he knew he was in a spin and wanted out of it in a hurry, so he shoved the stick forward which stopped the spin but put him into such a power dive that he was momentarily afraid to pull out.

However, he had to pull out sometime, so still having plenty of altitude he pulled out slowly to keep from putting undue strain on the plane and pilot.

NOTE: This pilot was wise in getting plenty of advice before trying aerobatics, getting plenty of altitude before starting his maneuver, wearing a parachute and not getting excited when cool thinking was most needed. Where possible aerobatics should be learned under the tutelage of a competent instructor.

Happy Landing!

STOCKHOLM (AP)—A woman at Torshaella in central Sweden placed her perambulator at the side of a house, picked up her baby and went in through the doorway. A minute later a four year old boy came tumbling out through a window on the fourth floor and landed safely in the perambulator.

Survey Shows American Housewives Do Not Know How To Make Good Tea

The unhappy suspicion that American housewives don't know how to make good tea has just been confirmed by an Elmo Roper survey of the beverage habits of Americans in the summertime.

Mr. Roper's interviewers came back from calls on 8,000 representative Americans with the astonishing information that only four out of 100 women make tea correctly—except by accident. The survey also revealed that most housewives are only vaguely aware of the cost of tea and don't know that it is the most inexpensive drink they can serve.

Fewer than one out of three housewives could give a specific price, when they were asked what they paid for the last packages of tea they bought. Only one out of 16 knew within a few cents how much she paid for tea.

More than 3 out of 5 housewives did not know that iced tea is cheaper than hot coffee. Three out of four are not aware that it is cheaper than iced coffee. About half of them did not know that iced tea is cheaper than lemonade.

The fact is that tea is easier to prepare than any other beverage Americans drink, but only four housewives in a hundred prepare it according to the simple principles of the Tea Association's Brewing Committee—except by accident. Most housewives make tea by guess, hoping that it will be good tea.

These basic steps for making good tea have been recommended by the Tea Association of the U.S.A., which represents packers and distributors of tea:

1. Use a china or glass teapot.
2. Use one teaspoonful of tea or one tea bag for each cup served.
3. Pour on fresh, bubbling, briskly boiling water.
4. Allow to stand for five minutes.

For iced tea: pour into glasses filled with ice.

The need for boiling water for good tea seems pretty well established in the public mind. Nine out of 10 housewives say they use it. Loose tea users are more careless with measurements of tea and water than tea bag users. Almost half—49 per cent—of loose tea users don't measure both water and tea, while only 1 out of 5—19 per cent—tea bag users fail to measure the water. On the other hand, only 1 out of 8 loose tea users admits measuring out less than one spoonful for each cup or glass, while 1 out of 4 tea bag users confess to making more than one cup or glass with each bag.

Many women who have used boiling water and the right amounts of tea fall by the wayside when it comes to steeping. Only 1 out of 14 actually times the brew for 4 to 6 minutes. More than half don't time it at all, but judge by color, which they seem to regard as a reliable guide. Of those who do time it, one-fourth fail to steep it for the necessary five minutes.

Fortunately, tea is a compliant product which yields many of its delightful qualities even for those who don't follow the rules. But it seems obvious, fro mthe Roper survey, that many Americans don't know how good tea can be, because they never drank any good tea.

If you want to make the members of your family and friends happier this summer, here is an approved method of preparing iced tea. This "concentrate" method saves ice, and greatly reduces the amount of water which must be boiled. To make eight servings in a pitcher:

1. Put eight teaspoonsful of tea, or eight tea bags, into a teapot, and pour on one pint (two glasses) of fresh boiling water.
2. Allow to stand for five minutes, stir, and strain into a serving pitcher.
3. Dilute with two pints (four full glasses) of cold tap water and let stand at room temperature until ready to serve.
4. Fill glasses with ice, and pour tea from pitcher over the ice.

Molotov Gets A Ride

FRANKFURT (AP)—An indignant German editor has pulled a fast one on German bureaucracy. In Germany you need a pass for almost everything—even if you want to ride a street car. For a season ticket you must file an application, plus a pass photo.

Pass photos are hard to get. An editor of the "Darmstadter Echo" tried for six months and couldn't get one. The Darmstadt street car people said it was too bad he couldn't get a season ticket. Then he found an old picture of V. I. Molotov, Russian foreign minister, and attached it to his application. At last reports, he had his ticket and was still riding the street cars.

The historically famous Rosetta stone—a slab of black basalt—was found near the western mouth of the Nile River by one of Napoleon's officers in 1799.

IT'S FUN TO EAT OUTDOORS

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

It may be that the promotion surrounding June as Dairy Month has already influenced you to take stock of your family's eating habits to make absolutely sure that they are getting the milk and other dairy products they need for good health. If not, it would be a good idea to do so. Are the children in your family getting the three or four glasses of milk they need every day? Are the adults getting at least two? If they aren't, do you meet the problem wisely, and frequently serve soups, sauces, drinks, puddings and other deserts that use milk? No one can overstress the importance of milk-drinking as a daily habit—as all nutrition surveys show.

Cool, tall, well-flavored milk drinks served with sandwiches and dessert make fine summer lunches. One of the nice things about a menu of this sort is that it makes easy tray service possible on the porch or lawn. Try these French Toasted Cheese Sandwiches and Maple Coolers, shown in the photograph, and see if you don't agree.

FRENCH TOASTED CHEESE SANDWICHES . . . Informal.

French Toasted Cheese Sandwiches

12 slices bread
Softened butter
2 cups freshly grated American cheese
½ cup chopped green or stuffed olives
2 tablespoons minced onion or chives, if desired
2 eggs, well-beaten
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup milk

Spread one side of the bread slices with softened butter. Blend grated cheese, chopped olives and onion or chives (if used) and spread on 6 of the buttered bread slices. Make into sandwiches and cut in diagonal halves. Beat eggs well; add salt and milk and stir to blend. Pour into shallow dish. Dip each sandwich in egg mixture, turning it to coat both sides thoroughly. Brown on both sides in butter in a moderately hot heavy skillet. Serve hot with a variety of vegetable relishes—scallions, carrots, cucumbers, romaine. Makes 6 sandwiches.

Maple Coolers

6 tablespoons maple or maple-flavored syrup
Few grains salt
1½ quarts cold milk
1 pint vanilla ice cream
Maple or brown sugar

Combine maple syrup, salt and milk, blending well. Pour into 6 cold glasses. Top each glass with ice cream and sprinkle top with maple or brown sugar. 6 servings.

Whenever we are at my sister's New Jersey farm in the summer we always use a lot of delicious milk soups made with garden vegetables. On cool days we serve them hot, on very warm days we're likely to chill them to a delicious frostiness and garnish them atractively. By the way, we've discovered that the youngsters enjoy having the soup served in tea cups. Recently my sister had a "country supper" company menu that was so good I'd like to pass it on. Cream of asparagus soup was the first course, made with a cream sauce base and asparagus from the garden, and topped with chopped chives. Then came a baked ham slice spread with a teaspoon of dry mustard, a tablespoon of brown sugar and two tablespoons of cider vinegar that had been blended together; around the ham went sliced sweet potatoes. Along with this came Boston lettuce and cucumbers with French dressing. Stewed plums topped off the meal—and a home-baked oatmeal quick bread, served with cream cheese beaten until fluffy with a little milk, was served from beginning to end.

Here is an easy-to-make vegetable chowder that will hit the spot on a cool or rainy night.

Quick Vegetable Chowder

3 cups diced potatoes
2 cups diced carrots
1½ cups sliced onions
2 cups boiling water
2½ teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
Dash of paprika
3 cups milk
2 tablespoons butter
Parsley

Cook potatoes, carrots, onions in boiling water plus 1 teaspoon salt until tender. Mash vegetables in water remaining. Add milk with remaining salt, pepper and paprika; heat thoroughly and serve topped with a sprinkling of chopped parsley. 6 servings.

Breakfast Has "Held That Line" For Price Since Previous Year

"Hold that line!" murmurs the homemaker hopefully as she eyes the prices of foods at her local store. The good news is that one whole meal has responded to that plea. That meal is breakfast! Did you realize that breakfast in 1948 costs no more than breakfast in 1947—and that this is not true of any other meal made up of the same foods in these two years?

Following a basic breakfast pattern of fruit, cereal, milk, bread and butter, you may serve the same breakfast you served last year—at the same price it cost you last year. The cost of this excellent meal that contributes from one-fourth to one-third of your daily nutritional needs is—only 15c per person! You can make "bargain day" every day when a good breakfast is a daily habit at your house.

Economical Cereal Varies Breakfast

The "main course" of a good breakfast consisting of fruit, cereal, milk, bread and butter is a serving of cereal with milk and sugar. Not only is this a nutritious and economical breakfast "main course" but it affords much variety to make breakfast differ appetizingly from morning to morning. Nearly two dozen different breakfast cereals are available ranging from the ready-to-eat variety right through the cooked kinds. Have you enjoyed the full assortment of these cereals? Among the ready-to-eat cereals have you tried bran flakes, corn flakes, crisp rice cereal? Have you run the range of the puffed cereals? And how about raisin bran flakes, rice flakes and shredded wheat? Wheat and barley kernels offer you another delicious cereal to enjoy among the ready-to-eat kinds — and don't overlook wheat shreds, wheat flakes and whole bran.

The hot cereals have hearty flavors and velvety textures to offer for variety in the thrifty cereal "main course." Do try snowy farina, tawny granular wheat cereal, rolled wheat (also in the tawny range of color), and that traditional hot cereal, rolled oats. A serving of cereal, milk and sugar averages but 4c, and has an important part to play in making breakfast the economical meal that is today.

Spice Cake Makes Father's Day Treat

Are you planning an extra special dinner for Father's Day? Here's a favorite he-man dessert that'll finish the meal with a flourish-tempting spice cake. Dress it up with praline topping, and we're willing to bet Dad will stuff himself like a 12-year-old.

Now you can make this delicious cake quick-as-a-wink, since your old friend, spice cake mix (you just add water), is back at your grocer's after its wartime absence. Here's how it's done:

First add water according to directions on the box. Bake for about ½ hour, then remove from the oven and spread top with a mixture of ⅓ cup brown sugar, 2 teaspoons cinnamon, 3 tablespoons flour, 3 tablespoons butter or margarine, ½ cup chopped pecans. Return to oven and finish baking.

DAD'S DINNER
Cube Steak
Mashed Potatoes
Peas
Strawberries and Spice Cake
Coffee

Orange Ambrosia With Custard Sauce

4 large oranges or 6 medium
1 cup shredded cocoanut
1½ cups milk
2 eggs slightly beaten
3 tablespoons sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
½ to 1 teaspoon vanilla

Remove peelings and white membrane from oranges. Cut into thin slices and arrange on 6 dessert plates. Sprinkle cocoanut over top. Meanwhile, scald milk in top of double boiler. Beat eggs slightly, add sugar, salt, and blend. Slowly add hot milk, while stirring constantly. Return to double boiler and cook about 7 minutes over hot, not boiling water, until mixture coats a spoon. Remove immediately from heat; chill and add vanilla. Serve over sliced oranges. Serves 6.

Pineapple Mint Sundae

1 quart vanilla ice cream
1 No. 2 can crushed pineapple
Green vegetable coloring
½ teaspoon mint extract or few drops oil of peppermint
1 cup sugar

Add coloring to pineapple and juice to give delicate green color. Add sugar. Cook 5 to 10 minutes, or until slightly thickened, stirring occasionally. IT'S FUN TO EAT OUTDOORS

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

It may be that the promotion surrounding June as Dairy Month has already influenced you to take stock of your family's eating habits to make absolutely sure that they are getting the milk and other dairy products they need for good health. If not, it would be a good idea to do so. Are the children in your family getting the three or four glasses of milk they need every day? Are the adults getting at least two? If they aren't, do you meet the problem wisely, and frequently serve soups, sauces, drinks, puddings and other deserts that use milk? No one can overstress the importance of milk-drinking as a daily habit—as all nutrition surveys show.

Cool, tall, well-flavored milk drinks served with sandwiches and dessert make fine summer lunches. One of the nice things about a menu of this sort is that it makes easy tray service possible on the porch or lawn. Try these French Toasted Cheese Sandwiches and Maple Coolers, shown in the photograph, and see if you don't agree.

FRENCH TOASTED CHEESE SANDWICHES . . . Informal.

French Toasted Cheese Sandwiches

12 slices bread
Softened butter
2 cups freshly grated American cheese
½ cup chopped green or stuffed olives
2 tablespoons minced onion or chives, if desired
2 eggs, well-beaten
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup milk

Spread one side of the bread slices with softened butter. Blend grated cheese, chopped olives and onion or chives (if used) and spread on 6 of the buttered bread slices. Make into sandwiches and cut in diagonal halves. Beat eggs well; add salt and milk and stir to blend. Pour into shallow dish. Dip each sandwich in egg mixture, turning it to coat both sides thoroughly. Brown on both sides in butter in a moderately hot heavy skillet. Serve hot with a variety of vegetable relishes—scallions, carrots, cucumbers, romaine. Makes 6 sandwiches.

Maple Coolers

6 tablespoons maple or maple-flavored syrup
Few grains salt
1½ quarts cold milk
1 pint vanilla ice cream
Maple or brown sugar

Combine maple syrup, salt and milk, blending well. Pour into 6 cold glasses. Top each glass with ice cream and sprinkle top with maple or brown sugar. 6 servings.

Whenever we are at my sister's New Jersey farm in the summer we always use a lot of delicious milk soups made with garden vegetables. On cool days we serve them hot, on very warm days we're likely to chill them to a delicious frostiness and garnish them atractively. By the way, we've discovered that the youngsters enjoy having the soup served in tea cups. Recently my sister had a "country supper" company menu that was so good I'd like to pass it on. Cream of asparagus soup was the first course, made with a cream sauce base and asparagus from the garden, and topped with chopped chives. Then came a baked ham slice spread with a teaspoon of dry mustard, a tablespoon of brown sugar and two tablespoons of cider vinegar that had been blended together; around the ham went sliced sweet potatoes. Along with this came Boston letuce and cucumbers with French dressing. Stewed plums topped off the meal—and a home-baked oatmeal quick bread, served with cream cheese beaten until fluffy with a little milk, was served from beginning to end.

Here is an easy-to-make vegetable chowder that will hit the spot on a cool or rainy night.

Quick Vegetable Chowder

3 cups diced potatoes
2 cups diced carrots
1½ cups sliced onions
2 cups boiling water
2½ teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
Dash of paprika
3 cups milk
2 tablespoons butter
Parsley

Cook potatoes, carrots, onions in boiling water plus 1 teaspoon salt until tender. Mash vegetables in water remaining. Add milk with remaining salt, pepper and paprika; heat thoroughly and serve topped with a sprinkling of chopped parsley. 6 servings.

Breakfast Has "Held That Line" For Price Since Previous Year

"Hold that line!" murmurs the homemaker hopefully as she eyes the prices of foods at her local store. The good news is that one whole meal has responded to that plea. That meal is breakfast! Did you realize that breakfast in 1948 costs no more than breakfast in 1947—and that this is not true of any other meal made up of the same foods in these two years?

Following a basic breakfast pattern of fruit, cereal, milk, bread and butter, you may serve the same breakfast you served last year—at the same price it cost you last year. The cost of this excellent meal that contributes from one-fourth to one-third of your daily nutritional needs is—only 15c per person! You can make "bargain day" every day when a good breakfast is a daily habit at your house.

Economical Cereal Varies Breakfast

The "main course" of a good breakfast consisting of fruit, cereal, milk, bread and butter is a serving of cereal with milk and sugar. Not only is this a nutritious and economical breakfast "main course" but it affords much variety to make breakfast differ appetizingly from morning to morning. Nearly two dozen different breakfast cereals are available ranging from the ready-to-eat variety right through the cooked kinds. Have you enjoyed the full assortment of these cereals? Among the ready-to-eat cereals have you tried bran flakes, corn flakes, crisp rice cereal? Have you run the range of the puffed cereals? And how about raisin bran flakes, rice flakes and shredded wheat? Wheat and barley kernels offer you another delicious cereal to enjoy among the ready-to-eat kinds — and don't overlook wheat shreds, wheat flakes and whole bran.

The hot cereals have hearty flavors and velvety textures to offer for variety in the thrifty cereal "main course." Do try snowy farina, tawny granular wheat cereal, rolled wheat (also in the tawny range of color), and that traditional hot cereal, rolled oats. A serving of cereal, milk and sugar averages but 4c, and has an important part to play in making breakfast the economical meal that is today.

Spice Cake Makes Father's Day Treat

Are you planning an extra special dinner for Father's Day? Here's a favorite he-man dessert that'll finish the meal with a flourish-tempting spice cake. Dress it up with praline topping, and we're willing to bet Dad will stuff himself like a 12-year-old.

Now you can make this delicious cake quick-as-a-wink, since your old friend, spice cake mix (you just add water), is back at your grocer's after its wartime absence. Here's how it's done:

First add water according to directions on the box. Bake for about ½ hour, then remove from the oven and spread top with a mixture of ⅓ cup brown sugar, 2 teaspoons cinnamon, 3 tablespoons flour, 3 tablespoons butter or margarine, ½ cup chopped pecans. Return to oven and finish baking.

Orange Ambrosia With Custard Sauce

4 large oranges or 6 medium
1 cup shredded cocoanut
1½ cups milk
2 eggs slightly beaten
3 tablespoons sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
½ to 1 teaspoon vanilla

Remove peelings and white membrane from oranges. Cut into thin slices and arrange on 6 dessert plates. Sprinkle cocoanut over top. Meanwhile, scald milk in top of double boiler. Beat eggs slightly, add sugar, salt, and blend. Slowly add hot milk, while stirring constantly. Return to double boiler and cook about 7 minutes over hot, not boiling water, until mixture coats a spoon. Remove immediately from heat; chill and add vanilla. Serve over sliced oranges. Serves 6.

Pineapple Mint Sundae

1 quart vanilla ice cream
1 No. 2 can crushed pineapple
Green vegetable coloring
½ teaspoon mint extract or few drops oil of peppermint
1 cup sugar

Add coloring to pineapple and juice to give delicate green color. Add sugar. Cook 5 to 10 minutes, or until slightly thickened, stirring occasionally. Remove from heat, add extract or oil of mint, stir, pour into container. Cover. Store in refrigerator. Serve over ice cream. Sauce keeps several weeks. Makes 3 cups.

Cheese Always Has Had Reputation As A Food Of Countless Virtues

Cleopatra, according to legend, ate cheese for beauty. Socrates ate it for health. And almost everybody from the beginning of time has eaten cheese for the pleasure of eating it.

This oldest of all manufactured foods has always enjoyed a reputation for countless virtues. And modern nutritional science has discovered many dietetic reasons why cheese deserves to be included among the basic foods important in everyday diets.

Although cheeses are to be found in dozens of varieties and literally thousands of different forms, all cheese is substantially the solid portion of milk. It is one of the most highly concentrated forms of protein known—milk protein, easily digested and readily assimilated. Cheese contains, in highly concentrated form, not only the protein of milk, but much of the fat of milk, and substantial quantities of calcium and phosphorus.

Every pound of cheese represents compact food nutrients. The best way to picture the concentration of these food values is to list what each pound of cheese contains in terms of fluid milk. A pound of American cheddar supplies the milk fat of four quarts of fluid milk, and the protein of two and four-fifths quarts of milk. It has the calcium content of three and one-fifth quarts of milk and the phosphorus of three.

About 20 to 25 per cent of most cheese varieties is protein of high quality, in the form of casein. An interesting new field of research, the exploration of amino acids, the "building blocks" of protein metabolism has shown that cheese contains all of the "essential" amino acids. It is thus a complete protein, supplying the body with a balanced amount of these important factors in good nutrition.

The principal vitamin value in cheese is vitamin A, present in the milk fat. Although milk fat content varies in cheese of different types, all cheese is regarded as an excellent source of vitamin A. Riboflavin, abundantly found in milk, is also found in cheese.

Milk mineral content varies in cheese of different types, depending upon methods of manufacture. But practically all cheeses are good sources of those primary minerals, calcium and phosphorus, essential for building strong bones and teeth.

The appetitie value which cheese possesses, lending variety and charm to countless dishes and menus, is not least of its nutritional virtues. One of the very great virtues of cheese is its almost limitless variety, from very mild to very sharp, from soft to hard—with flavors and textures to suit all tastes.

Cheese is one of the few foods known and liked by peoples around the earth. And by all age groups. Pediatricians commonly include cheese — generally beginning with cottage cheese or one of the other mild cheese types—in the diet of children from the age of two. Frequent service of cheese is considered nutritionally very important in the diet of both pre-school and adolescent children who need extra large quantities of readily digested protein and milk minerals.

For all age groups, and however cheese tastes may vary, this basic dairy food offers many valuable food elements in compact form. Good nutrition, as well as good taste, are to be found in every ounce of cheese.

Meat And Sour Cream Flavors Blend Tastily

The rich flavors of meat and sour cream blend to make many a grand tasting dish. Leftovers come in for their share of glorification from this source, too. For instance, you can dice leftover pot roast or Swiss steak and add it to a gravy-sour cream mixture. Season with celery and onion salt and cook slowly until the flavors are well blended. Serve this rich-tasting meat gravy over buttered noodles or rice. Another sour cream and meat idea to tuck away in your favorite recipe file is Swedish Pot Roast. To prepare, brown 1 sliced onion and 1 minced garlic clove in 3 tablespoons fat. Then brown roast on all sides. Pour 2 cups sour cream over roast, cover, and cook over low heat or in a 325° F. oven for 3 hours, blasting meat frequently. Add one 4-ounce box broad noodles the last 20 minutes and cook them in the sauce around the meat.

Chef's Salad Bowl

1½ quarts pulled salad greens
2 or 3 peeled ripe tomatoes

½ cup cooked, or canned shrimp cut in half lengthwise and 2 or 3 sliced hard-cooked eggs

Arrange greens in a salad bowl, cut tomatoes into wedges and use as a garnish around edge of bowl. Pile cheese and choice of fish, meat, or egg on top. Toss at the table with well-seasoned French dressing to coat the ingredients. Serve with hot rolls, muffins, or biscuits and a hot beverage. Serves 6.

Corned Beef Hash With Creamy Vegetable Sauce

1 lb. can corned beef hash
3 tablespoons butter
4 tablespoons flour

2 cups milk
1 cup drained, cooked beans

Add vegetables and blend. Serve with corned beef. Serves 6.

Cheese Always Has Had Reputation As A Food Of Countless Virtues

Cleopatra, according to legend, ate cheese for beauty. Socrates ate it for health. And almost everybody from the beginning of time has eaten cheese for the pleasure of eating it.

This oldest of all manufactured foods has always enjoyed a reputation for countless virtues. And modern nutritional science has discovered many dietetic reasons why cheese deserves to be included among the basic foods important in everyday diets.

Although cheeses are to be found in dozens of varieties and literally thousands of different forms, all cheese is substantially the solid portion of milk. It is one of the most highly concentrated forms of protein known—milk protein, easily digested and readily assimilated. Cheese contains, in highly concentrated form, not only the protein of milk, but much of the fat of milk, and substantial quantities of calcium and phosphorus.

Every pound of cheese represents compact food nutrients. The best way to picture the concentration of these food values is to list what each pound of cheese contains in terms of fluid milk. A pound of American cheddar supplies the milk fat of four quarts of fluid milk, and the protein of two and four-fifths quarts of milk. It has the calcium content of three and one-fifth quarts of milk and the phosphorus of three.

About 20 to 25 per cent of most cheese varieties is protein of high quality, in the form of casein. An interesting new field of research, the exploration of amino acids, the "building blocks" of protein metabolism has shown that cheese contains all of the "essential" amino acids. It is thus a complete protein, supplying the body with a balanced amount of these important factors in good nutrition.

The principal vitamin value in cheese is vitamin A, present in the milk fat. Although milk fat content varies in cheese of different types, all cheese is regarded as an excellent source of vitamin A. Riboflavin, abundantly found in milk, is also found in cheese.

Milk mineral content varies in cheese of different types, depending upon methods of manufacture. But practically all cheeses are good sources of those primary minerals, calcium and phosphorus, essential for building strong bones and teeth.

The appetitie value which cheese possesses, lending variety and charm to countless dishes and menus, is not least of its nutritional virtues. One of the very great virtues of cheese is its almost limitless variety, from very mild to very sharp, from soft to hard—with flavors and textures to suit all tastes.

Cheese is one of the few foods known and liked by peoples around the earth. And by all age groups. Pediatricians commonly include cheese — generally beginning with cottage cheese or one of the other mild cheese types—in the diet of children from the age of two. Frequent service of cheese is considered nutritionally very important in the diet of both pre-school and adolescent children who need extra large quantities of readily digested protein and milk minerals.

For all age groups, and however cheese tastes may vary, this basic dairy food offers many valuable food elements in compact form. Good nutrition, as well as good taste, are to be found in every ounce of cheese.

Meat And Sour Cream Flavors Blend Tastily

The rich flavors of meat and sour cream blend to make many a grand tasting dish. Leftovers come in for their share of glorification from this source, too. For instance, you can dice leftover pot roast or Swiss steak and add it to a gravy-sour cream mixture. Season with celery and onion salt and cook slowly until the flavors are well blended. Serve this rich-tasting meat gravy over buttered noodles or rice. Another sour cream and meat idea to tuck away in your favorite recipe file is Swedish Pot Roast. To prepare, brown 1 sliced onion and 1 minced garlic clove in 3 tablespoons fat. Then brown roast on all sides. Pour 2 cups sour cream over roast, cover, and cook over low heat or in a 325° F. oven for 3 hours, blasting meat frequently. Add one 4-ounce box broad noodles the last 20 minutes and cook them in the sauce around the meat.

Here Are Quick Menus To Help The Working Girl

Hats off to the working woman who cooks! Dashing home each night to prepare dinner for a hungry husband, and sometimes other family members, is no small responsibility. When time is short and the cook is weary, menus must consist of dishes which are (1) easy to prepare, and (2) require only a short cooking time. Many working women think of quick-cooked meats in terms of steaks and chops. Actually there's a sizeable list of other meats suitable for this purpose and many of them are on the thriftier side.

Economy Meats For Quick Dinners

Ground beef, canned meats, frankfurters, pork sausage, links and patties, young beef liver. Pot roast, beef stews, Swiss steaks and other less expensive dishes may be cooked quickly in that wonderful time saver, the pressure cooker. Then there's the night-before cookery trick of letting a stew or meat sauce for spaghetti simmer while you busy yourself with other household matters. The flavor of these cooked-in-advance meat dishes is often improved. (Be sure to store these in the refrigerator until used.)

Here are suggestions for dishes made with the meats listed above. Complete menus are included which are well balanced as well as quickly prepared.

Ground Beef Dishes

1. Broiled Hamburger Patties. Brush patties with barbecue sauce or catsup before broiling. Serve with mashed potatoes, green beans, salad of lettuce and cottage cheese with chives, fresh or canned fruit and cookies.

2. Ground Beef Fricassee in Mashed Potato Nest. Brown meat with chopped onions in fat. Add salt, pepper, garlic salt, sliced celery and a little water. Cover and cook over low heat, about 20 minutes. Serve with peas, fruit salad and bakery cake.

3. Individual Meat Loaves. (These bake in 40 minutes.) Serve with buttered noodles, spinach, lettuce and tomato salad, canned date and nut pudding with whipped cream.

4. Meat Balls. Brown well and cook on top of stove in tomato or mushroom soup, about 20 minutes. Serve with boiled rice, carrots, cabbage slaw, and bakery pie.

5. Ground Meat-Spaghetti Quick Dish. Brown meat with onion, add a can or two of spaghetti in tomato sauce; heat. Serve with green beans, apple-nut salad, ice cream.

Canned Meats

1. Baked Corn Beef Hash with Eggs. Or slice and fry with onion slices. Or cut in thick slices and broil or bake. Serve with cooked cabbage, stuffed pear salad, cake.

2. Creamed Dried Beef (Add garlic salt or curry powder.) Serve on canned crisp noodles, with beets, peach and cottage cheese salad, packaged pudding.

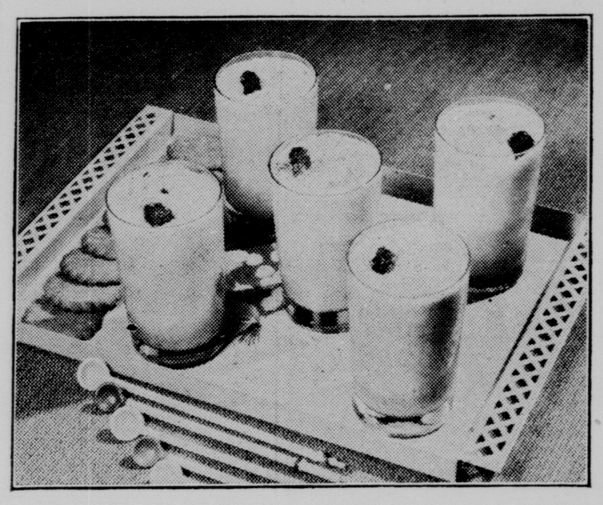
3. Pork Luncheon Meat. Score, stick with cloves and bake in the piece with coating of brown sugar, mustard, and vinegar. Serve with canned sweet potatoes, peas, lettuce salad, fruit and cookies. Or slice and broil with sliced pineapple or peach halves.

4. Canned Beef Stew. Serve as is, or make into a meat pie topped with biscuits or mashed potatoes. Serve with cabbage-apple slaw, fruit gelatin (made night before.)

Frankfurters

Heat in water. Or stuff with cheese and broil. Serve with parsley potatoes, carrots, stuffed prune salad, cake. Or bake franks on top of canned baked beans; serve with cabbage and pineapple salad, corn bread (packaged mix), and fresh fruit.

Make Refreshing Milk Shakes At Home



Warm weather seems to call for cool, yet satisfying refreshments. And nothing is more delicious for in-between-snacks or for lunch, than a tall glass of fresh fruit milk shake. If the milk shake is served after a game of golf or tennis, or a strenuous whirl through the garden, perhaps small wafers will be a welcome accompaniment.

The smart homemaker will plan to keep a supply of milk and ice cream stored in her refrigerator so the whole family can enjoy their nourishing goodness.

RASPBERRY MILK SHAKE

¾ cup fresh raspberries
1¼ cups milk
Few grains salt
1 pint vanilla ice cream
Few whole raspberries

Wash berries, drain well and crush with a potato masher; measure, and combine with milk, salt, and three-fourths of the ice cream in a shaker. Shake until mixture is a smooth blend. Pour into four 6-ounce glasses and top each glass with remaining ice cream and 1 or 2 whole raspberries. Serve immediately. Makes 4 servings.

About The Tin Can

The can has proved its worth in peace an war as an ideal and inexpensive container for fods. It does not affect the wholesomeness of its contents. It may be shaped to suit products of various sizes. It is sealed air-tight and remains air-tight. It conducts heat and cold rapidly so that the foods it holds may be heated and cooked or cooled quickly. It is light in weight, yet strong enough to withstand rough handling. It protects its contents indefinitely. All this for the cost of a few cents.

The term "tin can" is a misnomer, an abbreviation of the English designation the "tin cannister." The modern tin can is not more than 1½ per cent tin and at least 98½ per cent steel. Steel provides the durability and protection from the stresses of nature and human nature. Tin prevents rust and the insulation against heat, light and air. Enamel linings are added to cans for certain foods in order to increase their attractiveness and to improve the appearance of containers. For example, an enamel lining helps preserve the color of red fruits and prevents foods with sulphur from staining the can interior.

As for how safe it is to leave foods in the opened can, the Department of Agriculture has this to say:

"It is just as safe to keep canned food in the can it comes in . . . if the can is cool and covered . . . as it is to empty the food into another container.

"A few acid foods may dissolve a little iron from the can, but this is not harmful, not dangerous to health. Cans and foods are sterilized in the processing. But the dish into which the food might be emptied is far from sterile. In other words, it is likely to have on it bacteria that cause food to spoil."

Hot Cheese Turnover Is New Luncheon Twist

Here is a new twist for that hot snack for luncheon or outdoor supper party this summer. Created by Chef Edward Djiura of the famous Shoreham Hotel in Washington, D. C., the Hot Cheese Turnover was designed as an easy and economical dish for the homemaker.

½ lb. grated Parmesan cheese
2 yolks of egg
Pinch of paprika
1 tablespoon mayonnaise
Dash of Worcestershire sauce
Salt and pepper

Mix cheese with egg yolks, mayonnaise, paprika, and salt and pepper to taste. Add dash of Worcestershire sauce. Make into a paste and spread on very thin slices of bread (crust removed). Fold corners into center and fasten edges with toothpicks. Bake in moderate oven until golden brown. Serve hot. Makes 6 turnovers.

This turnover may also be served open-face or folded in half, with the edges secured with toothpicks.

Cream Of Mushroom Soup

2 or 3 cups chopped, cooked, or canned mushrooms
3 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon minced onion
2 tablespoons minced celery
2 cups chicken broth or
2 cups hot water and 2 chicken bouillon cubes
2 tablespoons flour
2 cups milk
Salt and pepper

Simmer the mushrooms for 5 minutes in 1 tablespoon butter with the onion and celery. Add the chicken broth and simmer for 10 minutes. Melt the remaining 2 tablespoons butter in top of double boiler over direct heat. Add flour and blend, then add milk and cook, stirring until smooth and thickened. Place over hot water, add the mushroom mixture, season to taste with salt and pepper, and heat thoroughly. Serves 6.

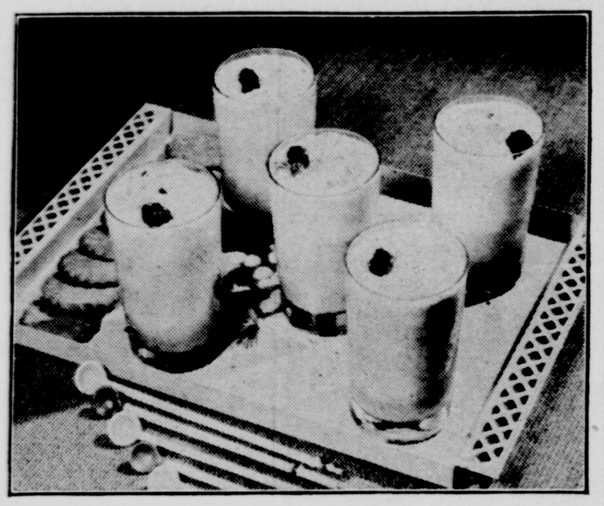
Make Refreshing Milk Shakes At Home



Warm weather seems to call for cool, yet satisfying refreshments. And nothing is more delicious for in-between-snacks or for lunch, than a tall glass of fresh fruit milk shake. If the milk shake is served after a game of golf or tennis, or a strenuous whirl through the garden, perhaps small wafers will be a welcome accompaniment.

The smart homemaker will plan to keep a supply of milk and ice cream stored in her refrigerator so the whole family can enjoy their nourishing goodness.

RASPBERRY MILK SHAKE

¾ cup fresh raspberries
1¼ cups milk
Few grains salt
1 pint vanilla ice cream
Few whole raspberries

Wash berries, drain well and crush with a potato masher; measure, and combine with milk, salt, and three-fourths of the ice cream in a shaker. Shake until mixture is a smooth blend. Pour into four 6-ounce glasses and top each glass with remaining ice cream and 1 or 2 whole raspberries. Serve immediately. Makes 4 servings.

About The Tin Can

The can has proved its worth in peace an war as an ideal and inexpensive container for fods. It does not affect the wholesomeness of its contents. It may be shaped to suit products of various sizes. It is sealed air-tight and remains air-tight. It conducts heat and cold rapidly so that the foods it holds may be heated and cooked or cooled quickly. It is light in weight, yet strong enough to withstand rough handling. It protects its contents indefinitely. All this for the cost of a few cents.

The term "tin can" is a misnomer, an abbreviation of the English designation the "tin cannister." The modern tin can is not more than 1½ per cent tin and at least 98½ per cent steel. Steel provides the durability and protection from the stresses of nature and human nature. Tin prevents rust and the insulation against heat, light and air. Enamel linings are added to cans for certain foods in order to increase their attractiveness and to improve the appearance of containers. For example, an enamel lining helps preserve the color of red fruits and prevents foods with sulphur from staining the can interior.

As for how safe it is to leave foods in the opened can, the Department of Agriculture has this to say:

"It is just as safe to keep canned food in the can it comes in . . . if the can is cool and covered . . . as it is to empty the food into another container.

"A few acid foods may dissolve a little iron from the can, but this is not harmful, not dangerous to health. Cans and foods are sterilized in the processing. But the dish into which the food might be emptied is far from sterile. In other words, it is likely to have on it bacteria that cause food to spoil."

Hot Cheese Turnover Is New Luncheon Twist

Here is a new twist for that hot snack for luncheon or outdoor supper party this summer. Created by Chef Edward Djiura of the famous Shoreham Hotel in Washington, D. C., the Hot Cheese Turnover was designed as an easy and economical dish for the homemaker.

½ lb. grated Parmesan cheese
2 yolks of egg
Pinch of paprika
1 tablespoon mayonnaise
Dash of Worcestershire sauce
Salt and pepper

Mix cheese with egg yolks, mayonnaise, paprika, and salt and pepper to taste. Add dash of Worcestershire sauce. Make into a paste and spread on very thin slices of bread (crust removed). Fold corners into center and fasten edges with toothpicks. Bake in moderate oven until golden brown. Serve hot. Makes 6 turnovers.

This turnover may also be served open-face or folded in half, with the edges secured with toothpicks.

Cream Of Mushroom Soup

2 or 3 cups chopped, cooked, or canned mushrooms
3 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon minced onion
2 tablespoons minced celery
2 cups chicken broth or
2 cups hot water and 2 chicken bouillon cubes
2 tablespoons flour
2 cups milk
Salt and pepper

Simmer the mushrooms for 5 minutes in 1 tablespoon butter with the onion and celery. Add the chicken broth and simmer for 10 minutes. Melt the remaining 2 tablespoons butter in top of double boiler over direct heat. Add flour and blend, then add milk and cook, stirring until smooth and thickened. Place over hot water, add the mushroom mixture, season to taste with salt and pepper, and heat thoroughly. Serves 6.

B. And O. Names Harvey To Labor Relations Post

BALTIMORE, June 17 (AP)—The appointment of Richard L. Harvey to be manager of labor relations for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad was announced today by Frank J. Goebel, vice president in charge of personnel.

Harvey, who was superintendent of the B & O's Wage Bureau, succeeds Walter G. Carl, who has retired after a 45-year career with the company.

Beginning as a stenographer at Grafton, W. Va., Carl worked at Wheeling and Benwood Junction, W. Va., prior to coming to Baltimore in 1917. He was named labor relations manager three years ago.

14-Year-Old Boy Missing From Home

Donald Ridenbaugh, 14, 307 Harrison Street, has been reported missing from his home since early yesterday by his mother, City Police said.

According to a description given police, the youth is about five feet three inches tall and weighs about 110 pounds. He has blond hair.

Welfare Board

It is also possible that some of the children between 16 and 18 years of age can go to work, as a means of augmenting family income, Mrs. Westerfield said.

The reduction in the case load also means that no new cases can be added by the Welfare Board, Mrs. Westerfield said, unless existing cases are dropped. The shortage of funds makes it necessary to operate on a limited scale.

The fund shortage resulted when the state legislature at the request of Governor Lane appropriated only $500,000 for the welfare board, instead of $2,650,757 requested by J. Milton Patterson, state welfare board director.

The new budget is effective July 1, and the present state allotment to this county is for a three months period. After September 30, additional adjustment, either for more assistance or perhaps for less, may be anticipated.

Throughout the state a total of 450 cases is to be cut from relief rolls, and no new cases accepted after July 1.

This county has a maximum of $100 per month for a family of four and a total maximum of $170 per month regardless of the total number in a family. A family of five can receive as much as $110, a family of six $120 and so on until $170 is reached. Few families draw the full amount, because in many cases there is some outside income.

Cuts announced yesterday do not reduce the maximum here, but maximum grants have been reduced $4 per month in the dependent children category in Charles, Frederick, Harford, Howard and Washington counties. It is cut by $9 in Calvert, Carroll, Dorchester, Garrett, Wicomico and Worcester counties and by $11 in Caroline, Kent, Queen Annes, St. Mary's, Somerset and Talbot counties.

The difference in fixed maximums in various parts of the state is due chiefly to the difference in housing rental costs in these counties, compared with Cumberland, Baltimore city and county, etc.

Officials reported the High School playground is now in operation and that tennis courts adjoining the center are being fully utilized.

Suit Filed

B. And O. Names Harvey To Labor Relations Post

BALTIMORE, June 17 (AP)—The appointment of Richard L. Harvey to be manager of labor relations for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad was announced today by Frank J. Goebel, vice president in charge of personnel.

Harvey, who was superintendent of the B & O's Wage Bureau, succeeds Walter G. Carl, who has retired after a 45-year career with the company.

Beginning as a stenographer at Grafton, W. Va., Carl worked at Wheeling and Benwood Junction, W. Va., prior to coming to Baltimore in 1917. He was named labor relations manager three years ago.

14-Year-Old Boy Missing From Home

Donald Ridenbaugh, 14, 307 Harrison Street, has been reported missing from his home since early yesterday by his mother, City Police said.

According to a description given police, the youth is about five feet three inches tall and weighs about 110 pounds. He has blond hair.

Welfare Board

It is also possible that some of the children between 16 and 18 years of age can go to work, as a means of augmenting family income, Mrs. Westerfield said.

The reduction in the case load also means that no new cases can be added by the Welfare Board, Mrs. Westerfield said, unless existing cases are dropped. The shortage of funds makes it necessary to operate on a limited scale.

The fund shortage resulted when the state legislature at the request of Governor Lane appropriated only $500,000 for the welfare board, instead of $2,650,757 requested by J. Milton Patterson, state welfare board director.

The new budget is effective July 1, and the present state allotment to this county is for a three months period. After September 30, additional adjustment, either for more assistance or perhaps for less, may be anticipated.

Throughout the state a total of 450 cases is to be cut from relief rolls, and no new cases accepted after July 1.

This county has a maximum of $100 per month for a family of four and a total maximum of $170 per month regardless of the total number in a family. A family of five can receive as much as $110, a family of six $120 and so on until $170 is reached. Few families draw the full amount, because in many cases there is some outside income.

Cuts announced yesterday do not reduce the maximum here, but maximum grants have been reduced $4 per month in the dependent children category in Charles, Frederick, Harford, Howard and Washington counties. It is cut by $9 in Calvert, Carroll, Dorchester, Garrett, Wicomico and Worcester counties and by $11 in Caroline, Kent, Queen Annes, St. Mary's, Somerset and Talbot counties.

The difference in fixed maximums in various parts of the state is due chiefly to the difference in housing rental costs in these counties, compared with Cumberland, Baltimore city and county, etc.

Gallup Poll

Final Survey On GOP Candidates Shows Some Interesting Sidelights

By GEORGE GALLUP

PRINCETON, N. J., June 17—As the Republican delegates prepare to assemble in Philadelphia here is the score in detail on the popularity of various Republican contenders:

1. Throughout the rank and file of the party Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York was found to be the most popular candidate, in the Institute survey reported last week. Governor Dewey received 33 per cent in the poll, with Harold E. Stassen next with 26 per cent and Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg next with 13 per cent, followed by Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Senator Robert A. Taft, Governor Earl Warren and Speaker Joseph W. Martin.

2. Among younger voters in the party Dewey and Stassen continue to run a close race. The New York governor runs only a few points ahead of Stassen among G.O.P. voters under 35 years of age. However, he enjoys a substantial margin among party members 36 years old and over. Both Taft and Vandenberg have relatively greater strength among older voters than among the younger groups.

3. Analysis of the vote by sex shows that Governor Dewey's popularity standing with men is the same as with women Republican voters, but that Stassen is slightly more popular with women than with men. Senator Vandenberg, on the other hand, was found to be more popular with men than with women.

4. In case of a deadlock between the forces of Dewey, Stassen and Taft at the convention, the followers of those three contenders express a preference for Senator Vandenberg, as reported this week.

5. These indications of relative popularity of the leading contenders undoubtedly will prove interesting to the 1,094 Republican delegates, but as past history shows conventions do not always go on the basis of popularity in making their choice.

The following table shows the candidate choices of Republican voters divided into two age groups:

Republicans Only	Age 21-36	Age 36 and over
Dewey	36%	32%
Stassen	32	24
Vandenberg	10	15
MacArthur	11	11
Taft	7	11
Warren	2	2
Others, no choice	1	4

Comparisons of the individual candidates' standings as between men and women Republican voters follows:

Republicans Only	Men	Women
Dewey	33%	33%
Stassen	25	27
Vandenberg	15	11
MacArthur	11	12
Taft	10	10
Warren	2	3
Others, no choice	3	3

In recent Republican Party history the 1920 convention provides the best example of the fact that delegates do not always nominate the most popular man. General Leonard Wood and Senator Hiram Johnson made impressive showings in the primaries that year and, together with Frank O. Lowden, of Illinois, were generally conceded by political writers to be the most popular contenders. But the convention nominated Senator Warren G. Harding.

However, in the last three conventions, the most popular man has been nominated by the G.O.P. Alfred Landon in 1936, Wendell Willkie in 1940 and Governor Dewey in 1944 were each leading in polls of Republican voters at the time of the nomination.

Guard Preparing For Encampment

The three Maryland National Guard companies in Allegany County are undergoing intensive drills in preparation for the annual summer camp to be held at Camp Ritchie from August 21 to September 4.

Lt. Col. Randolph Millholland, Jr., executive officer of the 115th Infantry Regiment, announced that this year the company's two regiments, the 115th and the 175th, will go to the camp at different times, instead of going together as part of the 29th Division.

Col. Millholland reported that approximately 180 enlisted men and officers of the two local companies, Company C and Headquarters Company, First Battalion, will attend the encampment.

Frostburg's Company D will probably send most of its 70 men and officers, according to Col. Millholland.

Lieutenants are needed in Guard units, Millholland announced. Any man who has been in the Army since December, 1945, and who has held the rating of master, technical or staff sergeant for six months since that time is eligible to become automatically a second lieutenant in the Guard. The age limit for lieutenants is 28.

NEW FLORAL ACCENT FOR SUMMER BRIDE

White Amazon lillies entwined with stephanotis and ivy leaves form the lovely bridal bouquet created specially by FTD stylist Alyn Wayne for the 1948 summer bride. Added comfort, too, is obtained by replacing the traditional veil with a lily of the valley halo, tied in back with white satin bow and streamers.

Stronger floral note this year is repeated by the newest bridal gown, of white pique built off the shoulders and embroidered with small white flowers of seed pearls. (above)

Crisp and cool in pale green organdy, the summer bridesmaid carries a matching bouquet of Amazon lillies and variegated ivy. For bridesmaids too, FTD's style expert replaces the hat with a more flattering hair adornment like this (left). Three Year Training For Nurses Upheld

Suggestions that the educational program for student nurses be shortened from three to two years as a means of speeding up the recruitment of the more than 41,000 additional professional nurses needed to overcome the nursing crisis were condemned today by the American Nurses' Association.

"Two years of professional education may have been enough in the 20's and early 30's to qualify a young woman for the nursing profession, but the world has moved on since then," declared Ella Best, the Association's executive secretary. She added, "There was a time when a normal school education was all a girl required to become a teacher."

In the past, a registered professional nurse had to be acquainted with no more than a few medications, Miss Best pointed out, where today she is expected to be familiar with a few hundred. She has also taken over many of the duties formerly assumed by physicians, such as drawing blood samples, giving intravenous and intramuscular injections and administering the "wonder drugs," penicillin, streptomycin and the sulfa derivatives.

LaVale Sanitary Case Hearing Set For Today

A hearing in the case of Lester R. McGill and others, against the Allegany County Board of Commissioners and the LaVale Civic Improvement Association concerning setting up a sanitary district will open today in Circuit Court.

Some of the residents of District 29 allege that the legislation passed for setting up the sanitary district was not voted upon by residents as a measure affecting the whole of District 29 but simply as a plan for LaVale.

Some of the objectors to the sanitary district reside in the Vocke Road and Mt. Savage Road and Narrows Park sections and have a water supply and they contend they would be charged with a part of the cost of providing water for the LaVale area.

D. Lindley Sloan, William A. Gunter and F. Brooke Whiting are counsel for the plaintiffs while David and Harry Kauffman are representing a number of LaVale residents. Lewis M. Wilson, attorney to the commissioners, will represent the county.

The Order of Orange-Nassau is a royal Netherlands order, with five classes, founded in 1892 in the name of Queen Wilhelmina. It is conferred as a reward for services to the country or to the royal house, and may be given to foreigners, as well as natives.

Bus Drivers Accept Somerset Co. Offer

The proposals made by the Somerset Bus Company in settlement of a contract dispute have been accepted by the employes. The action averted a threatened drivers strike.

The new contract provides for no increase in the basic wages of the drivers, according to F. A. Purcell, deputy president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen.

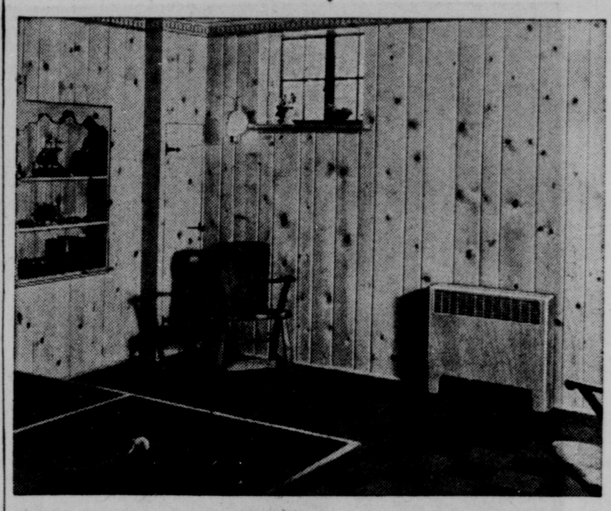
Purcell said the drivers will gain between $3 and $4 a week in "take home" pay as a result of changes in company rules.

The bus line provides the only public transportation in Somerset County, and operates three divisions to Johnstown, Pittsburgh and Cumberland.

Business School Teacher Resigns

Mrs. Elsie F. Williamson, a teacher of shorthand and English at Catherman's Business School for 19 years, has resigned and moved to Zaneville, O., with her daughter, Mrs. Wendyl W. Goodfellow, R. N.

Mrs. Goodfellow has been a member of the staff of Memorial Hospital, where she has also done private duty nursing.



While house cleaning occupies most of the homemaker's working hours these spring months, the man of the house might well be devoting his spare time to construction of an attractive recreation room in the basement. This eye-appealing rumpus room is paneled in durable knotty pine and the floor is done in a red and black checkerboard motif. Comfortable warmth is supplied all year 'round by the streamlined convector radiator installed against the wall. Adaptable to any decorative scheme, the convector cabinet is painted to blend perfectly with the wood grain of the pine covered walls.

FINANCE WIZARDS-- Two Allegany High School students, Paul Keifer (left) and Eleanor Carpenter (right), "breezed through" the required bookkeeping course this year and then completed a cost accounting project that the average business student does not undertake until beginning college. Educators said the pair completed "two years" work in one. Miss Carpenter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Carpenter, Roberts Place, will enter Strayer's Business College this fall, while Keifer, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Keifer, 347 Bedford Street, still has another year at the local high school.

Court House Renovating Off To A Warm Start

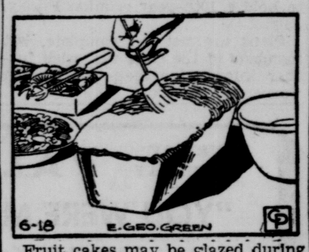
Work has been completed on the installation of two new boilers as part of the heating plant at Allegany County Court House.

Fires were kindled in the two hand-fired coal burning furnaces yesterday and radiators throughout the building sizzled, while employes and attaches grumbled and perspired. The fire was built to test the furnaces and boilers. Most people in the building agreed they worked okay.

Workmen started yesterday on the installation of a new electric lighting system in the Circuit Court rooms to replace the two old chandeliers with modern fixtures.

Plans are underway to start extensive roof repairs in a few days. The outside of the building is to be washed, some exterior and interior painting is scheduled and a new concrete sidewalk is to be laid in front of the structure.

WIFE PRESERVERS



Fruit cakes may be glazed during the last few minutes of baking by brushing over the tops with corn syrup, honey or molasses, diluted with an equal amount of water. Candied fruit and nut meats may be arranged over the cake at this time.

They are John Schwarzenbach and Emory Perrin. The presentation was made by Thomas E. Gilchrist. One other surviving charter member, Mr. Mansbach, Norfolk, Va., was unable to attend.

Rev. Edgar S. Price, Romney, W. Va., a member of the Scottish Rite here, was guest speaker. He traced the history of the order in Cumberland from its inception.

Kenneth Malcolm, Barton, sang two numbers, "Hi Ho, Come To The Fair," and "God Bless Our Home." He was accompanied at the piano by Joseph Williams.

Celanese Union Publicizes Its Wage Proposals

Nine Teams Covering Area Communities

Committee members of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, yesterday opened a county-wide publicity campaign relating to a 25-cent wage increase being asked in contract negotiations at the Celanese plant.

Nine teams of three persons each left Textile Hall yesterday afternoon to cover Keyser, Westernport, Barton, Lonaconing, Frostburg and Mt. Savage.

Other groups began covering sections of this city and women committee members handed out literature at Cumberland stores and food markets.

The pamphlets were entitled "Rayon Workers Need 30 to 50c Raise" and "Equal Skills Top Rayon Pay." Some 40,000 copies of each will be distributed, officials said.

One of the handbills states that federal figures show basic living standards are not being met by industry, and proceeds to quote rayon firms profits. The second draws comparisons between the wages and skills of the rayon industry and mass production industries.

Local 1874 last week mailed a two-page letter to all local business concerns outlining its position during contract negotiations.

KEYSER, W. Va. — Contributions to the Keyser Youth Recreation Program total $441.32, it has been announced by Edgell L. Grayson, treasurer of the organization. The organization has estimated that $1,200 is needed to carry out the program that is planned for the summer, Grayson said.

George Aldridge, Retired C. And P. Railroader, To Mark 85th Birthday

Open House Will Be Held June 25

FROSTBURG — George Leonard Aldridge, Woodland, a retired C. and P. railroader who is widely known among the older coal miners and railroaders of the Georges Creek region, will observe his 85th birthday Friday, June 25, with open house at his residence in Woodland.

Known as "Pop" to his neighbors of Woodland and National and "Len" among the older mining and railroad men of the region, Mr. Aldridge, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George E. Aldridge, was born in Mt. Savage June 25, 1863, and resided there until 1904, when he was transferred to Carlos Junction, now known as Woodland.

His father was a locomotive engineer for the C. and P. Railroad Company and his seven brothers were all employed as railroaders.

Mr. Aldridge, who received a 50-year membership pin from the Cleveland office of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen last week, was placed on the retired list of the C. and P. Railroad Company September 1, 1933, after 47 years of service.

At that time the Maryland Bureau of Mines, in its September, 1933, report furnished the following information;

"Mr. Aldridge entered the service of the Railroad Company as a laborer at the Mt. Savage shops, in the year 1886, where he accepted a position as brakeman and was promoted to conductor in 1888, which position he held until his retirement.

"The 47 years Mr. Aldridge served as trainman were divided, 19 years at Mt. Savage, 14 years at Carlos Junction and 14 years at Westernport."

Mr. Aldridge gained his widest acquaintance with Georges Creek coal miners after he moved to Carlos Junction in 1904 and served for many years as conductor on the "miners' drag," the name given to the train that hauled coal miners residing in the area between Frostburg and Carlos Junction to Mine No. 7.

The term "drag" was applied to the train because it never left the mine until the last man was through his work. The "miners' drag" was drawn by an engine on which Mr. Aldridge's brother, John, was the engineer, and Arthur Lemmert, now a resident of Mt. Savage, was fireman.

Mr. Aldridge's wife, the former Miss Amanda Read, Mt. Savage, died about 15 years ago. Their children are Mrs. Alice Truly, Charles Aldridge, Mrs. Basil Pressman and Joseph Aldridge, at home; Russell Aldridge, Paul Aldridge and Mrs. William Poland, all of Woodland. There are five grandchildren and four great-great-grandchildren. He is a member of the Woodland Methodist Church.

Since his retirement, Mr. Aldridge spent much of his spare time at Emerick's store in National, where he related incidents of his active days on the Cumberland and Pennsylvania Railroad to younger folks of the community. In recent years, however, due to weakness in his legs, he has been forced to remain at home and spend most of his time around the house and in the garden. He has a splendid memory and readily recognizes any of his former acquaintances and friends who call at his home.

Items Of Interest From Frostburg

J. L. Jones Retires From Hospital Job

FROSTBURG — John Lewis "Jackie" Jones, this city, who served as maintenance man at Miners Hospital for 25 years, was placed on the retired list June 2.

A native of Frostburg and a son of the late David and Alice Jones, Frostburg, he worked during his younger days as a coal miner, until an injury suffered in 1922 while working in Mine No. 9 of the Consolidation Coal Company forced his retirement.

One of Frostburg's best-known citizens, he received his appointment at Miners Hospital May 29, 1923, and began working June 2, 1923. During his tenure of service Mr. Jones has won the friendship of hundreds of patients treated at the hospital during the past 25 years.

Brig. Gen. Fox, W. Va. Adjutant, Addresses Club

National Guard Head Urges Two-Year Draft

KEYSER, W. Va.—Using "Nation Defense" as his topic, Brig. Gen. Charles R. Fox, Charleston, adjutant of West Virginia, addressed 45 members of the Keyser Rotary Club at their weekly luncheon yesterday.

In his address to the group Gen. Fox told of the organization of the West Virginia National Guard, stating that the National Guard is the most democratic of all military divisions. He stressed the need for men in the occupational troops and said that in his opinion the need for men in the army and occupational troops required a two-year draft law rather than only giving the boys one year of training. The reason for his opinion, he said, was that by the time the year was up the draftees had just completed their training and were then released and more boys trained, with no one military division really benefiting from the training the draftees received inasmuch as they were not given a chance to use it if only required to stay in the service one year.

Gen. Fox is the first Air Force officer to be designated as a state commander of a military group. He joined the National Guard, the organization which he now heads, at the age of 17 as a private while a senior in high school.

Gen. Fox has been chosen for the 50th annual edition of "Who's Who in America." He spent 16 months in China where as executive A-3 of the 14th Air Force, he served as principal staff officer under Maj. Gen Claire L. Chennault for all of China's air force affairs. Most of his work was planning combat missions and in directing and training of American Chinese Air Force personnel.

The state adjutant also addressed the Keyser Lions Club at their meeting last night. Present for the address at the Rotary Club was Capt Leslie Yost, commander of Batter C, 201st Field Artillery, National Guard Unit, which was recently organized in Keyser.

George Aldridge, Retired C. And P. Railroader, To Mark 85th Birthday

Open House Will Be Held June 25

FROSTBURG — George Leonard Aldridge, Woodland, a retired C. and P. railroader who is widely known among the older coal miners and railroaders of the Georges Creek region, will observe his 85th birthday Friday, June 25, with open house at his residence in Woodland.

Known as "Pop" to his neighbors of Woodland and National and "Len" among the older mining and railroad men of the region, Mr. Aldridge, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George E. Aldridge, was born in Mt. Savage June 25, 1863, and resided there until 1904, when he was transferred to Carlos Junction, now known as Woodland.

His father was a locomotive engineer for the C. and P. Railroad Company and his seven brothers were all employed as railroaders.

Mr. Aldridge, who received a 50-year membership pin from the Cleveland office of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen last week, was placed on the retired list of the C. and P. Railroad Company September 1, 1933, after 47 years of service.

At that time the Maryland Bureau of Mines, in its September, 1933, report furnished the following information;

"Mr. Aldridge entered the service of the Railroad Company as a laborer at the Mt. Savage shops, in the year 1886, where he accepted a position as brakeman and was promoted to conductor in 1888, which position he held until his retirement.

"The 47 years Mr. Aldridge served as trainman were divided, 19 years at Mt. Savage, 14 years at Carlos Junction and 14 years at Westernport."

Mr. Aldridge gained his widest acquaintance with Georges Creek coal miners after he moved to Carlos Junction in 1904 and served for many years as conductor on the "miners' drag," the name given to the train that hauled coal miners residing in the area between Frostburg and Carlos Junction to Mine No. 7.

The term "drag" was applied to the train because it never left the mine until the last man was through his work. The "miners' drag" was drawn by an engine on which Mr. Aldridge's brother, John, was the engineer, and Arthur Lemmert, now a resident of Mt. Savage, was fireman.

Mr. Aldridge's wife, the former Miss Amanda Read, Mt. Savage, died about 15 years ago. Their children are Mrs. Alice Truly, Charles Aldridge, Mrs. Basil Pressman and Joseph Aldridge, at home; Russell Aldridge, Paul Aldridge and Mrs. William Poland, all of Woodland. There are five grandchildren and four great-great-grandchildren. He is a member of the Woodland Methodist Church.

Since his retirement, Mr. Aldridge spent much of his spare time at Emerick's store in National, where he related incidents of his active days on the Cumberland and Pennsylvania Railroad to younger folks of the community. In recent years, however, due to weakness in his legs, he has been forced to remain at home and spend most of his time around the house and in the garden. He has a splendid memory and readily recognizes any of his former acquaintances and friends who call at his home.

J. L. Jones Retires From Hospital Job

FROSTBURG — John Lewis "Jackie" Jones, this city, who served as maintenance man at Miners Hospital for 25 years, was placed on the retired list June 2.

A native of Frostburg and a son of the late David and Alice Jones, Frostburg, he worked during his younger days as a coal miner, until an injury suffered in 1922 while working in Mine No. 9 of the Consolidation Coal Company forced his retirement.

One of Frostburg's best-known citizens, he received his appointment at Miners Hospital May 29, 1923, and began working June 2, 1923. During his tenure of service Mr. Jones has won the friendship of hundreds of patients treated at the hospital during the past 25 years.

National Guard Head Urges Two-Year Draft

KEYSER, W. Va.—Using "Nation Defense" as his topic, Brig. Gen. Charles R. Fox, Charleston, adjutant of West Virginia, addressed 45 members of the Keyser Rotary Club at their weekly luncheon yesterday.

In his address to the group Gen. Fox told of the organization of the West Virginia National Guard, stating that the National Guard is the most democratic of all military divisions. He stressed the need for men in the occupational troops and said that in his opinion the need for men in the army and occupational troops required a two-year draft law rather than only giving the boys one year of training. The reason for his opinion, he said, was that by the time the year was up the draftees had just completed their training and were then released and more boys trained, with no one military division really benefiting from the training the draftees received inasmuch as they were not given a chance to use it if only required to stay in the service one year.

Gen. Fox is the first Air Force officer to be designated as a state commander of a military group. He joined the National Guard, the organization which he now heads, at the age of 17 as a private while a senior in high school.

Gen. Fox has been chosen for the 50th annual edition of "Who's Who in America." He spent 16 months in China where as executive A-3 of the 14th Air Force, he served as principal staff officer under Maj. Gen Claire L. Chennault for all of China's air force affairs. Most of his work was planning combat missions and in directing and training of American Chinese Air Force personnel.

The state adjutant also addressed the Keyser Lions Club at their meeting last night. Present for the address at the Rotary Club was Capt Leslie Yost, commander of Battery C, 201st Field Artillery, National Guard Unit, which was recently organized in Keyser.

West Virginia's Vet Housing Plan Explained By VA Appraisal Chief

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 17 (AP)—The lowdown on the so-called West Virginia Housing Plan for Veterans was given here today by Andy Koontz, chief land appraisal officer of the Veterans Administration regional office.

The author of the plan, which is designed to encourage corporations to build homes and sell them to their employes at cost, is John C. Core, VA loan guarantee officer.

A bill which would authorize the VA to study the possibility of extending the West Virginia plan throughout the United States was passed by the House yesterday and sent to the Senate.

Koontz said the plan would be feasible in any part of the nation where "monied interests," such as a corporation or a co-operative, could do the initial financing.

The idea, Koontz said, is to have a firm build the homes for employe veterans. The veteran then obtains a loan through the GI Bill of Rights or the Federal Housing Authority and buys the house from the company at cost.

Koontz said the plan was inaugurated at St. Albans, near Charleston, by the Carbide and Carbon Chemical Company last year.

All but three of the 70 units were financed through VA or FHA loans after Carbide had bought the tract of land, laid streets and built the homes.

Koontz said the frame cottages, consisting of five rooms and bath, were sold to the employes at cost—on an average of $6,800 each.

Core, who was out of town and unable to explain his brainchild in person, conceived the plan as a means of solving the critical housing problem.

Urbana, Ill., is the seat of the University of Illinois, which was opened in 1868.

HOPES TO WALK-- His wife and 11-year-old daughter, Patricia, bid farewell on a special Pullman car to bed-ridden, emaciated Carl Wills, 35, one of 10 Southern West Virginia coal miners en route to California this week for special rehabilitation treatment. Wolf-Sheep Ratio Will Be Studied

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Is the wolf the worst enemy of the Alaskan Dall sheep—or just a sheep's friend in wolves' clothing. A survey in Mt. McKinley National Park, Alaska, will be made in August by Dr. Harold E. Anthony, of the American Museum of Natural History, and Ralph Friedmann, a businessman, who is financing the trip.

The Dall sheep, a lighter, whiter and more graceful brother of the Rocky Mountain sheep, had been declining steadily for a number of years until 1946. However, in the past two years the Mt. McKinley herd has increased 10 percent. It now numbers about 600 sheep, the Park Service reports. Whether by coincidence or not, wolves have been scarce since 1946. Some wildlife conservation groups have urged that Alaskan wolves be killed off to halt depredations among Dall sheep

Interior Department biologists have argued, however, that wolves actually do sheep a service by killing off the weak and aged, thus preventing wastage of the range. They point to the campaign a few years ago to kill off the cougars that were ravaging deer of the Kaibab forest near the Utah-Arizona border. With the cougars out of the way, they said, the deer increased so rapidly that overgrazing quickly resulted. More deer died of starvation than previously had been killed by cougars.

On Jan. 3, 1777, Gen. George Washington fought and won the battle of Princeton.

Stockmen Argue Over Grapefruit

DENVER—(AP)—Western stockmen heard that Florida cattle growers are feeding grapefruit to their stock and they shifted a skeptical quid to the other cheek. The Florida stockmen contend that grapefruit helps build fat cattle.

But B. F. Davis, secretary of the Colorado Stock Growers and Feeders association, snorted his disbelief. "You just can't beat the grain finish," he said. 'Here, a lot of cattle and sheep, too, start on beet tops in the fields and they love it. Then they're likely to get some beet tops from ensilage or some beet pulp. But the finish will be with grain."

Hogs crowded into the act, too. Dr. W. J. Purse, a veterinarian, says porkers who browse on garbage collected in Denver won't eat grapefruit skins.

The period of gestation of the Indian elephant is not accurately known but is believed to be about 18 months. It sometimes lives to be 60 years old.

Giant Sapphire Reported

BRISBANE, Australia — (AP) — Harry Spencer, a Queensland gem buyer, says he has a 2,000 carat black star sapphire. The stone, he says, is much larger than that shown recently by a New York jeweler.

Both the stone shown in New York and the one Spencer says he has came from Australia and from the same mine. The New York stone was found 10 years ago, the Spencer stone seven years ago. Spencer says he has refused all offers for the larger stone because he would have to pay most of any money he received for it in taxes.

Iron Age Studied

BLEWBURTON, England (AP) — Archaeologists soon will be digging up agricultural secrets of Britain's iron age. Experts and students are going to camp on and pry into the Berkshire Downs to trace the story of cultivation terraces which some say were developed in very early times.

Carabao Rustlers Active

MANILA (AP)—Carabao rustling—oriental version of the infamous practice of the American old west—has hit the Philippines. Officials of Nueva Ecija province said the carabaos, used both as plough animals and as a source of milk, are being rustled in great numbers by dissident Filipines. One official estimated more than 50 percent of the province's farmers had lost their animals.

NEW YORK, July 17 (AP)—Railroad issues received the lion's share of attention in today's stock market and several moved up to the highest prices of the year or longer.

Business was about on a par with yesterday, 1,520,000 shares against 1,580,000.

Of the 1,051 issues which appeared on the ticker tape, 416 advanced and 408 declined.

Issues which climbed to new highs during the day, although closing below the best levels in most cases, included Central of New Jersey Railroad at 37¾, Southern Pacific 59¾, Southern Railway 49½, Illinois Central 41, Gulf Mobile and Ohio 20⅜, Maracaibo Oil 8½, Patino Mines 15¾, and Radio Corporation 15.

In the minus column were Republic Steel, Montgomery Ward, Western Union, American Smelting, American Woolen, Standard Oil (NJ), Pacific Western Oil, and 20th Century-Fox.

Selected rails stepped ahead briskly in the bond market as Congress passed the controversial Bulwinkle bill over President Truman's veto.

The measure exempts railroads from anti-trust prosecution on rate agreements approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The market got away to a very slow start, but the late carrier activity pulled it up to a volume of $5,400,000, the best of the past three days. Yesterday's total was $4,330,000.

United States government bonds were narrowly mixed and quiet in over-the-counter dealings. Danish loans were ahead as much as two points in the foreign dollar list.

Pittsburgh Pirates Capture Third Game From Giants, 9-8

New York Slugs Ball But Twirlers Fail

NEW YORK, June 17 (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates polished off the New York Giants for the third time in a row today, 9 to 8, as the Giant pitchers failed again despite heavy hitting support.

The New Yorkers slammed 10 hits for 25 bases including four home runs off three Pittsburgh hurlers.

Johnny Mize hit his 11th home run in the fourth, Bill Rigney hit his fifth and Bobby Thomson his seventh in the fifth, and Willard Marshall hit his fifth in the sixth. Each came with the bases empty.

Starter Larry Jansen was the loser for New York, giving way to Sheldon Jones in the seventh. Bobo Newsom took over in the eighth after Jones had loaded the bases on walks and had given up a pair of singles good for two runs.

Vic Lombardi started for Pittsburgh. Elmer Singleton came on in the sixth and was the winner although he needed help from Kirby Higbe when the Giants rallied for four runs in the eighth. Box:

Voiselle Scores Double Triumph In Relief Roles

Braves Defeat Cubs And Take Over Lead

BOSTON, June 17 (AP)—The Boston Braves once again took over the National League lead today, coming from behind twice to edge the cellar shackled Chicago Cubs, 7-6 and 8-7, in a Bunker Hill holiday twin bill witnessed by 24,714 paid fans.

The double triumph gave the Tribe an eight percentage points bulge over the second place Pittsburgh Pirates who shaded the New York Giants, 9-8. The Braves and the Pirates had been tied for first before today's games.

Big Bill Voiselle, who was knocked out of the box in the first inning yesterday by these same cubs, finished up both games and gained credit for two decisions.

The Braves now have beaten Chicago nine times in ten games between the two clubs.

The Cubs hustled a 5-0 lead in the first game as they drove starter Lefty Warren Spahn to an early tub. The Braves proceeded to score twice in both the third and fifth innings and added three more, enough to win, in the sixth.

Chicago reliefer Jess Dobernic who also pitched in both games, ended the long day by walking Pinch Hitter Bill Salkeld with the bases loaded, forcing in the winning Boston run, in the final session of the nightcap. Box:

Whitney Martin's SPORTS TRAIL

NEW YORK, June 17 (AP)—Goodness gracious, Mr. Mack is upset. It must be the altitude. His Philadelphia Athletics haven't been so high in the American League race in years and years, and anybody is liable to be disturbed by such a sudden change.

My goodness, what is baseball coming to, anyway. Just imagine, he said d—n right out loud, and to reporters, too. Gee whillikers, you just don't know what to make of it. Mr. Mack never talked like that before, even when his team was finishing seventh or eighth nine straight times.

Fired two of his players just like that, and he was pretty golddurned mad about it, too. Told Nelson Potter to get his check after his 36-year-old relief pitcher wasn't much of a relief in one of his games, and told 38-year-old Bill Dietrich he had his release after Dietrich said he would just as soon have that if he didn't get more pitching assignments.

A little while ago Mr. Mack got really rambunctious when the umpires wanted to call a game because of rain. Gracious, he was peeved at those umpires. He wasn't fined, though. Wouldn't that really have been something? Mr. Connie Mack, 85, if he's a day, which he certainly is, fined and reprimanded for abusing an umpire?

Sakes alive, Mr. Mack had better be careful or he'll ruin all our theories about the nice, gentle guys being just as good as baseball managers as the loud-mouthed, chip-on-the-shoulder type.

He was our No. 1 exhibit. Sure, he hasn't won any pennants in years and years, but he won more than his share at one time or another, and we always considered him the cream of the milk of human kindness; a man who wouldn't raise his voice to call a taxi.

The scent of a pennant, no matter how faint, must do something to a man, at that. In recent years Connie might just as well have had a perpetual head cold as far as getting even a whiff of that goal was concerned.

It really didn't make much difference whether his rather pathetic Athletics won or lost a particular game. They weren't going anywhere in particular.

Now, all of a sudden, and possibly to Connie's own surprise, they are in the thick of the fight and every game means something. He doesn't want players around who can't play winning ball. For many years he certainly tolerated them, at least.

So all in all we're surprised, and secretly a little delighted by the old gentleman's sudden show of fire. Not that we would like to see him abruptly turn into an umpire-baiting, profane and altogether obnoxious individual. Gracious sakes, no.

But it is nice to see him showing some zip and the keenness to win. We don't know the circumstances of his firing of Potter other than what we have read, but the action did seem a little harsh. After all, every pitcher, including Bob Feller and Hal Newhouser and Ewell Blackwell, gets his brains knocked out now and then out there on the mound, and that doesn't mean they aren't trying.

Land sakes, though, even if he is wrong in this case Mr. Mack is coming right out and showing them who is boss. His coach, Al Simmons, said this spring that nothing was changed, that Mr. Mack still ran the club. He knew whereof he was speaking.

Nothing has changed except Connie Mack and his Athletics, you might say. And goodness gracious, have they changed!

Stoops, Aristocrats And Peck's Capture Frostburg Contests

FROSTBURG, June 17 — Stoops' Restaurant blanked the Loyal Order of Moose, 9-0, at State Teachers' College Field, Twigg's Restaurant took the measure of Allegany on the latter's field, 7-2, and the Aristocrats defeated Peck's at Community Park by the score of 15-10 in Frostburg Softball League games played today.

Layman, Brady, D. Blank, Sanged and Stair collected two hits each for Stoops and Chaney hit a two-bagger for the Moose.

Waites with a triple and double and R. Edwards with a homer and two-bagger paced the Aristocrats' attack. Loar and Scarpelli headed Peck's with three and two hits.

Starkey and Nick Harris of Twigg's and Tommy Folk of Allegany garnered two hits apiece.

Peck's and Twigg's will play off a postponed game today at Community Park. The scores:

Bobby Adams Of Reds Suffers Rib Bruises

BROOKLYN, June 17 (AP)—X-ray photographs today showed that Bobby Adams, Cincinnati second baseman, suffered only rib bruises last night when he collided with Gil Hodges, Brooklyn catcher, in the baseball game at Ebbets Field.

Hodges slammed into Adams to break up an attempted double play. The Red infielder was carried from the field on a stretcher and taken to a hospital. It was at first believed he suffered rib fractures.

Red Sox Hand Cleveland 4th Straight Loss

DiMaggio's Home Run Decides Battle, 8-6

CLEVELAND, June 17 (AP)—The resurgent Boston Red Sox handed the league-leading Cleveland Indians their fourth straight loss today, edging the faltering Tribe 8-6 for a sweep of the three-game series.

Dom DiMaggio's sixth - inning home run broke a 6-all deadlock and clinched the game for the Sox, who now have won 11 of their last 14 games.

Don Black started for Cleveland, but failed to last the first inning as Boston tallied three times. Johnny Pesky walked and went to third on Ted Williams' single. Pesky scored on Stan Spence's fly. Black then issued a single to Vern Stephens and a walk to Bobby Doerr to load the bases. He walked Bill Goodman to force Williams across the plate. Steve Gromek came in as relief and walked Birdie Tebbetts to force another man in.

Lefty Earl Johnson, who relieved starter Denny Galehouse in the fourth, received credit for the victory. Johnson allowed the Indians one run and four hits for the rest of the distance. Box:

DETROIT, June 17 (AP)—Thanks to three runs that crossed the plate on errors, the Philadelphia Athletics snapped a six-game Detroit winning streak today by beating the Tigers 5 to 2.

The win moved the second place A's within two games of league leading Cleveland.

CHARLES TOWN CANCELS RACES DUE TO WATER-LOGGED TRACK

Jockeys Refuse Mounts After Second Race

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va., June 17—(AP)—When a horse skidded into the rail near the scene where another lost his life because of the water-logged track, the jockeys decided they had enough today and refused any more mounts.

Refusal of the riders to risk their necks forced cancellation of the last six races on the Charles Town Jockey Club program.

The last straw as far as the jockeys were concerned was when Rendova slithered into the fence in the second race. Jockey Ed Kratz got off with a sprained ankle and Rendova was banged up.

Yesterday, Shoot First wasn't as lucky. He crashed into the fence, broke a leg and had to be killed. Jockey Clarence Wright went shooting through the air but landed safely.

Jockey Sam Palumbo also took two dives into mud yesterday.

A. J. Boyle, club president, put tractors to work immediately on the mire and predicted it would be safe to resume racing tomorrow.

Athletics Will Hold Baseball School Here First Week In August

The Philadelphia Athletics will conduct a baseball school here for young players the first week in August, John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh, Fort Hill High School coach, announced yesterday.

Cavanaugh has been named by John "Dutch" Brennan, of Baltimore, scout for the Athletics, to make preliminary arrangements for the school.

The tentative dates are Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, August 3, 4 and 5.

County Loop Tilt Ends In Argument

Wellersburg And Park Game Reports Differ

Wellersburg and Narrows Park, the leaders and runner-up in the County Softball League, met at Wellersburg yesterday but due to conflicting reports it's difficult to say which team emerged the winner.

Narrows Park reports it won the game by the score of 9-7 in eight complete innings while Wellersburg, which was playing the game under protest from the third inning, says the score was 9-8 in the Park's favor with two out in the last of the 8th when the visiting team walked off the field. Wellersburg adds that the tying run was on third base when hostilities were halted.

Narrows Park alleges that one of its players was struck by the Wellersburg manager during an argument.

The affair will be aired by both sides at the next meeting of the league.

Toler pitched for Wellersburg and Raupach was on the mound for the Park. Widdows of Narrows Park and Kennell of Wellersburg hit home runs. Ken Troutman and Price of the Park and Robinette of the home team had four hits each.

The C. & P. Telephone Workers defeated Bedford Road, 9-4, at Taylor Field. Pat Burns belted two triples and a single and Crabtree and Bachman had a double and single apiece for C. & P. while Miles, McElfish and Hendrickson each hit safely twice for Bedford Road.

Allegany Grove took the Corner Merchants into camp at Constitution Park, 6-2. Wertz had a perfect day at bat for the winners with four hits to his credit. Sheffler starred in centerfield and rapped out two of the Merchants' five bingles.

Potomac Valley edged the Hyndman Firemen at Pinto, 6-5. Bill Sherman's single climaxed a four-run rally that sewed up the game in the final inning. Pete Cecil had two doubles and a triple and Sherman got three singles for the Cubs while Boyer and Miller had two hits apiece for the Firemen. The scores:

Indiana's Press Box Will Be One Of Best

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., June 17 (AP) — Western Conference sportswriters once voted the press box at Memorial Stadium, Indiana University, the worst in the big nine league.

Next fall, it will be one of the best.

A new steam-heated press box of steel, reinforced concrete and plate glass is rising on the north side of the stadium. It will cost about $75,000, will seat at least 100 sports writers, and will be as high as a five-story building.

Docusen's Bout With Robinson Halted By Rain

Title Go At Chicago Rescheduled Monday

By CHARLES EINSTEIN
International News Service Sports Writer

CHICAGO, June 17 (INS)—The elements contributed one rainy assist tonight to Ray Robinson's record of not fighting in Chicago, and Sugar Ray's welterweight title defense against Bernard Docusen of New Orleans was put off until Monday night.

Promoter Irving Kovin announced the postponement after becoming convinced an all-afternoon drizzle wasn't going to let up. It was the fifth time in approximately four months that a scheduled Robinson ring appearance in Chicago was put off.

His appointment with Georgie Abrams was postponed twice; then, the third time, Robinson came down with a cold and Abrams fought Anton Raadik.

Then, Robinson was supposed to fight Docusen indoors early this month. That bout was put off and its site changed to outdoor Comiskey Park; and today the rains came.

The entire card will go as scheduled at Comiskey Monday night, which is the next open date at the White Sox ballyard, and all tickets sold for tonight will be honored then. A ring and field seats and lights had been set up today; they will be removed tomorrow and set up once again Monday.

There will be another weigh-in ceremony Monday, which may or may not work to Robinson's advantage. He just made it at the 147 pound maximum today; the slim Docusen, who has no trouble keeping in shape, checked in at 145½.

Drew's first triple came with two aboard during a five run rally in the fifth. Lou Riehl knocked in two runs with a timely double during a four-run splurge in the 6th.

The Amvets returned to Cumberland tonight and will play Fort Cumberland Post, American Legion, of the Interstate League in the opener of a best-of-three-games series Friday at 5:30 p. m., at Community Park. The score:

Voiselle Scores Double Triumph In Relief Roles

Braves Defeat Cubs And Take Over Lead

BOSTON, June 17 (AP)—The Boston Braves once again took over the National League lead today, coming from behind twice to edge the cellar shackled Chicago Cubs, 7-6 and 8-7, in a Bunker Hill holiday twin bill witnessed by 24,714 paid fans.

The double triumph gave the Tribe an eight percentage points bulge over the second place Pittsburgh Pirates who shaded the New York Giants, 9-8. The Braves and the Pirates had been tied for first before today's games.

Big Bill Voiselle, who was knocked out of the box in the first inning yesterday by these same cubs, finished up both games and gained credit for two decisions.

The Braves now have beaten Chicago nine times in ten games between the two clubs.

The Cubs hustled a 5-0 lead in the first game as they drove starter Lefty Warren Spahn to an early tub. The Braves proceeded to score twice in both the third and fifth innings and added three more, enough to win, in the sixth.

Chicago reliefer Jess Dobernic who also pitched in both games, ended the long day by walking Pinch Hitter Bill Salkeld with the bases loaded, forcing in the winning Boston run, in the final session of the nightcap. Box:

Whitney Martin's SPORTS TRAIL

NEW YORK, June 17 (AP)—Goodness gracious, Mr. Mack is upset. It must be the altitude. His Philadelphia Athletics haven't been so high in the American League race in years and years, and anybody is liable to be disturbed by such a sudden change.

My goodness, what is baseball coming to, anyway. Just imagine, he said d—n right out loud, and to reporters, too. Gee whillikers, you just don't know what to make of it. Mr. Mack never talked like that before, even when his team was finishing seventh or eighth nine straight times.

Fired two of his players just like that, and he was pretty golddurned mad about it, too. Told Nelson Potter to get his check after his 36-year-old relief pitcher wasn't much of a relief in one of his games, and told 38-year-old Bill Dietrich he had his release after Dietrich said he would just as soon have that if he didn't get more pitching assignments.

A little while ago Mr. Mack got really rambunctious when the umpires wanted to call a game because of rain. Gracious, he was peeved at those umpires. He wasn't fined, though. Wouldn't that really have been something? Mr. Connie Mack, 85, if he's a day, which he certainly is, fined and reprimanded for abusing an umpire?

Sakes alive, Mr. Mack had better be careful or he'll ruin all our theories about the nice, gentle guys being just as good as baseball managers as the loud-mouthed, chip-on-the-shoulder type.

He was our No. 1 exhibit. Sure, he hasn't won any pennants in years and years, but he won more than his share at one time or another, and we always considered him the cream of the milk of human kindness; a man who wouldn't raise his voice to call a taxi.

The scent of a pennant, no matter how faint, must do something to a man, at that. In recent years Connie might just as well have had a perpetual head cold as far as getting even a whiff of that goal was concerned.

It really didn't make much difference whether his rather pathetic Athletics won or lost a particular game. They weren't going anywhere in particular.

Now, all of a sudden, and possibly to Connie's own surprise, they are in the thick of the fight and every game means something. He doesn't want players around who can't play winning ball. For many years he certainly tolerated them, at least.

So all in all we're surprised, and secretly a little delighted by the old gentleman's sudden show of fire. Not that we would like to see him abruptly turn into an umpire-baiting, profane and altogether obnoxious individual. Gracious sakes, no.

But it is nice to see him showing some zip and the keenness to win. We don't know the circumstances of his firing of Potter other than what we have read, but the action did seem a little harsh. After all, every pitcher, including Bob Feller and Hal Newhouser and Ewell Blackwell, gets his brains knocked out now and then out there on the mound, and that doesn't mean they aren't trying.

Land sakes, though, even if he is wrong in this case Mr. Mack is coming right out and showing them who is boss. His coach, Al Simmons, said this spring that nothing was changed, that Mr. Mack still ran the club. He knew whereof he was speaking.

Nothing has changed except Connie Mack and his Athletics, you might say. And goodness gracious, have they changed!

Bobby Adams Of Reds Suffers Rib Bruises

BROOKLYN, June 17 (AP)—X-ray photographs today showed that Bobby Adams, Cincinnati second baseman, suffered only rib bruises last night when he collided with Gil Hodges, Brooklyn catcher, in the baseball game at Ebbets Field.

Hodges slammed into Adams to break up an attempted double play. The Red infielder was carried from the field on a stretcher and taken to a hospital. It was at first believed he suffered rib fractures.

Red Sox Hand Cleveland 4th Straight Loss

DiMaggio's Home Run Decides Battle, 8-6

CLEVELAND, June 17 (AP)—The resurgent Boston Red Sox handed the league-leading Cleveland Indians their fourth straight loss today, edging the faltering Tribe 8-6 for a sweep of the three-game series.

Dom DiMaggio's sixth - inning home run broke a 6-all deadlock and clinched the game for the Sox, who now have won 11 of their last 14 games.

Don Black started for Cleveland, but failed to last the first inning as Boston tallied three times. Johnny Pesky walked and went to third on Ted Williams' single. Pesky scored on Stan Spence's fly. Black then issued a single to Vern Stephens and a walk to Bobby Doerr to load the bases. He walked Bill Goodman to force Williams across the plate. Steve Gromek came in as relief and walked Birdie Tebbetts to force another man in.

Lefty Earl Johnson, who relieved starter Denny Galehouse in the fourth, received credit for the victory. Johnson allowed the Indians one run and four hits for the rest of the distance. Box:

SCHEIB HALTS DETROIT

DETROIT, June 17 (AP)—Thanks to three runs that crossed the plate on errors, the Philadelphia Athletics snapped a six-game Detroit winning streak today by beating the Tigers 5 to 2.

The win moved the second place A's within two games of league leading Cleveland.

Carl Scheib hurled a six-hitter to best Dizzy Trout and take his fifth win against two defeats. The Macks collected 10 hits off Trout, most anybody has gotten off Detroit pitching in the Tigers' last 10 games.

Wakefield's single knocked in both the Detroit tallies in the sixth. Box:

Miss Lenczyk, representing Stetson College of Deland, Fla., easily eliminated Barbara Canine of Western Michigan. Miss Smith downed Alice O'Neal of Rollins College.

CHARLES TOWN CANCELS RACES DUE TO WATER-LOGGED TRACK

Jockeys Refuse Mounts After Second Race

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va., June 17—(AP)—When a horse skidded into the rail near the scene where another lost his life because of the water-logged track, the jockeys decided they had enough today and refused any more mounts.

Refusal of the riders to risk their necks forced cancellation of the last six races on the Charles Town Jockey Club program.

The last straw as far as the jockeys were concerned was when Rendova slithered into the fence in the second race. Jockey Ed Kratz got off with a sprained ankle and Rendova was banged up.

Yesterday, Shoot First wasn't as lucky. He crashed into the fence, broke a leg and had to be killed. Jockey Clarence Wright went shooting through the air but landed safely.

Jockey Sam Palumbo also took two dives into mud yesterday.

A. J. Boyle, club president, put tractors to work immediately on the mire and predicted it would be safe to resume racing tomorrow.

Athletics Will Hold Baseball School Here First Week In August

The Philadelphia Athletics will conduct a baseball school here for young players the first week in August, John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh, Fort Hill High School coach, announced yesterday.

Cavanaugh has been named by John "Dutch" Brennan, of Baltimore, scout for the Athletics, to make preliminary arrangements for the school.

The tentative dates are Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, August 3, 4 and 5.

Community Park will be available for the school on those dates Cavanaugh was informed last night by Eddie Diehl, of the American Legion athletic committee.

County Loop Tilt Ends In Argument

Wellersburg And Park Game Reports Differ

Wellersburg and Narrows Park, the leaders and runner-up in the County Softball League, met at Wellersburg yesterday but due to conflicting reports it's difficult to say which team emerged the winner.

Narrows Park reports it won the game by the score of 9-7 in eight complete innings while Wellersburg, which was playing the game under protest from the third inning, says the score was 9-8 in the Park's favor with two out in the last of the 8th when the visiting team walked off the field. Wellersburg adds that the tying run was on third base when hostilities were halted.

Narrows Park alleges that one of its players was struck by the Wellersburg manager during an argument.

The affair will be aired by both sides at the next meeting of the league.

Toler pitched for Wellersburg and Raupach was on the mound for the Park. Widdows of Narrows Park and Kennell of Wellersburg hit home runs. Ken Troutman and Price of the Park and Robinette of the home team had four hits each.

The C. & P. Telephone Workers defeated Bedford Road, 9-4, at Taylor Field. Pat Burns belted two triples and a single and Crabtree and Bachman had a double and single apiece for C. & P. while Miles, McElfish and Hendrickson each hit safely twice for Bedford Road.

Allegany Grove took the Corner Merchants into camp at Constitution Park, 6-2. Wertz had a perfect day at bat for the winners with four hits to his credit. Sheffler starred in centerfield and rapped out two of the Merchants' five bingles.

Potomac Valley edged the Hyndman Firemen at Pinto, 6-5. Bill Sherman's single climaxed a four-run rally that sewed up the game in the final inning. Pete Cecil had two doubles and a triple and Sherman got three singles for the Cubs while Boyer and Miller had two hits apiece for the Firemen. The scores:

Indiana's Press Box Will Be One Of Best

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., June 17 (AP) — Western Conference sportswriters once voted the press box at Memorial Stadium, Indiana University, the worst in the big nine league.

Next fall, it will be one of the best.

A new steam-heated press box of steel, reinforced concrete and plate glass is rising on the north side of the stadium. It will cost about $75,000, will seat at least 100 sports writers, and will be as high as a five-story building.

Farrady Is Patient At Miners Hospital

FROSTBURG, June 17—William C. Farrady, Beall High School's all-around athlete who won three awards at last week's commencement exercises, is a patient at Miners Hospital, it was reported today.

Farrady became ill following his return from Washington, D. C., where he and 18 other students, accompanied by Coaches Ed Finzel and Joe Hoopengardner, went on a sight-seeing trip and attended a major league baseball doubleheader on Sunday.

Docusen's Bout With Robinson Halted By Rain

Title Go At Chicago Rescheduled Monday

By CHARLES EINSTEIN
International News Service Sports Writer

CHICAGO, June 17 (INS)—The elements contributed one rainy assist tonight to Ray Robinson's record of not fighting in Chicago, and Sugar Ray's welterweight title defense against Bernard Docusen of New Orleans was put off until Monday night.

Promoter Irving Kovin announced the postponement after becoming convinced an all-afternoon drizzle wasn't going to let up. It was the fifth time in approximately four months that a scheduled Robinson ring appearance in Chicago was put off.

His appointment with Georgie Abrams was postponed twice; then, the third time, Robinson came down with a cold and Abrams fought Anton Raadik.

Then, Robinson was supposed to fight Docusen indoors early this month. That bout was put off and its site changed to outdoor Comiskey Park; and today the rains came.

The entire card will go as scheduled at Comiskey Monday night, which is the next open date at the White Sox ballyard, and all tickets sold for tonight will be honored then. A ring and field seats and lights had been set up today; they will be removed tomorrow and set up once again Monday.

There will be another weigh-in ceremony Monday, which may or may not work to Robinson's advantage. He just made it at the 147 pound maximum today; the slim Docusen, who has no trouble keeping in shape, checked in at 145½.

Amvets Shut Out Fairmont, 9 To 0

Play Legion In First Game Of Series Today

FAIRMONT, W. Va., June 17 — Johnny Salek made his debut with the Cumberland (Md.) Amvets baseball team tonight and tossed a one-hitter in turning back the Fairmont Pirates by the score of 9-0. Salek fanned six.

Cumberland nicked Wilfong and Coleman for nine safeties including consecutive triples by Danny Drew.

Drew's first triple came with two aboard during a five run rally in the fifth. Lou Riehl knocked in two runs with a timely double during a four-run splurge in the 6th.

The Amvets returned to Cumberland tonight and will play Fort Cumberland Post, American Legion, of the Interstate League in the opener of a best-of-three-games series Friday at 5:30 p. m., at Community Park. The score:

CUMBERLAND	000 054 000—9	9	1
FAIRMONT	000 000 000—0	1	6

Salek and Strauss. Wilfong, Coleman (6) and Adams.

Stymie Defeated By Knockdown In Race At Aqueduct

Winner Cops $15,025; Gasparilla Is Third

By FRED HAYDEN

AQUEDUCT, N. Y., June 17 (AP)—The still agile but aging Stymie today found the combination of his heavy impost and the sharp speed of Knockdown too much for him in the Queens County Handicap.

Beating the world money-winning champion for the second time in their three clashes this season, Knockdown carried Mrs. Elizabeth Graham's silks to an easy three lengths decision over Mrs. E. D. Jacobs' seven-year-old chestnut. Stymie wore down A. J. Sackett's Gasparilla by a half length for the place in the 43rd edition of the mile and a sixteenth opening day fixture, witnessed by 23,557 fans.

Knockdown, a $9 for two second choice carrying 113 pounds (including four pounds of overweight for Jockey Ferril Zufelt, who was scoring a double,) was clocked in 1:44 3-5 as he picked up the winner's share of $15,025. Stymie, weighted at an exacting 132 pounds, could only add the $4,000 second money to his total, which now stands at $863,635. Stymie was favorite at 17 to 20.

Stymie was trying to accomplish a feat which only War Admiral, in 1938, had performed in the history of the stake—that of winning under 132 pounds.

Bobby Permane today replaced Conn McCreary, who had ridden Stymie in his last 16 starts, or since he finished second under Permane on July 12, 1947, in the Empire City Association's Butler Handicap, run at Jamaica. Permane previously had piloted Stymie on many occasions, however. McCreary today was on Lets Dance, which finished fifth of the half dozen starters in the $20,000 added event.

Knockdown's first decision over Stymie this year came in Jamaica's Excelsior Handicap, when the Graham galloper was first and Stymie third. At the same track in the Gallant Fox Handicap, Knockdown finished sixth and Stymie fifth. So today's was their rubber meeting.

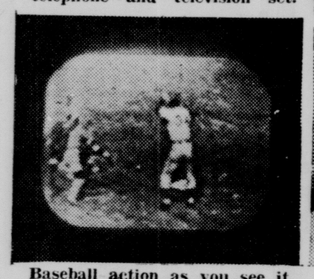
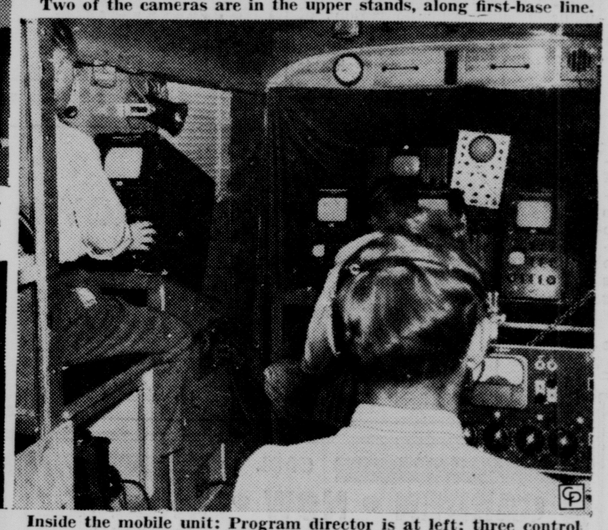
TELEVISING BALL GAME IS BIG JOB, REQUIRING 20 MEN, THREE CAMERAS

Van Patrick, announcer, equipped with mike, communication telephone and television set.

Two of the cameras are in the upper stands, along first-base line.



Baseball action as you see it.



Inside the mobile unit: Program director is at left; three control monitors from which he makes selection are in background.

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Sports Editor

CLEVELAND, June 16 — It's a simple matter to sit in an easy chair in your home and watch a baseball game being televised. But it's not such a simple matter to bring you this latest development of modern science.

It takes a crew of 20 men to handle the television program and the crew must prepare for the job hours in advance.

Because the play in baseball is so quick, the televising of a game calls for an itegrated effort by all concerned, split-second timing and decisions.

The crew is made up of four cameramen (one is a relief cameraman), three video (it means "to see" in Latin) engineers, one audio engineer, one program director, one assistant program director and one announcer on the site and six video engineers, one program director, two cameramen, one audio engineer and one lighting engineer at the studio.

• — • — •

Three cameras are employed, with two of them mounted on the rail in the upper stands along the first base side of the playing field. The third camera is in the lower stands, at the right rear of home plate. Two of the cameras are multiple lens units and the cameramen can switch over quickly from lens to lens to obtain different views of the diamond.

The image orthicon camera chain, as each apparatus is called, consists of the camera, pickup auxiliary, control monitor, synchronizing generator, power supply and mixer and each costs approximately $30,000.

Each camera, which focuses on different action, is connected to the mobile unit outside the stadium by cables. The cameras are in operation continuously from the time the game starts until it ends.

One of the men in the telecast of the ball game is the program director seated before three monitors, one for each camera, in the mobile unit. It is he who decides, by instantaneous push-button method, which of the three action shots goes on the television screen that you see.

He is linked to both the cameras and the announcer by a communication system and he can, and does, direct both cameramen and announcer in what he wants. However, in baseball games, a "series of plays" is worked out in advance and the cameramen know exactly what to do.

The program director also communicates with the announcer and informs him what's coming.

• — • — •

THE ANNOUNCER, who sits behind a wire screen in the first row of the press box, highlights the game action with a running commentary. He has a seven-inch television receiver at his side and in addition to the microphone, he has telephonic communication with the mobile unit.

Commercials are worked into the program both from the field and from the studio. For a commercial from the field one of the cameras is trained on a cardboard, set up on a stand. The printed commercial is superimposed on a shot of the crowd or the playing field in a montage effect.

The crew which handles the telecast begins work on the setup early. For an afternoon game the unit is at work as early as 10:30 in the morning. For an evening game, the work of setting up the cameras and laying the cables begins at 3:30 in the afternoon.

A relay link is used between the stadium and the studio. After the reproduction comes back to the studio it is sent through relay racks and then upstairs through a link which the telephone company has installed. This link terminates on the roof of a downtown hotel. From here it is sent through another relay link to suburban Parma and there transmitted to all receiving sets.

• — • — •

A GOOD RANGE for telecasts of the Cleveland baseball games is 60 miles. They have been received, however, from as far away as 150 miles.

A ball game could be covered with two cameras but three are better.

Since the Cleveland games have been televised the number of sets has increased considerably from the previous 3,500 in the area. Screens vary in size from seven inches to 20 inches. The larger the screen, the farther away you have to be to get a clear picture.

Reproductions have been clearer for night games than for day games. Engineers point out this is because there are no shadows and the tubes seem to work with less amount of light.

In the Cleveland setup, over WEWS, the program director is Pat Crafton and the announcer is Van Patrick.

The Cleveland Baseball club received a reported $75,000 for the television rights.

Rafferty Is Medalist

BALTIMORE, June 17 (AP)—Babe Rafferty, greenskeeper at the Forest Park course here, won medal honors today with a two over par 75 in the qualifying round of the Maryland State Amateur Golf Tournament at Woodholme.

Second honors went to Ralph Bogart of Chevy Chase and John Deford, Jr., of Elkridge with 76's.

Arbar, French Horse, Wins Ascot Gold Cup

ASCOT, England, June 17 (AP)—Marcel Boussac's Arbar won the two and a half mile Ascot Gold Cup today. The four - year old French horse won for its owner the trophy valued at $500 and the major share of the $4,500 added purse.

Jean Nys' Bayeux II, a four-year old Belgian horse, was second with third place going to Roi De Navarre, a French bred thoroughbred running in the colors of an English owner.

The British royal family and a big crowd saw a French horse triumph for the third straight year. Arbar, four to six favorite, won by four lengths. Six lengths separated the second and third horses.

Stymie Defeated By Knockdown In Race At Aqueduct

Winner Cops $15,025; Gasparilla Is Third

By FRED HAYDEN

AQUEDUCT, N. Y., June 17 (AP)—The still agile but aging Stymie today found the combination of his heavy impost and the sharp speed of Knockdown too much for him in the Queens County Handicap.

Beating the world money-winning champion for the second time in their three clashes this season, Knockdown carried Mrs. Elizabeth Graham's silks to an easy three lengths decision over Mrs. E. D. Jacobs' seven-year-old chestnut. Stymie wore down A. J. Sackett's Gasparilla by a half length for the place in the 43rd edition of the mile and a sixteenth opening day fixture, witnessed by 23,557 fans.

Knockdown, a $9 for two second choice carrying 113 pounds (including four pounds of overweight for Jockey Ferril Zufelt, who was scoring a double,) was clocked in 1:44 3-5 as he picked up the winner's share of $15,025. Stymie, weighted at an exacting 132 pounds, could only add the $4,000 second money to his total, which now stands at $863,635. Stymie was favorite at 17 to 20.

Stymie was trying to accomplish a feat which only War Admiral, in 1938, had performed in the history of the stake—that of winning under 132 pounds.

Bobby Permane today replaced Conn McCreary, who had ridden Stymie in his last 16 starts, or since he finished second under Permane on July 12, 1947, in the Empire City Association's Butler Handicap, run at Jamaica. Permane previously had piloted Stymie on many occasions, however. McCreary today was on Lets Dance, which finished fifth of the half dozen starters in the $20,000 added event.

Knockdown's first decision over Stymie this year came in Jamaica's Excelsior Handicap, when the Graham galloper was first and Stymie third. At the same track in the Gallant Fox Handicap, Knockdown finished sixth and Stymie fifth. So today's was their rubber meeting.

Sheppard Meets Lagay

NEW YORK, June 17—(AP)—Alfredo Lagay, Argentine heavyweight who has been unbeaten in the U. S., and Curtis (Hatchet Man) Sheppard of Baltimore have been signed to meet in the six-round semi-final to the Joe Louis-Jersey Joe Walcott championship fight in Yankee Stadium, June 23.

TELEVISING BALL GAME IS BIG JOB, REQUIRING 20 MEN, THREE CAMERAS

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Sports Editor

CLEVELAND, June 16 — It's a simple matter to sit in an easy chair in your home and watch a baseball game being televised. But it's not such a simple matter to bring you this latest development of modern science.

It takes a crew of 20 men to handle the television program and the crew must prepare for the job hours in advance.

Because the play in baseball is so quick, the televising of a game calls for an itegrated effort by all concerned, split-second timing and decisions.

The crew is made up of four cameramen (one is a relief cameraman), three video (it means "to see" in Latin) engineers, one audio engineer, one program director, one assistant program director and one announcer on the site and six video engineers, one program director, two cameramen, one audio engineer and one lighting engineer at the studio.

Three cameras are employed, with two of them mounted on the rail in the upper stands along the first base side of the playing field. The third camera is in the lower stands, at the right rear of home plate. Two of the cameras are multiple lens units and the cameramen can switch over quickly from lens to lens to obtain different views of the diamond.

The image orthicon camera chain, as each apparatus is called, consists of the camera, pickup auxiliary, control monitor, synchronizing generator, power supply and mixer and each costs approximately $30,000.

Each camera, which focuses on different action, is connected to the mobile unit outside the stadium by cables. The cameras are in operation continuously from the time the game starts until it ends.

One of the men in the telecast of the ball game is the program director seated before three monitors, one for each camera, in the mobile unit. It is he who decides, by instantaneous push-button method, which of the three action shots goes on the television screen that you see.

He is linked to both the cameras and the announcer by a communication system and he can, and does, direct both cameramen and announcer in what he wants. However, in baseball games, a "series of plays" is worked out in advance and the cameramen know exactly what to do.

The program director also communicates with the announcer and informs him what's coming.

THE ANNOUNCER, who sits behind a wire screen in the first row of the press box, highlights the game action with a running commentary. He has a seven-inch television receiver at his side and in addition to the microphone, he has telephonic communication with the mobile unit.

Commercials are worked into the program both from the field and from the studio. For a commercial from the field one of the cameras is trained on a cardboard, set up on a stand. The printed commercial is superimposed on a shot of the crowd or the playing field in a montage effect.

The crew which handles the telecast begins work on the setup early. For an afternoon game the unit is at work as early as 10:30 in the morning. For an evening game, the work of setting up the cameras and laying the cables begins at 3:30 in the afternoon.

A relay link is used between the stadium and the studio. After the reproduction comes back to the studio it is sent through relay racks and then upstairs through a link which the telephone company has installed. This link terminates on the roof of a downtown hotel. From here it is sent through another relay link to suburban Parma and there transmitted to all receiving sets.

A GOOD RANGE for telecasts of the Cleveland baseball games is 60 miles. They have been received, however, from as far away as 150 miles.

A ball game could be covered with two cameras but three are better.

Since the Cleveland games have been televised the number of sets has increased considerably from the previous 3,500 in the area. Screens vary in size from seven inches to 20 inches. The larger the screen, the farther away you have to be to get a clear picture.

Reproductions have been clearer for night games than for day games. Engineers point out this is because there are no shadows and the tubes seem to work with less amount of light.

In the Cleveland setup, over WEWS, the program director is Pat Crafton and the announcer is Van Patrick.

The Cleveland Baseball club received a reported $75,000 for the television rights.

Rafferty Is Medalist

BALTIMORE, June 17 (AP)—Babe Rafferty, greenskeeper at the Forest Park course here, won medal honors today with a two over par 75 in the qualifying round of the Maryland State Amateur Golf Tournament at Woodholme.

Second honors went to Ralph Bogart of Chevy Chase and John Deford, Jr., of Elkridge with 76's.

Arbar, French Horse, Wins Ascot Gold Cup

ASCOT, England, June 17 (AP)—Marcel Boussac's Arbar won the two and a half mile Ascot Gold Cup today. The four - year old French horse won for its owner the trophy valued at $500 and the major share of the $4,500 added purse.

Jean Nys' Bayeux II, a four-year old Belgian horse, was second with third place going to Roi De Navarre, a French bred thoroughbred running in the colors of an English owner.

The British royal family and a big crowd saw a French horse triumph for the third straight year. Arbar, four to six favorite, won by four lengths. Six lengths separated the second and third horses.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, June 17—(INS)—Hollywood can be as kind as it is tough, once in a while. Take the case of Bill Williams. Two years ago his career was in high gear at RKO. Then he suffered a back injury that kept him on the sidelines for fourteen months.

Mona Freeman

He was a pretty discouraged boy, and then came a telephone call from head-man Dore Schary a few days ago.

"Come on over, Bill," Dore said, "I've found the story I've been looking for. We're going to star you in 'The Clay Pigeon!'"

And, so, Williams leaps back into the swim a star in a thriller Sid Rogell produces about a returned G.I. who breaks up a notorious spy ring. But I like best the "story" behind the story.

Betty Hutton's "personal" at the Golden Gate Theatre in San Francisco starting June 30 is expected to blow the lid off the box office. The contract gives the Blonde Bombshell a 50 per cent cut of the gross and since this house can do $50,000 or better—you get a rough idea.

Betty wants this return fling to the stage before she settles down to movies, a sort of "limbering-up" idea. She was in retirement a long time awaiting the birth of her baby and with her particular brand of comedy she wants to warm up before a "live" audience.

Saw Betty recently and she looks wonderful.

Mona Freeman is a pet around Paramount, so they must be building up the part of the cousin in "The Heiress" in handing it to her. On the stage, the only roles that counted were the heiress and the aunt which Olivia De Havilland and Miriam Hopkins play in the movie.

The volume of her fan mail from youngsters may have surprised some people—but the value isn't lost on them. The kids are just crazy about her. It was Irene Dunne's daughter who said to her parent, "Oh, mother, why don't you dress more like Mona Freeman!"

Off the pad: Red Skelton just bought himself a $90,000 house in Bel-Air.

When "Joan of Lorraine" opens at the Laguna Playhouse, Alida Valli may be in the role Ingrid Bergman played in New York. Valli wants to do it. It is just a case of arranging movie schedules.

Doris Day's "Date Belt" will interest bobby-soxers. Seven gold lockets dangle around the belt numbered with the days of the week. Inside is a plastic disk on which she can write, and erase, the "date's" name.

Brig. Gen. Robert McClure of the War Department just wrote Sam Goldwyn about the Berlin reception of "Best Years of Our Lives." He said "Gala opening of your fine film at Scala, Berlin, got overwhelming reception. It is the first American picture after the war to be applauded by German audiences."

Off the record, Bess Truman was disappointed not to have had a better view of Los Angeles. She particularly wanted to see the Hollywood Bowl where Margaret sang last year. She also wanted to see "Pickfair" and Malibu Beach and other points of tourist interest.

The good-looking man escorting Mrs. Truman and Margaret for the only free hour they had away from official engagements was Greg Juarez. He had expected to give them the "A" tour of the town, but all the President's family managed to squeeze in was a very short visit to Mrs. Truman's cousin.

●—●—●

Hollywood in shorts: Audrey Totter says it isn't true about her and Brian Donlevy—that she has only met him once. Sorry, wrong number.

Robert Cummings is out of circulation and had to cancel added scenes for "The Accused." His kid has the measles.

Gene Raymond had his work cut out for him trying to find something "Steel" to give Jeanette MacDonald for their 11th anniversary. He came up with a stunning cut steel evening bag.

At the going away cocktail party for Joan Barton in the Ciroette Room, the waiters fore railroad caps and the walls were plastered with timetables.

Lois Andrews, also leaving town in a few days, came with George Jessel, her ex-before-the-last. Also milling around, Steve Crane with Deanie Best, Henry Willson and Isabelita, Johnny Meyer and Janet Thomas and Vera Ellen.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Ireland-Scotland Tunnel To Be Debated

BELFAST, Ireland — (AP) — The Ulster House of Commons has agreed to debate a proposal to link Scotland and Northern Ireland with a 19-mile tunnel running under the North Channel.

John W. Nixon, parliament member, estimates the cost at $400,000,000. He argues that mail, milk, butter, eggs and other freight now flown from Ulster to Scotland and England could be sent so much more cheaply by tunnel that the project would justify its cost. A North Ireland government spokesman poohpoohed the idea, however. "In this air age," he said, "I think the provision of a tunnel is a hopeless absurdity."

Muddy Argument

GRAND FORKS, N. D. — (AP) — State Senator Joseph Bridston of Grand Forks went out to the University of North Dakota here to address the student body on how to get better roads for the school. Before he could give his talk, he had to get some of the students to push his car out of a mudhole on a campus street.

The British call the poinsettia the "lobster flower."

Bamboo Substitutes For Steel Now

NEW DELHI (AP)—Indian Bamboo is said here to be an effective substitute for steel for some uses. The Forest Research Institute in Dehra Dun is conducting further research. India needs an annual minimum of 2,000,000 tons of steel. She has an overall annual deficit of 1,000,000 tons. Her need will increase with the rapid strides of industrialisation. It is intended to replace steel with bamboo for domestic purposes. Researches have so far proved that structures made of bamboo last thirty years, and are as strong as steel in the construction of roofs, posts, doors, window frames and floors of buildings.

The most significant post-war trend of the American fisheries is said by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service to be the expansion of the industry westward into regions of the Pacific formerly exploited by Japan. Research of tunas, the most valuable resource of that region is being carried on.

Poles Push Rebuilding

WARSAW, Poland (AP)—Kazimierz Rusinek, minister of labor and social welfare, says Poland had spent $240,500,000 to aid Poles in war-devastated sectors. Special attention has been given to the provinces of Lublin, Warsaw, Kielce, and Bialystok. Rusinek says more than 200,000 farmsteads were ruined by the war in these provinces.

Pays For Charity

RAWLINS, Wyo. (AP)—City councilman Sam Tully believes in keeping his campaign promises. He said last November that if elected he would contribute the $5 pay for each council session he attends to charity for boys. He's endorsed every check to Boy's Town, Nebr., St. Joseph Orphanage, Torrington, Wyo. or Shriners' Hospital here. And Tully has missed only one meeting.

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, June 17—(INS)—Hollywood can be as kind as it is tough, once in a while. Take the case of Bill Williams. Two years ago his career was in high gear at RKO. Then he suffered a back injury that kept him on the sidelines for fourteen months.

Mona Freeman

He was a pretty discouraged boy, and then came a telephone call from head-man Dore Schary a few days ago.

"Come on over, Bill," Dore said, "I've found the story I've been looking for. We're going to star you in 'The Clay Pigeon!'"

And, so, Williams leaps back into the swim a star in a thriller Sid Rogell produces about a returned G.I. who breaks up a notorious spy ring. But I like best the "story" behind the story.

Betty Hutton's "personal" at the Golden Gate Theatre in San Francisco starting June 30 is expected to blow the lid off the box office. The contract gives the Blonde Bombshell a 50 per cent cut of the gross and since this house can do $50,000 or better—you get a rough idea.

Betty wants this return fling to the stage before she settles down to movies, a sort of "limbering-up" idea. She was in retirement a long time awaiting the birth of her baby and with her particular brand of comedy she wants to warm up before a "live" audience.

Saw Betty recently and she looks wonderful.

Mona Freeman is a pet around Paramount, so they must be building up the part of the cousin in "The Heiress" in handing it to her. On the stage, the only roles that counted were the heiress and the aunt which Olivia De Havilland and Miriam Hopkins play in the movie.

The volume of her fan mail from youngsters may have surprised some people—but the value isn't lost on them. The kids are just crazy about her. It was Irene Dunne's daughter who said to her parent, "Oh, mother, why don't you dress more like Mona Freeman!"

Off the pad: Red Skelton just bought himself a $90,000 house in Bel-Air.

When "Joan of Lorraine" opens at the Laguna Playhouse, Alida Valli may be in the role Ingrid Bergman played in New York. Valli wants to do it. It is just a case of arranging movie schedules.

Doris Day's "Date Belt" will interest bobby-soxers. Seven gold lockets dangle around the belt numbered with the days of the week. Inside is a plastic disk on which she can write, and erase, the "date's" name.

Brig. Gen. Robert McClure of the War Department just wrote Sam Goldwyn about the Berlin reception of "Best Years of Our Lives." He said "Gala opening of your fine film at Scala, Berlin, got overwhelming reception. It is the first American picture after the war to be applauded by German audiences."

Off the record, Bess Truman was disappointed not to have had a better view of Los Angeles. She particularly wanted to see the Hollywood Bowl where Margaret sang last year. She also wanted to see "Pickfair" and Malibu Beach and other points of tourist interest.

The good-looking man escorting Mrs. Truman and Margaret for the only free hour they had away from official engagements was Greg Juarez. He had expected to give them the "A" tour of the town, but all the President's family managed to squeeze in was a very short visit to Mrs. Truman's cousin.

•—•—•

Hollywood in shorts: Audrey Totter says it isn't true about her and Brian Donlevy—that she has only met him once. Sorry, wrong number.

Robert Cummings is out of circulation and had to cancel added scenes for "The Accused." His kid has the measles.

Gene Raymond had his work cut out for him trying to find something "Steel" to give Jeanette MacDonald for their 11th anniversary. He came up with a stunning cut steel evening bag.

At the going away cocktail party for Joan Barton in the Ciroette Room, the waiters fore railroad caps and the walls were plastered with timetables.

Lois Andrews, also leaving town in a few days, came with George Jessel, her ex-before-the-last. Also milling around, Steve Crane with Deanie Best, Henry Willson and Isabelita, Johnny Meyer and Janet Thomas and Vera Ellen.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Ireland-Scotland Tunnel To Be Debated

BELFAST, Ireland — (AP) — The Ulster House of Commons has agreed to debate a proposal to link Scotland and Northern Ireland with a 19-mile tunnel running under the North Channel.

John W. Nixon, parliament member, estimates the cost at $400,000,000. He argues that mail, milk, butter, eggs and other freight now flown from Ulster to Scotland and England could be sent so much more cheaply by tunnel that the project would justify its cost. A North Ireland government spokesman poohpoohed the idea, however. "In this air age," he said, "I think the provision of a tunnel is a hopeless absurdity."

Muddy Argument

GRAND FORKS, N. D.—(AP)—State Senator Joseph Bridston of Grand Forks went out to the University of North Dakota here to address the student body on how to get better roads for the school. Before he could give his talk, he had to get some of the students to push his car out of a mudhole on a campus street.

The British call the poinsettia the "lobster flower."

Bamboo Substitutes For Steel Now

NEW DELHI (AP)—Indian Bamboo is said here to be an effective substitute for steel for some uses. The Forest Research Institute in Dehra Dun is conducting further research. India needs an annual minimum of 2,000,000 tons of steel. She has an overall annual deficit of 1,000,000 tons. Her need will increase with the rapid strides of industrialisation. It is intended to replace steel with bamboo for domestic purposes. Researches have so far proved that structures made of bamboo last thirty years, and are as strong as steel in the construction of roofs, posts, doors, window frames and floors of buildings.

The most significant post-war trend of the American fisheries is said by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service to be the expansion of the industry westward into regions of the Pacific formerly exploited by Japan. Research of tunas, the most valuable resource of that region is being carried on.

Poles Push Rebuilding

WARSAW, Poland (AP)—Kazimierz Rusinek, minister of labor and social welfare, says Poland had spent $240,500,000 to aid Poles in war-devastated sectors. Special attention has been given to the provinces of Lublin, Warsaw, Kielce, and Bialystok. Rusinek says more than 200,000 farmsteads were ruined by the war in these provinces.

Pays For Charity

RAWLINS, Wyo. (AP)—City councilman Sam Tully believes in keeping his campaign promises. He said last November that if elected he would contribute the $5 pay for each council session he attends to charity for boys. He's endorsed every check to Boy's Town, Nebr., St. Joseph Orphanage, Torrington, Wyo. or Shriners' Hospital here. And Tully has missed only one meeting.

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

Notes On the Convention

On its "Living-1948" series this Sunday (4:35 p. m. E. D. T. June 20), the National Broadcasting Company will offer a program called "Notebook for Convention Listeners" and it might be advisable for all of us to latch on to it in preparation for the great event which takes place in Philadelphia next week.

John Crosby

Unless you know a lot more about national conventions than I do, this program will make a very handy primer for the Republican National Convention which will be more thoroughly covered by radio and television than any other in history. The "notebook" opens with five questions. How come political conventions? How clean is their history? What goes on there? Do they really reflect the will of the people? Do they permit us to select our best leaders? The first three questions are answered fairly well. The last two are sidestepped.

The program traces the history of our various systems of nominating Presidential candidates—first by the electoral college as provided in the constitution, later by caucus, and still later, briefly, by State Legislatures. The first convention was held in 1830 by the Anti-Masonic Party (which nominated a Mason). The broadcast has some illuminating things to say about the first "dark horse" (James K. Polk in 1844), some of the shenanigans used by Lincoln's supporters to win the Republican nomination, the phrase "the smoke filled room" and where it came from, a bit of Bryan's "cross of gold" speech and actual recordings of the "We Want Willkie" chant which stampeded the 1940 Republican convention.

There are also a few cynical observations on how Philadelphia got the nod from both major parties this year, how delegates are chosen, and what can be expected in a keynote address. Altogether it's a rather thorough little curtain-raiser.

The actual convention coverage by radio and television will be appallingly complete and far too excessive to go into in detail here. William Brooks, vice-president of NBC who is in charge of that network's coverage, boasts with considerable reason that NBC will report every detail, "including what the candidates had for breakfast." And, of course, in addition to the details about the candidates' breakfasts, there will be commentaries about the effect of the breakfasts on the candidates' digestions and political fortunes from a hundred lungs.

Just to give you some idea, there will be almost 700 newsmen, commentators, technicians, editors and executives of the four radio networks and independent radio and television stations on hand to broadcast the convention. Both television and radio will be pooled affairs but each network will have its own facilities too. All networks will have reporters—and some of their best reporters — wandering around the floor, interviewing candidates, floor managers, and heads of delegations. Mutual will have walkie-talkies on the convention floor. Virtually every major news program, including NBC's foreign broadcasts, will originate in Philadelphia.

This isn't the first convention to be televised but it'll be the first one that more than a handful will be able to see. The first was the Republican National Convention of 1940 whe nthe Philadelphia-New York co-axial cable was first used. This year, NBC hopefully predicts that 10,000,000 persons will see the show by television. NBC alone plans sixty hours of specia lconvention television programs in the five-day period (which may, of course, go into extra days if there is a deadlock).

Teamed up with "Life" Magazine, NBC will present both lives and filmed features to its seven-city East Coast network and will fly films to its West Coast and other affiliates which are out of reach of the coaxial cable. New York will also get its fill of the convention by television via CBS, Dumont, and WPIX, which went on the air last Tuesday in the nick of time.

• • •

With four cameras in Convention Hall, the television audience may well get an earful and eyeful of the next Republican candidates before the delegates know about it, since every important politico will be dogged relentlessly both by cameras and reporters throughout the proceedings.

RADIO IN REVIEW

Notes On the Convention

On its "Living-1948" series this Sunday (4:35 p. m. E. D. T. June 20), the National Broadcasting Company will offer a program called "Notebook for Convention Listeners" and it might be advisable for all of us to latch on to it in preparation for the great event which takes place in Philadelphia next week.

John Crosby

Unless you know a lot more about national conventions than I do, this program will make a very handy primer for the Republican National Convention which will be more thoroughly covered by radio and television than any other in history. The "notebook" opens with five questions. How come political conventions? How clean is their history? What goes on there? Do they really reflect the will of the people? Do they permit us to select our best leaders? The first three questions are answered fairly well. The last two are sidestepped.

The program traces the history of our various systems of nominating Presidential candidates—first by the electoral college as provided in the constitution, later by caucus, and still later, briefly, by State Legislatures. The first convention was held in 1830 by the Anti-Masonic Party (which nominated a Mason). The broadcast has some illuminating things to say about the first "dark horse" (James K. Polk in 1844), some of the shenanigans used by Lincoln's supporters to win the Republican nomination, the phrase "the smoke filled room" and where it came from, a bit of Bryan's "cross of gold" speech and actual recordings of the "We Want Willkie" chant which stampeded the 1940 Republican convention.

There are also a few cynical observations on how Philadelphia got the nod from both major parties this year, how delegates are chosen, and what can be expected in a keynote address. Altogether it's a rather thorough little curtain-raiser.

The actual convention coverage by radio and television will be appallingly complete and far too excessive to go into in detail here. William Brooks, vice-president of NBC who is in charge of that network's coverage, boasts with considerable reason that NBC will report every detail, "including what the candidates had for breakfast." And, of course, in addition to the details about the candidates' breakfasts, there will be commentaries about the effect of the breakfasts on the candidates' digestions and political fortunes from a hundred lungs.

Just to give you some idea, there will be almost 700 newsmen, commentators, technicians, editors and executives of the four radio networks and independent radio and television stations on hand to broadcast the convention. Both television and radio will be pooled affairs but each network will have its own facilities too. All networks will have reporters—and some of their best reporters — wandering around the floor, interviewing candidates, floor managers, and heads of delegations. Mutual will have walkie-talkies on the convention floor. Virtually every major news program, including NBC's foreign broadcasts, will originate in Philadelphia.

This isn't the first convention to be televised but it'll be the first one that more than a handful will be able to see. The first was the Republican National Convention of 1940 whe nthe Philadelphia-New York co-axial cable was first used. This year, NBC hopefully predicts that 10,000,000 persons will see the show by television. NBC alone plans sixty hours of specia lconvention television programs in the five-day period (which may, of course, go into extra days if there is a deadlock).

Teamed up with "Life" Magazine, NBC will present both lives and filmed features to its seven-city East Coast network and will fly films to its West Coast and other affiliates which are out of reach of the coaxial cable. New York will also get its fill of the convention by television via CBS, Dumont, and WPIX, which went on the air last Tuesday in the nick of time.

• • •

With four cameras in Convention Hall, the television audience may well get an earful and eyeful of the next Republican candidates before the delegates know about it, since every important politico will be dogged relentlessly both by cameras and reporters throughout the proceedings.

"I can't understand why this parrot we got with a Times-News Want Ad doesn't talk—it couldn't be its ENVIRONMENT"

Card of Thanks

We take this means of expressing our sincere appreciation to our friends, relatives and neighbors, who were so kind to us in our recent bereavement in the death of our beloved brother, William Rodda. We also wish to thank those who sent floral tributes and loaned cars for the funeral.

His Brother and Sisters.

In Memoriam

In memory of our sister and daughter, Pearl E. Galliher, who died June 18, 1947.

Till memory fades and life departs,
You'll live forever in our hearts;
Time takes away the edge of grief.
But memory turns back every leaf.
Sadly missed by Dad, Jennie & Alice Grandsons, Donald and Ronald.

STRAW HAT THEATER CIRCUIT FOOTLIGHTS LURE VACATIONING HOLLYWOOD FILM FOLK

By GEORGE TRAMMELL
Central Press Corrospondent

HOLLYWOOD—Summer vacation has rolled around and movie stars, just as you and I, are getting ready to spend their well-earned time off. Many of them still are trying to make up their minds.

At least 20 of Hollywood's leading lights will be taking "postmen's holidays." Instead of relaxing at some swank summer resort and taking life easy—or easier—they will be keeping their wits and memories sharp through the hot months—by acting!

These ranking film celebrities are starting to perform in the bigger cities of the United States and England. Before the end of the summer other actors and actresses will have taken off on the road to tour the country. For the most part the last will be making short stands in smaller towns and hamlets, appearing before some people who never have seen a stage play.

Thomas Mitchell, one of movietown's finer character actors, today explained:

"When an actor has a chance to go on the road he certainly should do so. Not only for himself but for the smaller audiences. If we modern-day actors don't go on the road today there might not BE one tomorrow."

Ever since last Christmas, Mitchell has been personally scouting for a suitable play to do either on New York's Broadway or on the road, out in the so-called "toolies."

He recently wound up chores in The Dark Circle, in which he portrays a district attorney. Prior to that movie Mitchell finished a long-starring role in the New York play, An Inspector Calls.

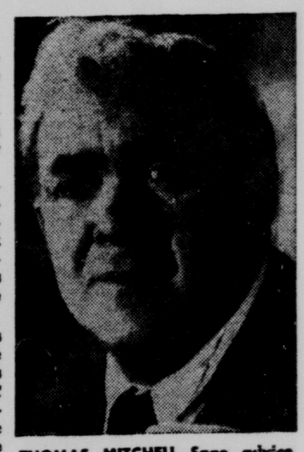
• • •

RUTH HUSSEY, who recently completed her role in The Great Gatsby with Alan Ladd, Macdonald Carey, Betty Field and Barry Sullivan, had a handful of offers to appear in any play of her choice.

She finally decided to hie to Dennis Cape Cod theater to do State of the Union in late June and run through the rest of the summer.

Betty Field also decided to go back to the Cape Cod theater. Sullivan will fit in two weeks late this summer between movies to appear on the stage of the little theater at Laguna Beach, Cal.

Mary Hatcher, who recently finished a starring role in Isn't It Romantic? after her initial success in Variety Girl, will be another of Hollywood's better performers who will appear at the Laguna Beach theater.



THOMAS MITCHELL—Sage advice.

WANDA HENDRIX—Tries footlights.

JOHN LUND—Stage guest star now.

The Laguna showhouse, in fact, will lure a whole host of Hollywood biggies before autumn rolls around.

A new star, pretty Wanda Hendrix, has agreed to do two weeks of emoting at the same Laguna Beach theater some time this summer. So will Diana Lynn, the piano playing star. She will team up with Guy Madison.

Bob Hope, before he wound up his stint in the filmization of Damon Runyon's colorful character, Sorrowful Jones, was asked by New York producer Brock Pemberton to appear in the hit play Harvey. Hope told us the other day he plans to do it before he sails to England for a further vacation.

• • •

ILKA CHASE, who abdicated the cast of There Goes the Bride—which still is on tour—will rejoin that stage company in late July when she finishes her role in The Tatlock Millions in Hollywood.

Wendell Corey, one of the most "solid" actors in the theatrical dodge, is currently working with Academy Award winner Loretta Young and Robert Cummings in the Hal Wallis production of The Accused.

However, English producer Alfred Liagre is beckoning for him to haul himself to London once more. Corey did Voice of the Turtle with Margaret Sullivan for Laigre in London last summer.

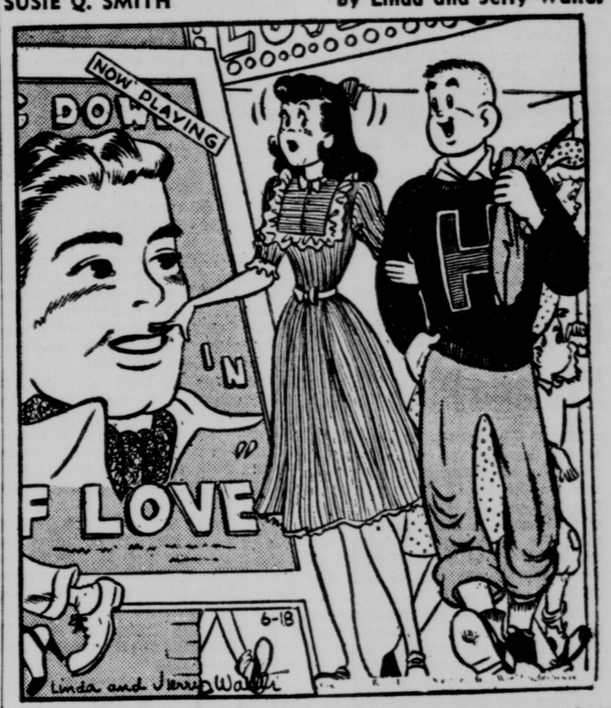
Lucille Ball, who portrays Bob Hope's leading lady in Sorrowful Jones, told us she wants to return to the road this summer in the successful play, Born Yesterday. Last year at this time Lucille was starring in Dream Girl in Los Angeles. Betty Hutton starred in the film version. You'll see it this winter at your favorite theater.

Comedian Billy De Wolfe is considering a bid from the famous Palladium in London to do a variety show. He is trying to arrange his summer program so he can fit in the British appearance.

George Reeves, whom you will see with Barry Fitzgerald, Joan Caulfield and Veronica Lake in The Sainted Sisters, has formed a group called Repertory, Inc. His guest stars this summer at the High school at Balboa Island, Cal., will include Henry O'Neil, John Lund and Monty Wooley, to name a few.

So you see, there are other things for film actors to do between pictures in addition to knitting and playing polo. For many of them the summer vacation simply turns into a continuance of their everyday business.

SUSIE Q. SMITH — By Linda and Jerry Walter



"His hair is natural, all right . . . except for the permanent and color!"

World Needs More Production, Distribution

While rice production has increased over last year, the world rice situation continues to be acute, according to the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations. Not only is production far below need, but many factors are making it increasingly difficult for deficit countries to avail themselves of the limited supplies. Some of these countries face the difficulty of lack of sufficient foreign exchange. Some exporting countries, too, are now asking payment in hard currency or, alternatively, in the form of other cereals. If the people of the world who rely on rice as a basic food are to have the relief they need, it is clear that many countries, working singly and in cooperation with others, must make a tremendous effort to improve production and distribution.

STRAW HAT THEATER CIRCUIT FOOTLIGHTS LURE VACATIONING HOLLYWOOD FILM FOLK

Central Press Corrospondent

HOLLYWOOD—Summer vacation has rolled around and movie stars, just as you and I, are getting ready to spend their well-earned time off. Many of them still are trying to make up their minds.

At least 20 of Hollywood's leading lights will be taking "postmen's holidays." Instead of relaxing at some swank summer resort and taking life easy—or easier—they will be keeping their wits and memories sharp through the hot months—by acting!

These ranking film celebrities are starting to perform in the bigger cities of the United States and England. Before the end of the summer other actors and actresses will have taken off on the road to tour the country. For the most part the last will be making short stands in smaller towns and hamlets, appearing before some people who never have seen a stage play.

Thomas Mitchell, one of movietown's finer character actors, today explained:

"When an actor has a chance to go on the road he certainly should do so. Not only for himself but for the smaller audiences. If we modern-day actors don't go on the road today there might not BE one tomorrow."

Ever since last Christmas, Mitchell has been personally scouting for a suitable play to do either on New York's Broadway or on the road, out in the so-called "toolies."

He recently wound up chores in The Dark Circle, in which he portrays a district attorney. Prior to that movie Mitchell finished a long-starring role in the New York play, An Inspector Calls.

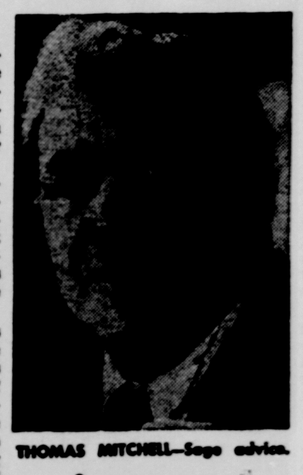
• • •

RUTH HUSSEY, who recently completed her role in The Great Gatsby with Alan Ladd, Macdonald Carey, Betty Field and Barry Sullivan, had a handful of offers to appear in any play of her choice.

She finally decided to hie to Dennis Cape Cod theater to do State of the Union in late June and run through the rest of the summer.

Betty Field also decided to go back to the Cape Cod theater. Sullivan will fit in two weeks late this summer between movies to appear on the stage of the little theater at Laguna Beach, Cal.

Mary Hatcher, who recently finished a starring role in Isn't It Romantic? after her initial success in Variety Girl, will be another of Hollywood's better performers who will appear at the Laguna Beach theater.



THOMAS MITCHELL—Sage advice.

WANDA HENDRIX—Tries footlights.

JOHN LUND—Stage guest star now.

The Laguna showhouse, in fact, will lure a whole host of Hollywood biggies before autumn rolls around.

A new star, pretty Wanda Hendrix, has agreed to do two weeks of emoting at the same Laguna Beach theater some time this summer. So will Diana Lynn, the piano playing star. She will team up with Guy Madison.

Bob Hope, before he wound up his stint in the filmization of Damon Runyon's colorful character, Sorrowful Jones, was asked by New York producer Brock Pemberton to appear in the hit play Harvey. Hope told us the other day he plans to do it before he sails to England for a further vacation.

• • •

ILKA CHASE, who abdicated the cast of There Goes the Bride—which still is on tour—will rejoin that stage company in late July when she finishes her role in The Tatlock Millions in Hollywood.

Wendell Corey, one of the most "solid" actors in the theatrical dodge, is currently working with Academy Award winner Loretta Young and Robert Cummings in the Hal Wallis production of The Accused.

However, English producer Alfred Liagre is beckoning for him to haul himself to London once more. Corey did Voice of the Turtle with Margaret Sullivan for Laigre in London last summer.

Lucille Ball, who portrays Bob Hope's leading lady in Sorrowful Jones, told us she wants to return to the road this summer in the successful play, Born Yesterday. Last year at this time Lucille was starring in Dream Girl in Los Angeles. Betty Hutton starred in the film version. You'll see it this winter at your favorite theater.

Comedian Billy De Wolfe is considering a bid from the famous Palladium in London to do a variety show. He is trying to arrange his summer program so he can fit in the British appearance.

George Reeves, whom you will see with Barry Fitzgerald, Joan Caulfield and Veronica Lake in The Sainted Sisters, has formed a group called Repertory, Inc. His guest stars this summer at the High school at Balboa Island, Cal., will include Henry O'Neil, John Lund and Monty Wooley, to name a few.

So you see, there are other things for film actors to do between pictures in addition to knitting and playing polo. For many of them the summer vacation simply turns into a continuance of their everyday business.

World Needs More Production, Distribution

While rice production has increased over last year, the world rice situation continues to be acute, according to the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations. Not only is production far below need, but many factors are making it increasingly difficult for deficit countries to avail themselves of the limited supplies. Some of these countries face the difficulty of lack of sufficient foreign exchange. Some exporting countries, too, are now asking payment in hard currency or, alternatively, in the form of other cereals. If the people of the world who rely on rice as a basic food are to have the relief they need, it is clear that many countries, working singly and in cooperation with others, must make a tremendous effort to improve production and distribution.

Textile Workers Drop Plans For Vote Next Week

Officials Say Action Taken "Reluctantly"

Officials of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, announced yesterday the union is "reluctantly abandoning" plans for a union security election at the Celanese plant next week.

The move is prompted by the insistence of the company that the legality of such an election in Maryland be determined by the National Labor Relations Board before such a poll is held at the Amcelle plant.

The union announcement by Playford Aldridge, president of the local, follows:

"The union is reluctantly abandoning its plans for holding the union security election at the Celanese plant on June 23, 24 and 25 as originally agreed to by representatives of the Celanese Corporation, Local 1874 and the National Labor Relations Board.

"Although the Celanese Corporation has made no further statement, nor communicated with us, since releasing a copy of its telegram of Tuesday withdrawing from its consent agreement, we have been advised that the National Labor Relations Board regional director answered the Company yesterday.

Aldridge continued:

"We are deeply concerned at the confusing situation which has been created and we wish to assure our members and the general public that Local 1874 is making every possible effort to have the matter clarified."

Firm Asks Opinion

A company spokesman last night explained the firm feels the legality of the whole matter should be determined before such a ballot is taken.

"We feel that the question of law involved in the election should be established before we proceed any further in the matter," he said, adding the firm cannot facilitate an election which is not legal in Maryland.

The company last week gave its approval to a consent election on the union shop question but later withdrew its signature in view of a recent board decision.

The National Labor Relations Board has been asked to rule on the question in the light of the "Greyhound decision." Ross M. Madden, Baltimore, Fifth regional director of the NLRB, expressed an opinion earlier this week that Maryland law does not make unionshop agreements contrary to public policy.

Progress Reported

Aldridge said the negotiating committee reported at special membership meetings held Wednesday night and yesterday morning that "considerable" progress has been made on specific contractual issues with the exception of monetary issues.

A contract meeting held earlier this week adjourned without a definite date for another meeting, but it was understood another session might be held this weekend or early next week.

TALENTED-- Miss Eileen Brinker, 517 Oldtown Road, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Brinker, talented and vivacious pianist, dancer and vocalist, is expected to provide considerable competition in the "Miss Cumberland" contest Monday at 8:30 p. m. at Fort Hill High School auditorium, when a dozen local girls will compete for the title. Miss Brinker, employed at Rosenbaum's, plans to enter Frostburg State Teachers' College this fall for a course in English and History. She is a graduate of St. Mary's High School, class of 1947, where she completed the academic and commercial courses. Last year she attended Ursuline Academy for an additional year in commercial training. Miss Brinker is five feet eight inches tall, weighs 130 pounds, has ash blonde hair and gray-green eyes.

10 Event Program Scheduled For Air Show Here Sunday

Pylon Race Will Begin At 1:45 P. M.

Ten seperate events will be presented during the three and three-quarter hour air show scheduled to be presented at the Municipal Airport Sunday beginning at 1:45 p. m., according to a program released last night.

A 60-mile pylon race over a 20-mile course that extends from the field to Dan's Rock and into West Virginia, will open the show with the second event an exhibition of aerobatics by Miles Sparrowhawk, scheduled to follow at 2:45 p. m.

A parachute jump by Dick Hockman is set for 3 p. m. and at 3:20 p .m. the "quickest" takeoff contest will be held. The 104th Fighter Squadron of the Maryland National Guard will give a flying exhibition at 3:30 p. m. and Bernie Miltenberger will present a novelty act at 4 p. m.

The balloon bursting contest is scheduled for 4:10 p. m., and, according to rules of the contest, each contestant will be permitted three passes at the balloon to be released from the center of the field.

The spot bombing contest will get underway at 4:30 p. m. and like the balloon contest each contestant will be permitted three passes at the target, which will be a three-quarter ton personnel carrier. The contestants will use one pound flour sacks.

The show will be concluded with formation flying by P-80 Jet fighters from the Fourth Fighter Group, which will fly here from Andrews Air Field, Washington, D. C.

The GCS along with the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce, Exchange Club and Mountain Air Service is sponsoring the show.

The squadron members will operate walkie-talkies from jeeps at the field and direct civilian and military crafts in landing and parking. Paul Adams and William Golladay will operate the jeeps.

John Pfiffer and Harry Johnson will act as spotters at the Johnson Farm pylon and Glenn Shaffer and Paul Allen will work in the same capacity at the Dan's Rock pylon.

The spotters will check all planes during the race to see that correct turns are made.

Other members of the GCS will report to the airport Sunday morning for additional assignments.

Local Oil Men Call For Road Fund Protection

R. B. MacBeth Is Re-Elected Chairman

R. B. MacBeth was re-elected chairman of the local committee of the Maryland Petroleum Industries Committee last night at a meeting where members adopted a six-point program calling for protection of road funds by constitutional amendment.

All oil men realize the obligation to their motorist customers to assist them in every way possible to get a "square deal," J. P. Lanigan, executive secretary of the group and principal speaker at the meeting, declared.

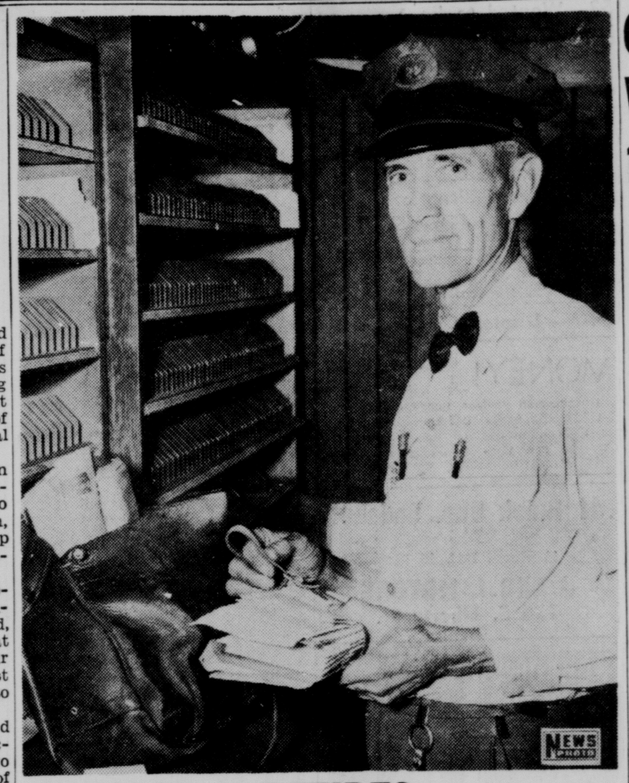
"We recognize the fact that automotive taxes are necessary for highway construction," Lanigan said, adding, "We believe, however, that these taxes should be held at a fair and equitable level, and should not exceed the ability of motorists to pay."

The six-point resolution passed by local members calls for protection of road funds, pay-as-you-go highway finance, fair taxation of motor fuel, preservation of private enterprise on the highways, promotion of highway safety and repeal of federal excise taxes on gasoline and lubrication oils.

Lanigan declared Maryland motorists are paying special highway taxes at record rates and in record amounts. Current revenues, he said, are exceeding the most optimistic estimates, and "will certainly forestall the necessity for huge bond issues for highways."

The real problem confronting the State Roads Commission, Lanigan told local oil men, is not the availability of tax revenue, but one of shortage of labor, material, and equipment, plus inflated costs. For these reasons, "We must be patient" in the state government's efforts to rebuild the highway system, Lanigan asserted.

G. L. Humphreys was elected vice chairman of the local committee and E. J. Wagner was elected secretary.



NUMBER 22 RETIRES-- On Wednesday afternoon, June 30, Lawrence E. Crabtree, 63, will carry his last case of mail for Uncle Sam and the Cumberland Postoffice. Crabtree, who can be identified by his number, which is 22 on his cap, began serving local mail patrons on July 1, 1908, as a substitute carrier. He plans to take things easy and "fix things up" around his Woodlawn Terrace home.

"Most-Near Perfect" Mailman To Retire After Serving 40 Years

Lawrence E. Crabtree To Retire June 30

"I'm just going to take it easy and if by chance I strike gold sometime I'll certainly let you know," said Lawrence E. Crabtree, 416 Woodlawn Terrace, who is retiring from carrying Uncle Sam's mail after 40 years of service.

Crabtree will be completing his service with the government on June 30. He is 63 years old, started carrying mail when he was 23 and has been doing it constantly except for a brief period during World War II when he served with the Civil Service Board.

As far as humorous incidents during his travels, Crabtree says he doesn't remember many, but he has been bitten by a few dogs, never very seriously. He has worn out lots of shoes during his tenure, but can't say just how many.

He can remember when he first took the civil service examination in the fall of 1907, and went to work as a substitute carrier on July 1, 1908, at 30 cents a hour. He was later given a steady job, paying $600 a year, which "wasn't too bad at that time." At the present, carriers such as Crabtree draw approximately $3,100 according to length of service.

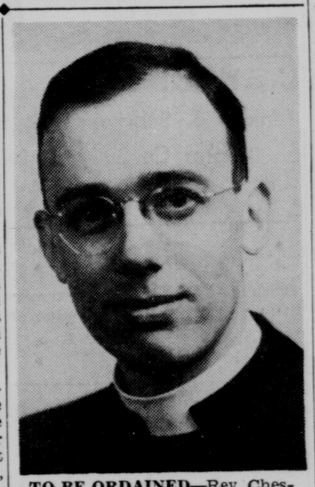
William Pearre was the postmaster when Crabtree was appointed carrier. He has served under five others and believes they all have been "fine fellows."

His fellow workers who crowd around after the day's work, call Crabtree "the most-near perfect carrier" they know. He never has a harsh word for anybody and does his work willingly, even when the big Christmas rush has them all going around in circles.

A member of St. Luke's Lutheran Church, the genial carrier has a wife and three daughters, two of whom, Edith and Bessie reside at home, and Mrs. Marie Diehl, also of Cumberland.

"Don't know why I'm retiring," Crabtree says, "except that I have lots of work to do around the house, which I have been putting off and I've got to get that done. From then on, I'm taking it easy.

"By the way," he continued, "my father, William M. Crabtree is still active, and we expect to get together more often."



TO BE ORDAINED—Rev. Chesley V. Daniel, vicar of St. Philip's Chapel and curate of Emmanuel Episcopal Church, will be ordained by Rt. Rev. Noble C. Powell, bishop of Maryland, at a service planned this morning at 11 o'clock in Emmanuel Church. The impressive ceremony will be the first of its kind held in Western Maryland for over a quarter of a century.

Goodyear Tire Workers Accept 11 Cent Boost

Agreement May Set Kelly Wage Pattern

CLEVELAND, June 17 (AP)—Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company and the United Rubber Workers (CIO) today announced an agreement on a wage increase of 11 cents an hour for 28,000 Goodyear workers.

This followed the pattern set five days ago for employes of Firestone Tire & Rubber Company.

The increase is retroactive to last Monday, after supplemental agreements on a new contract are reached during negotiations for individual plants.

In a vote at the Akron plant of B. F. Goodrich Company yesterday, members of the union overwhelmingly favored giving union officials authority to call a strike to enforce demands for wage increases. Negotiations will be resumed here Tuesday, however.

Negotiations currently are being conducted with the other member of the industry's "Big Four."

The Goodyear agreement was announced by union president L. S. Buckmaster and F. W. Climer, vice president in charge of industrial relations.

Wage boosts accepted by unions in the "Big Four" are expected to help set the pattern for a wage increase requested by Local 26, United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic Workers of America, CIO, at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant here.

The Kelly local set the stage for a wage boost February 11 when it notified the firm that it wished to reopen wage talks under the reopening clause in its contract.

The local in April made formal application for the standard 30 cent wage increase asked throughout the industry.

A company spokesman said the union began contract negotiations shortly after the wage issue was introduced and has been busy on the contract ever since.

The company and union will resume negotiations on the contract this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Legion Post 13 Plans Annual Election July 12

Will Nominate Candidates Tuesday

Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, will nominate officers at the next regular meeting Tuesday, June 22, at 8 p. m. at the post home, Thomas R. "Pat" Farrell, commander, announced yesterday.

Delegates and alternates to the State Department convention at Ocean City September 8 to 12, inclusive, also will be nominated.

The regular annual election will be held Monday, July 12, from 1 to 9 p. m. at the post home by written and secret ballot.

Farrell said he has appointed a nominating committee including Humphrey E. Johnston, chairman, John R. Kelly, Sr., co-chairman, and Raymond J. Ansbach. The duty of this committee is to receive names of members who desire to become candidates for offices, in order that a complete report can be made at the nomination meeting.

The post by-laws also permit nominations to be made from the floor at the June 22 meeting. Commander Farrell said any members desiring to be delegates or alternates at the state convention should also make this fact known to the nominating committee.

The results of the annual election will be announced and posted at the regular meeting July 13. Annual reports of the finance officer, committees and committee chairmen will be made at that meeting.

Farrell said luncheons will be served following the nomination and annual meetings.

Sheriff Locates Runaway Girl At Westernport

Missing from her home at Chestnut Grove, near Swanton in Garrett County, since Sunday afternoon, Freda May Virginia Tasker, 15, was taken into custody yesterday shortly before noon at Westernport by Sheriff Edward Muir and Deputy Sheriff William Chappel.

The young Bruce High School girl told authorities she had run away from home because her "step-father required her to work like a horse in the woods" and she declared she would rather go anywhere but back home.

"The home I live in is like a dog house," she said. "We have four rooms but my mother, step-father and I live in two rooms because the others are not fit to live in."

The girl said her father, Wilbur Tasker, is working near Swanton cutting pulp wood and requires her to help "snake trees out of the woods, trim them and use a crosscut saw, cutting the timber into pulp wood." She exhibited her hands, showing them rough and blistered, like those of a man or boy accustomed to heavy labor.

Authorities explained to her that she should not run away from home because she is still under the age of responsibility. But she said, "I'd rather be any place else. Please don't send me back there."

Freda May told Sheriff Muir she walked from her home near Swanton to Westernport, where she stayed all night Sunday. On Monday, she said, she walked to Lonaconing, where she hoped to find an aunt whom she thinks lives there.

Yesterday, she was taken to Westernport by a young man whom she said she had met at the firemen's convention in Bloomington, when she went to the carnival there last week.

She was found by Sheriff Muir in front of the bus station at Westernport waiting for a Cumberland-bound bus.

Freda May said she heard "they were hiring girls for the summer at Memorial Hospital" and wanted to come here to get a job. Her ambition, she declared, is to finish high school and go into a nurses training school.

Her step-father telephoned the sheriff's office late last night and said he was coming here to return the child home.

Edwards Named New Commander

Lt. Comdr. Edwin Edwards, Jr., presently employed as editor of the Bedford Inquirer, a weekly newspaper, Bedford, Pa., has been appointed commanding officer of the Cumberland Naval Reserve, it was announced yesterday by Lt. Cmdr. Walton N. Hedrick, organizing officer of the local unit.

Cmdr. Edwards went on active duty with the Navy in September 1941, later attending Midshipmen School and being graduated in January, 1942. He was commanding officer of the USS St. Augustine and then was appointed navigator for the USS Clermont. He was an instructor in navigation and seamanship for the Navy program at Cornell University, and began his inactive status in September, 1946.

Edwards replaced Lt. Cmdr. Charles R. Wherritt who left the Cumberland area to accept employment in the State of Washington with the Richland Atomic Energy Commission.

Auxiliary Police Elect Harrison

Other officers elected are Harold Armbruster, president; F. E. Carder, vice president; Marshall C. Twigg, secretary; Glen K. Watson, treasurer. Trustees elected are Graydon S. Dunlap, James Sills and E. J. Keyser.

An entertainment committee was appointed with Sgt. John Newhouse being named chairman. Members assisting him are Edward Lease, Frederick C. "Buck" Dreyer, Joseph Grimm and Edward Keyser.

A by-laws committee was named with Edwin Lilya, John Newhouse and Edward Keyser composing the group who will meet and make plans for new by-laws and constitution.

City Police Chief R. Emmett Flynn was appointed publicity chairman.

Members of the Auxiliary volunteered to assist with work at the Cumberland Airport Sunday, when the annual air show will be held. Members who have completed a first aid course wil be on hand to assist in any way possible.

Flames Damage Eckhart Home

Flames caused by a short circuit last night caused minor damage to the roof of a 12-room stone residence near the bottom of Barn Hill on Route 40 in Eckhart.

The building, about 100 years old, was originally the home of the late Joseph Thomas, foreman of the Eckhart Mine, and is known as the "old Thomas home."

Firemen of the Frostburg and Clarysville departments reported the blaze apparently started in the attic, and burned through the roof at one point. Damage has not been estimated.

The fire, which was extinguished in half an hour, attracted hundreds of motorists driving along Route 40.

The building, owned by the Consolidated Fuel Company, is occupied by the families of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Edwards and Mr. and Mrs. Edward McKenzie.

Due to the short circuit, all lights in the two-story structure went out about 10:15. The McKenzies, who reside on the second floor, summoned firemen when they smelled smoke shortly after that time.

Both families carried out their clothing when the blaze was discovered.

Mayor To Study "Toledo Plan"

Mayor Thomas S. Post said yesterday he has not yet received a copy of a resolution passed Wednesday by the Board of Directors of the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce, recommending that a plan for settlement of labor disputes be adopted in Cumberland under the sponsorship of city officials.

The Jaycee board recommended that the so-called "Toledo Plan," under which an impartial board of representative citizens would be established to hear both sides of labor disputes and offer suggestions, or a similar plan be adopted.

Mayor Post said when the resolution is submitted to the Mayor and Council he will make a thorough study of the Toledo Plan, which has been operated successfully in a number of major cities.

Although he declined comment on the Jaycee proposal pending further study of the plan, the mayor said "I am sure there will be some results from it."

The Weather

The weatherman tried to make the weather a little more seasonable yesterday and boosted temperatures seven degrees over Wednesday's maximum to reach a high of 78. After sundown, however, mercury started to slide and at 10 p. m. registered 59. Minimum temperature yesterday was 47 with 51 reported at 8 a. m. There was no rainfall. The forecast calls for increasing cloudiness but slightly warmer today.

Playleaders To Discuss Summer Programs

Programs for the 13 city playgrounds will be discussed tonight at a meeting of the playleaders at City Hall, according to Mrs. Harry S. Anderson, city playground supervisor.

Last night's training session was devoted to a demonstration of arts and crafts work by Mrs. Seth Bowen, a trained instructor in that field who is active in Scout work. Mrs. Bowen conducts similar classes for Bible School students here.

The city playgrounds will open Monday for the summer season.

Several members of the City Playground Associations attended last night's meeting as observers in lieu of holding their own regularly scheduled meeting, because they lacked a quorum.

Mrs. Vivian Turley, president of the group, said the next meeting of the City Playground Associations will be held Thursday, July 1.

Smith Renamed To Local Chamber Of Commerce Post

Harold W. Smith, who has served as secretary of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce for the past 13 years, was reappointed for a year by the Board of Directors with the title of manager.

James R. Kendall, who came here recently as assistant secretary, was named assistant manager for the same period and Mrs. John L. Baggett was reappointed office secretary.

The change in titles for the staff, Smith said, conforms with common practice in Chambers of Commerce in recent years.

Plans were laid for a panel discussion on problems vital to the community at the annual meeting of the Chamber July 27.

The membership activities committee will meet next Friday at 12:45 p. m. in the Chamber's offices to map final plans for the meeting.

Increased industrial activity and improvements in traffic and parking have been suggested by members for the panel discussion.

The first report of the Membership committee, which is engaged in a campaign to increase the membership of the organization, will be made at a meeting today at 12:45 p. m.

Local organizations, the group was told, are favoring the establishment of an Appeals Review Board. Five of the 21 organizations asked to comment on the move have all favored the plan and officials of others, which have not met to act on the matter, have taken a similar stand.

The nominating committee was named at last night's meeting.

Hertz Describes Celanese Research In Developing Synthetic Materials

The Celanese industry is growing through its research in synthetic materials, D. B. Hertz, New York, assistant chief of the engineering research and development department of the Celanese Corporation of America, said yesterday.

Hertz was guest speaker at the luncheon meeting of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club, held at Central YMCA. He was introduced by Herbert Platt, superintendent of quality control at the Amcelle plant here.

Tracing the history of the development of synthetic materials, Hertz said as early as the 17th and 18th centuries, scientists foresaw such development.

About a century ago it was discovered that cellulose could be modified to produce cellulose nitrate, the basis for the future cellulose acetate.

The plastic substance known as celluloid was developed from cellulose nitrate about 20 years later, and in 1871 the Celluloid Corporation, the first plastics company in the world, was founded.

The corporation, Hertz said, is now the plastic manufacturing branch of the Celanese Corporation.

He described the processes of manufacturing cellulose acetate continuous filaments and staple yarn, pointing out in conclusion that from one raw material developed only a century ago, many materials are being developed through research to make beautiful fabrics and plastics for numerous modern uses.

Harry N. Iles, chairman of the interclub relations committee, announced plans for Cumberland members to attend a meeting of the Westminster club next Tuesday evening to present the Ninth Kiwanis Division's "traveling gavel" to that club

Welfare Board To Cut 24 Families Including 70 Children From Relief

The Allegany County Welfare Board has been instructed to remove 24 families including about 70 children from public relief rolls for the next three months at least due to a shortage of funds, Mrs. Elinor M. Westerfeld, executive secretary, said last night.

Five persons must also be removed from the old age assistance roster, she said.

There is no change in the county's appropriation for general public assistance of aid to foster homes for children, Mrs. Westerfeld explained, and only the old age pension and aid to dependent children groups are immediately affected.

Some of the reduction in the old age pension case load may result from the transfer of retired coal miners to the United Mine Workers of America pension fund, Mrs. Westerfeld explained. Work has already started on this idea and some old-age assistance pensioners have already been transferred. Mrs. Westerfeld said she has no accurate figures available as yet on the number of retired miners and their widows eligible in this county for the miners' pensions.

About half of the county's case load of 800 dependent children receiving assistance, are children whose father is dead. About a third of the total are in need because of separation, divorce or desertion of parents. The balance represents cases where there is illness or some other temporary or permanent disaster in the homes.

The 24 families involving about 70 children to be removed from public aid will be selected from among those regarded as best able to help themselves. In some cases where a divorced father contributes to the support of his children and this amount has been augmented by public funds, the fathers will be requested to provide more money. In some instances, Mrs. Westerfeld believes arrangements can be made to find work for some of the mothers and place children in nursing school or under nursing care during working hours.

Kelly Plant Schedules Vacation Shutdown

The Kelly-Springfield Tire Company will close its plant here during the week of July 4 for vacations and in order to make some mechanical changes.

Operations at the plant which normally employs some 2,500 production and maintenance workers will shut down the weekend prior to July 4 and will reopen Sunday night, July 11, a plant official said.

Employes who are entitled to one week's vacation are required by the contract to utilize the shutdown period. Those who are entitled to a second week's vacation take that time off from April 1 to December 31.

The halt in operations gives the plant an opportunity to make mechanical changes which would be impractical during normal operations.

YMCA Summer Gym, Swimming Schedules To Take Effect June 21

The summer gymnasium and swimming schedule at Central YMCA, effective from Monday, June 21, to Saturday, July 3, and from August 2 to September 8, was announced yesterday by Winfield H. Adam, acting general secretary.

Adam pointed out that both the gymnasium and swimming pool will be closed the week of August 23 for the annual cleaning and renovating of physical department facilities.

The gymnasium schedule will be as follows:

Junior "B" boys, Mondays and Saturdays, 9 a. m.; Junior "A" boys, Wednesdays, 9 a. m., and Saturdays, 10 a. m.; high school boys, Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, 10 a. m.

Junior "A" and "B" girls, Tuesdays and Thursdays, 9 a. m.; high school girls, Tuesdays and Thursdays, 10 a. m.

During the YMCA day camp period from July 6 to July 30, the following gymnasium schedule will be in effect for non-campers:

Junior "B" boys, Mondays and Saturdays, 9 a. m.; Junior "A" boys, Mondays and Saturdays, 10 a. m.; high school boys, evening periods; Junior "A" and "B" girls, Mondays and Saturdays, 11 a. m.

Every gymnasium period will be followed by a half-hour swimming period, Adam said.

Extra summer swimming periods, effective from June 21 to September 8, will be available Monday through Friday at 4 p. m. for grammar school boys and girls; and Mondays at 7 p. m. and Saturdays from 1 to 6 p. m. for high school boys and girls.

The adult gymnasium schedule effective during the winter remains unchanged, Adam said.

Textile Workers Drop Plans For Vote Next Week

Officials Say Action Taken "Reluctantly"

Officials of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, announced yesterday the union is "reluctantly abandoning" plans for a union security election at the Celanese plant next week.

The move is prompted by the insistence of the company that the legality of such an election in Maryland be determined by the National Labor Relations Board before such a poll is held at the Amcelle plant.

The union announcement by Playford Aldridge, president of the local, follows:

"The union is reluctantly abandoning its plans for holding the union security election at the Celanese plant on June 23, 24 and 25 as originally agreed to by representatives of the Celanese Corporation, Local 1874 and the National Labor Relations Board.

"Although the Celanese Corporation has made no further statement, nor communicated with us, since releasing a copy of its telegram of Tuesday withdrawing from its consent agreement, we have been advised that the National Labor Relations Board regional director answered the Company yesterday.

Aldridge continued:

"We are deeply concerned at the confusing situation which has been created and we wish to assure our members and the general public that Local 1874 is making every possible effort to have the matter clarified."

Firm Asks Opinion

A company spokesman last night explained the firm feels the legality of the whole matter should be determined before such a ballot is taken.

"We feel that the question of law involved in the election should be established before we proceed any further in the matter," he said, adding the firm cannot facilitate an election which is not legal in Maryland.

The company last week gave its approval to a consent election on the union shop question but later withdrew its signature in view of a recent board decision.

The National Labor Relations Board has been asked to rule on the question in the light of the "Greyhound decision." Ross M. Madden, Baltimore, Fifth regional director of the NLRB, expressed an opinion earlier this week that Maryland law does not make unionshop agreements contrary to public policy.

Progress Reported

Aldridge said the negotiating committee reported at special membership meetings held Wednesday night and yesterday morning that "considerable" progress has been made on specific contractual issues with the exception of monetary issues.

A contract meeting held earlier this week adjourned without a definite date for another meeting, but it was understood another session might be held this weekend or early next week.

Miss Brinker, employed at Rosenbaum's, plans to enter Frostburg State Teachers' College this fall for a course in English and History. She is a graduate of St. Mary's High School, class of 1947, where she completed the academic and commercial courses. Last year she attended Ursuline Academy for an additional year in commercial training. Miss Brinker is five feet eight inches tall, weighs 130 pounds, has ash blonde hair and gray-green eyes.

Legion Post 13 Plans Annual Election July 12

Will Nominate Candidates Tuesday

Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, will nominate officers at the next regular meeting Tuesday, June 22, at 8 p. m. at the post home, Thomas R. "Pat" Farrell, commander, announced yesterday.

Delegates and alternates to the State Department convention at Ocean City September 8 to 12, inclusive, also will be nominated.

The regular annual election will be held Monday, July 12, from 1 to 9 p. m. at the post home by written and secret ballot.

Farrell said he has appointed a nominating committee including Humphrey E. Johnston, chairman, John R. Kelly, Sr., co-chairman, and Raymond J. Ansbach. The duty of this committee is to receive names of members who desire to become candidates for offices, in order that a complete report can be made at the nomination meeting.

The post by-laws also permit nominations to be made from the floor at the June 22 meeting. Commander Farrell said any members desiring to be delegates or alternates at the state convention should also make this fact known to the nominating committee.

The results of the annual election will be announced and posted at the regular meeting July 13. Annual reports of the finance officer, committees and committee chairmen will be made at that meeting.

Farrell said luncheons will be served following the nomination and annual meetings.

Missing from her home at Chestnut Grove, near Swanton in Garrett County, since Sunday afternoon, Freda May Virginia Tasker, 15, was taken into custody yesterday shortly before noon at Westernport by Sheriff Edward Muir and Deputy Sheriff William Chappel.

The young Bruce High School girl told authorities she had run away from home because her "step-father required her to work like a horse in the woods" and she declared she would rather go anywhere but back home.

"The home I live in is like a dog house," she said. "We have four rooms but my mother, step-father and I live in two rooms because the others are not fit to live in."

The girl said her father, Wilbur Tasker, is working near Swanton cutting pulp wood and requires her to help "snake trees out of the woods, trim them and use a crosscut saw, cutting the timber into pulp wood." She exhibited her hands, showing them rough and blistered, like those of a man or boy accustomed to heavy labor.

Authorities explained to her that she should not run away from home because she is still under the age of responsibility. But she said, "I'd rather be any place else. Please don't send me back there."

Freda May told Sheriff Muir she walked from her home near Swanton to Westernport, where she stayed all night Sunday. On Monday, she said, she walked to Lonaconing, where she hoped to find an aunt whom she thinks lives there.

Yesterday, she was taken to Westernport by a young man whom she said she had met at the firemen's convention in Bloomington, when she went to the carnival there last week.

Freda May said she heard "they were hiring girls for the summer at Memorial Hospital" and wanted to come here to get a job. Her ambition, she declared, is to finish high school and go into a nurses training school.

Her step-father telephoned the sheriff's office late last night and said he was coming here to return the child home.

The show will be concluded with formation flying by P-80 Jet fighters from the Fourth Fighter Group, which will fly here from Andrews Air Field, Washington, D. C.

Last night members of the Greater Cumberland Squadron of the Air Force Association were assigned details for their part in the show.

The GCS along with the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce, Exchange Club and Mountain Air Service is sponsoring the show.

The squadron members will operate walkie-talkies from jeeps at the field and direct civilian and military crafts in landing and parking. Paul Adams and William Golladay will operate the jeeps.

Local Oil Men Call For Road Fund Protection

R. B. MacBeth Is Re-Elected Chairman

R. B. MacBeth was re-elected chairman of the local committee of the Maryland Petroleum Industries Committee last night at a meeting where members adopted a six-point program calling for protection of road funds by constitutional amendment.

All oil men realize the obligation to their motorist customers to assist them in every way possible to get a "square deal," J. P. Lanigan, executive secretary of the group and principal speaker at the meeting, declared.

"We recognize the fact that automotive taxes are necessary for highway construction," Lanigan said, adding, "We believe, however, that these taxes should be held at a fair and equitable level, and should not exceed the ability of motorists to pay."

The six-point resolution passed by local members calls for protection of road funds, pay-as-you-go highway finance, fair taxation of motor fuel, preservation of private enterprise on the highways, promotion of highway safety and repeal of federal excise taxes on gasoline and lubrication oils.

Lanigan declared Maryland motorists are paying special highway taxes at record rates and in record amounts. Current revenues, he said, are exceeding the most optimistic estimates, and "will certainly forestall the necessity for huge bond issues for highways."

The real problem confronting the State Roads Commission, Lanigan told local oil men, is not the availability of tax revenue, but one of shortage of labor, material, and equipment, plus inflated costs. For these reasons, "We must be patient" in the state government's efforts to rebuild the highway system, Lanigan asserted.

G. L. Humphreys was elected vice chairman of the local committee and E. J. Wagner was elected secretary.

Auxiliary Police Elect Harrison

Other officers elected are Harold Armbruster, president; F. E. Carder, vice president; Marshall C. Twigg, secretary; Glen K. Watson, treasurer. Trustees elected are Graydon S. Dunlap, James Sills and E. J. Keyser.

An entertainment committee was appointed with Sgt. John Newhouse being named chairman. Members assisting him are Edward Lease, Frederick C. "Buck" Dreyer, Joseph Grimm and Edward Keyser.

A by-laws committee was named with Edwin Lilya, John Newhouse and Edward Keyser composing the group who will meet and make plans for new by-laws and constitution. City Police Chief R. Emmett Flynn was appointed publicity chairman.

Members of the Auxiliary volunteered to assist with work at the Cumberland Airport Sunday, when the annual air show will be held. Members who have completed a first aid course wil be on hand to assist in any way possible.

The meeting last night was attended by approximately 40 members, who decided to hold one meeting a month, which will be held the third Thursday in each month.

NUMBER 22 RETIRES-- On Wednesday afternoon, June 30, Lawrence E. Crabtree, 63, will carry his last case of mail for Uncle Sam and the Cumberland Postoffice. Crabtree, who can be identified by his number, which is 22 on his cap, began serving local mail patrons on July 1, 1908, as a substitute carrier. He plans to take things easy and "fix things up" around his Woodlawn Terrace home.

"Most-Near Perfect" Mailman To Retire After Serving 40 Years

Lawrence E. Crabtree To Retire June 30

"I'm just going to take it easy and if by chance I strike gold sometime I'll certainly let you know," said Lawrence E. Crabtree, 416 Woodlawn Terrace, who is retiring from carrying Uncle Sam's mail after 40 years of service.

Crabtree will be completing his service with the government on June 30. He is 63 years old, started carrying mail when he was 23 and has been doing it constantly except for a brief period during World War II when he served with the Civil Service Board.

As far as humorous incidents during his travels, Crabtree says he doesn't remember many, but he has been bitten by a few dogs, never very seriously. He has worn out lots of shoes during his tenure, but can't say just how many.

He can remember when he first took the civil service examination in the fall of 1907, and went to work as a substitute carrier on July 1, 1908, at 30 cents a hour. He was later given a steady job, paying $600 a year, which "wasn't too bad at that time." At the present, carriers such as Crabtree draw approximately $3,100 according to length of service.

William Pearre was the postmaster when Crabtree was appointed carrier. He has served under five others and believes they all have been "fine fellows."

His fellow workers who crowd around after the day's work, call Crabtree "the most-near perfect carrier" they know. He never has a harsh word for anybody and does his work willingly, even when the big Christmas rush has them all going around in circles.

A member of St. Luke's Lutheran Church, the genial carrier has a wife and three daughters, two of whom, Edith and Bessie reside at home, and Mrs. Marie Diehl, also of Cumberland.

"Don't know why I'm retiring," Crabtree says, "except that I have lots of work to do around the house, which I have been putting off and I've got to get that done. From then on, I'm taking it easy.

"By the way," he continued, "my father, William M. Crabtree is still active, and we expect to get together more often."

Kelly Plant Schedules Vacation Shutdown

The Kelly-Springfield Tire Company will close its plant here during the week of July 4 for vacations and in order to make some mechanical changes.

Operations at the plant which normally employs some 2,500 production and maintenance workers will shut down the weekend prior to July 4 and will reopen Sunday night, July 11, a plant official said.

Employes who are entitled to one week's vacation are required by the contract to utilize the shutdown period. Those who are entitled to a second week's vacation take that time off from April 1 to December 31.

The halt in operations gives the plant an opportunity to make mechanical changes which would be impractical during normal operations.

TO BE ORDAINED—Rev. Chesley V. Daniel, vicar of St. Philip's Chapel and curate of Emmanuel Episcopal Church, will be ordained by Rt. Rev. Noble C. Powell, bishop of Maryland, at a service planned this morning at 11 o'clock in Emmanuel Church. The impressive ceremony will be the first of its kind held in Western Maryland for over a quarter of a century.

Smith Renamed To Local Chamber Of Commerce Post

Harold W. Smith, who has served as secretary of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce for the past 13 years, was reappointed for a year by the Board of Directors with the title of manager.

James R. Kendall, who came here recently as assistant secretary, was named assistant manager for the same period and Mrs. John L. Baggett was reappointed office secretary.

The change in titles for the staff, Smith said, conforms with common practice in Chambers of Commerce in recent years.

Plans were laid for a panel discussion on problems vital to the community at the annual meeting of the Chamber July 27.

The membership activities committee will meet next Friday at 12:45 p. m. in the Chamber's offices to map final plans for the meeting.

Increased industrial activity and improvements in traffic and parking have been suggested by members for the panel discussion.

The first report of the Membership committee, which is engaged in a campaign to increase the membership of the organization, will be made at a meeting today at 12:45 p. m.

Local organizations, the group was told, are favoring the establishment of an Appeals Review Board. Five of the 21 organizations asked to comment on the move have all favored the plan and officials of others, which have not met to act on the matter, have taken a similar stand.

The nominating committee was named at last night's meeting.

Goodyear Tire Workers Accept 11 Cent Boost

Agreement May Set Kelly Wage Pattern

CLEVELAND, June 17 (AP)—Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company and the United Rubber Workers (CIO) today announced an agreement on a wage increase of 11 cents an hour for 28,000 Goodyear workers.

This followed the pattern set five days ago for employes of Firestone Tire & Rubber Company.

The increase is retroactive to last Monday, after supplemental agreements on a new contract are reached during negotiations for individual plants.

In a vote at the Akron plant of B. F. Goodrich Company yesterday, members of the union overwhelmingly favored giving union officials authority to call a strike to enforce demands for wage increases. Negotiations will be resumed here Tuesday, however.

Negotiations currently are being conducted with the other member of the industry's "Big Four."

The Goodyear agreement was announced by union president L. S. Buckmaster and F. W. Climer, vice president in charge of industrial relations.

Wage boosts accepted by unions in the "Big Four" are expected to help set the pattern for a wage increase requested by Local 26, United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic Workers of America, CIO, at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant here.

The Kelly local set the stage for a wage boost February 11 when it notified the firm that it wished to reopen wage talks under the reopening clause in its contract.

The local in April made formal application for the standard 30 cent wage increase asked throughout the industry.

A company spokesman said the union began contract negotiations shortly after the wage issue was introduced and has been busy on the contract ever since.

The company and union will resume negotiations on the contract this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Flames Damage Eckhart Home

Flames caused by a short circuit last night caused minor damage to the roof of a 12-room stone residence near the bottom of Barn Hill on Route 40 in Eckhart.

The building, about 100 years old, was originally the home of the late Joseph Thomas, foreman of the Eckhart Mine, and is known as the "old Thomas home."

Firemen of the Frostburg and Clarysville departments reported the blaze apparently started in the attic, and burned through the roof at one point. Damage has not been estimated.

The fire, which was extinguished in half an hour, attracted hundreds of motorists driving along Route 40.

The building, owned by the Consolidated Fuel Company, is occupied by the families of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Edwards and Mr. and Mrs. Edward McKenzie.

Due to the short circuit, all lights in the two-story structure went out about 10:15. The McKenzies, who reside on the second floor, summoned firemen when they smelled smoke shortly after that time.

Both families carried out their clothing when the blaze was discovered.

More Reserve Officers May Have Active Duty

Volunteer active duty billets for approximately 3,000 additional Naval Reserve officers have been approved by the Bureau of Naval Personnel.

Line and Staff Corps officers of the Naval Reserve and Naval Air Reserve residing in the Fifth Naval District should submit applications to the Director of Distribution Commandant, Fifth Naval District, Naval Base, Norfolk 11, Va. Air Reserve personnel should send their applications to Commanding Officer, Naval Air Reserve Training Unit, Naval Air Station, Norfolk, Va.

Officers who have had sea experience or junior officers desiring such experience are preferred. Approximate maximum age limits for reserve officers on active duty are 45 for commanders, 40 for lieutenant commanders, and 36 for lieutenants and ensigns.

Mr. and Mrs. John D. Coby, Moorefield, W. Va., a son.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Nichols, Three Churches, W. Va., a son.

Hertz Describes Celanese Research In Developing Synthetic Materials

The Celanese industry is growing through its research in synthetic materials, D. B. Hertz, New York, assistant chief of the engineering research and development department of the Celanese Corporation of America, said yesterday.

Hertz was guest speaker at the luncheon meeting of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club, held at Central YMCA. He was introduced by Herbert Platt, superintendent of quality control at the Amcelle plant here.

Tracing the history of the development of synthetic materials, Hertz said as early as the 17th and 18th centuries, scientists foresaw such development.

About a century ago it was discovered that cellulose could be modified to produce cellulose nitrate, the basis for the future cellulose acetate.

The plastic substance known as celluloid was developed from cellulose nitrate about 20 years later, and in 1871 the Celluloid Corporation, the first plastics company in the world, was founded.

The corporation, Hertz said, is now the plastic manufacturing branch of the Celanese Corporation.

He described the processes of manufacturing cellulose acetate continuous filaments and staple yarn, pointing out in conclusion that from one raw material developed only a century ago, many materials are being developed through research to make beautiful fabrics and plastics for numerous modern uses.

Harry N. Iles, chairman of the interclub relations committee, announced plans for Cumberland members to attend a meeting of the Westminster club next Tuesday evening to present the Ninth Kiwanis Division's "traveling gavel" to that club

The Allegany County Welfare Board has been instructed to remove 24 families including about 70 children from public relief rolls for the next three months at least due to a shortage of funds, Mrs. Elinor M. Westerfeld, executive secretary, said last night.

Five persons must also be removed from the old age assistance roster, she said.

There is no change in the county's appropriation for general public assistance of aid to foster homes for children, Mrs. Westerfeld explained, and only the old age pension and aid to dependent children groups are immediately affected.

Some of the reduction in the old age pension case load may result from the transfer of retired coal miners to the United Mine Workers of America pension fund, Mrs. Westerfeld explained. Work has already started on this idea and some old-age assistance pensioners have already been transferred. Mrs. Westerfeld said she has no accurate figures available as yet on the number of retired miners and their widows eligible in this county for the miners' pensions.

About half of the county's case load of 800 dependent children receiving assistance, are children whose father is dead. About a third of the total are in need because of separation, divorce or desertion of parents. The balance represents cases where there is illness or some other temporary or permanent disaster in the homes.

The 24 families involving about 70 children to be removed from public aid will be selected from among those regarded as best able to help themselves. In some cases where a divorced father contributes to the support of his children and this amount has been augmented by public funds, the fathers will be requested to provide more money. In some instances, Mrs. Westerfeld believes arrangements can be made to find work for some of the mothers and place children in nursing school or under nursing care during working hours.
